Speaks To 250 At Harper College

Sen. Percy Calls War 'The World's Greatest Polluter'

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would become a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear earmufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

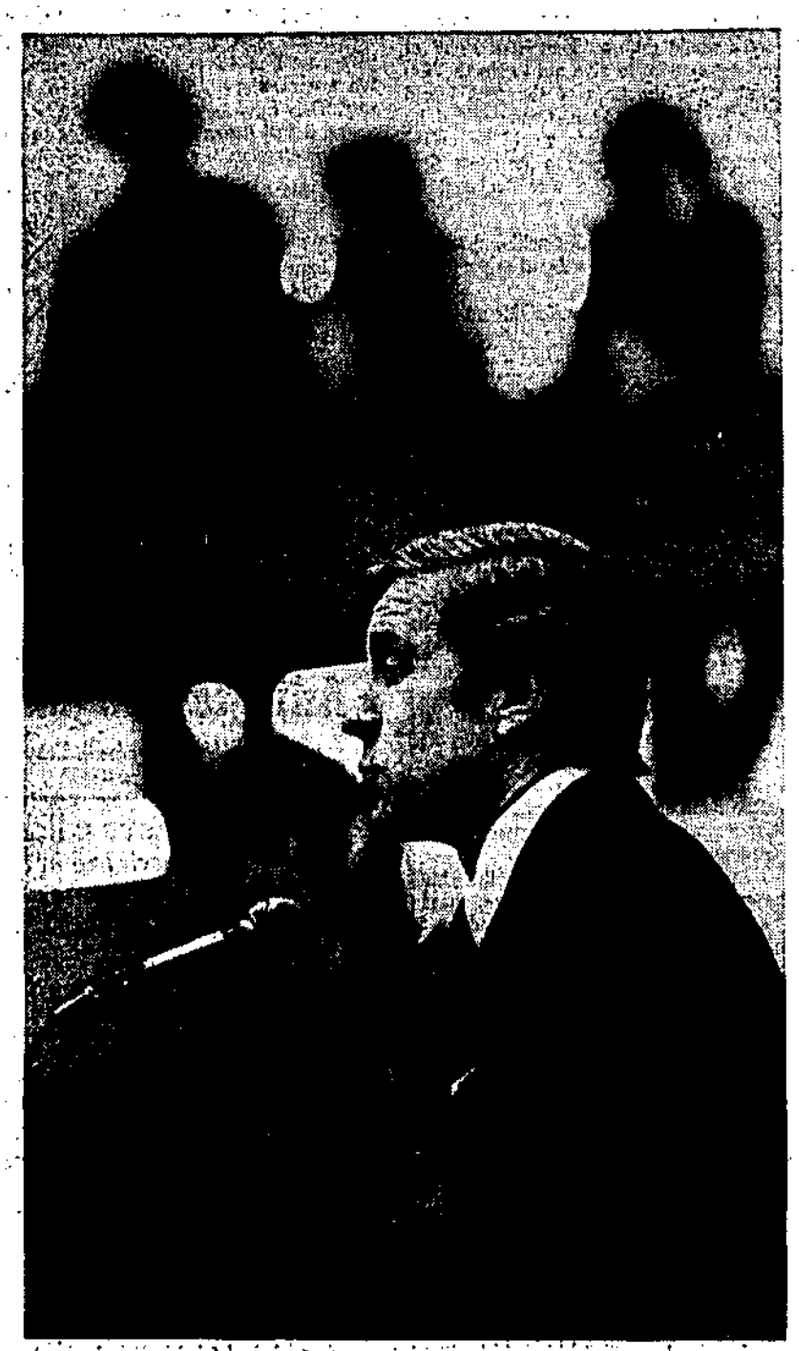

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Peter Justen Won't Seek A Full Term

by PAT GERLACH

Trustee Peter J. Justen will not be a candidate for election to a four-year Schaumburg Village Board term in the April municipal election.

Justen declined comment concerning his decision late Wednesday but indicated a statement would be forthcoming from Ray LeBeau, public relations officer for the village and for Schaumburg United Party (SUP).

According to reliable sources, Justen announced his intention against seeking a full term in a letter sent to Mayor Robert O. Atcher on Monday.

Previously a member of the village plan commission, Justen was appointed last February to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Gordon Mullins.

He was the first village board appointee to be selected by the executive board of SUP approximately six months after the establishment of the local, nationally non-partisan party by Atcher.

FOUR YEAR TERMS held by Denis Lederwood, Mathew Helsper and Justen expire next April. Ledgerwood was also a SUP nominee for appointment to fill the opening created when Jack Larsen resigned to move from the village in August.

Since his appointment, Justen, 35, has served as chairman of the village safety, health, recreation, environment and education committee, and has acted as village board liaison representative for the board of health and clean environment committee.

According to reliable sources, Justen, who is employed at Elk Grove offices of New York Life Insurance Co., cited the necessary expenditure of time as his reason for not continuing on the village board after April.

He plans, however, to serve out the remainder of his appointed term.

Justen's plans became known two days following the official announcement of SUP's first convention at which nominees for the April election will be chosen.

Also expiring next spring is the two-year term of Trustee Herbert J. Aigner.

Delegates of the SUP convention will choose nominees for all three of the four-year terms and the two-year term.

Blood Demand Outrunning Supply?

by JOANN VAN WYE

Talk of a blood shortage may become a self-fulfilling prophecy.

David Eisenman, a member of the Illinois Department of Public Health Blood Bank Program Task Force, made this statement yesterday at the 50th annual meeting of the Illinois Hospital Association at Arlington Park Towers.

"I don't think we will find any lack of volunteer donors when we clean house. We have turned volunteer donors into paid donors in many cases," said Eisenman, speaking at a workshop entitled "Blood: The Law, The Supply, The Demand."

Eisenman called on hospitals to eliminate blood replacement programs and guarantee donors a patient will not be charged for the blood they have donated. He also spoke in favor of regionalizing blood banks and transporting blood from one area to another if needed.

DR. THIRU Vaithianathan, president of the Illinois Association of Blood Banks, told people at the workshop the blood replacement program could not be eliminated until there is enough preplaced blood.

Sometime in the near future the program hopefully will reach the goal of preplacement of blood (enough blood in storage) and replacement programs can be changed or eliminated but until that time we must work with a replacement system, said Vaithianathan.

"We need to reduce the over-all demand on the supply," said Vaithianathan. He said this could be done partially by eliminating unnecessary blood transfusions.

"Boundaries must not be established to limit the transport of blood. Free transport should be made possible and easy," said Vaithianathan.

Richard G. French, senior partner of Howard and French, attorneys at law, spoke on the law in regards to blood.

The Supreme Court has held blood is a product and if it is defective there is a liability. It does not matter what degree of care is used, said French.

The only defense in a case where a patient charges he contracted hepatitis from a blood transfusion is proving the virus was not contracted because of the transfusion.

FRENCH explained malpractice was not involved in such cases but rather products liability.

Blood banks and hospitals have both been held liable in cases where hepatitis was contracted due to a blood transfusion, according to French. The liability of the doctor in such cases has still not been determined, he said.

"A law that went into effect July 1, 1971 has granted blood banks and hospitals a two-year immunity from such suits unless negligence is involved. The law will automatically be repealed on July 1, 1973.

The law that went into effect on October 1, 1972 and requires blood to be labelled either purchased or volunteer does not eliminate the possibility of a patient contracting hepatitis from a blood transfusion. It also does not prohibit use of purchased blood.

Effective July 1, 1973, physicians will be required to use volunteer blood when available. Purchased blood can still be used but doctors will be required to make a written explanation of why the purchased blood was used and place it in the hospital records, said French.

3 Teams Lead Touch Football League

Teams from the Buggywhip Lounge, Kemmerly Real Estates and Sportsmen Liquors are currently riding atop the Schaumburg Park District Men's Touch Football League.

The Buggywhip team posted the biggest win of the season, downing the Rookies 30 to 0 behind five touchdown passes by Bill Hannon.

In other contests, the Kemmerly Real Estate Colts bent the Schaumburg Plaza Bombers 25 to 12 and the Sportsmen Liquors Chargers outgunned the Airport Lounge 26 to 13 in a game which saw six touchdown passes thrown by both teams.

Township Agrees To Fund Tax Collector Post

In an attempt to make possible a reversal of a court ruling abolishing township tax collectors, the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors Wednesday agreed to support funding for the post.

The board will meet again in a recessed session at 8 p.m. Wednesday to take action on a resolution supporting appropriations of funds for township tax collectors. The board included a $7,000 salary and equal amount for office costs when it prepared this year's appropriation ordinance, Township Sup. Vernon Laubenstein said. Because of the court decision, which transferred tax collection duties to the county, other townships might not appropriate funds for the post, and the money allocated by Schaumburg Township will not be spent, said Laubenstein.

However, the court action is being contested. Judges could refuse to reverse it if townships have not allocated funds for the collector, reasoning they would not be able to pay a salary, said Laubenstein.

Schaumburg Township's proposed resolution would urge others to follow their lead, and have funds available, eliminating the potential restraint on a judicial reversal.

Haunted House Opens On Mansfield Court

A haunted house will be open from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the home of Henre Sawicki, 819 Mansfield Ct., Schaumburg.

Mrs. Sawicki said she will lead children through the haunted house and introduce them to various monsters and ghosts. The charge for the brief tour is 15 cents.

Proceeds will be donated to Kay's Animal Shelter, Arlington Heights.

The shelter works on a charity basis, Mrs. Sawicki said, and need money to buy cages for the animals it cares for. The animals are either strays or unwanted by their owners.

Wednesday, 57 children toured the haunted house, raising $8.55 for the shelter. Mrs. Sawicki said she has 10 children volunteering to dress as monsters and ghosts for the occasion.

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

All Agree: We're Glad It's Over

Many Skeptical About Cease Fire

For the people in the street and for suburban representatives in Washington the reaction was the same: "We're glad it looks like it's over."

Immediate suburban reaction to yesterday's blockbuster announcement that a cease fire agreement in Vietnam could be reached in a matter of weeks was greeted almost universally as glad tidings, although many persons — both public and private — saw political motives behind the timing of the announcement.

Herald spot surveys yesterday afternoon at Randhurst and Woodfield showed that only half of the 40 people interviewed had not yet heard about the promise of a cease fire. But when informed of the announcement and asked if they thought it was politically timed, they answered yes by a margin of three to one.

Area congressmen reaching for a reaction responded with similar guarded optimism.

CONGRESSMAN Philip Crane (R-13th) told the Herald yesterday he was "guardedly hopeful" about the news and said he thought the Hanoi decision to sign a cease fire came as the result of "our bombing which has an impact, Hanoi's ability to read the polls in the Presidential race and the concessions which may be granted the North Vietnamese."

Crane said he thought some of the preliminary agreements with the North Vietnamese were "perfectly reasonable and just," but said some matters, such as the removal of all North Vietnamese forces from all foreign soil in Indochina should be required, too.

The Congressman said he thought Congress would take a "long hard look" at any agreement to give aid to North Vietnam along the lines of the post World War II Marshall Plan. Crane added he saw no way Congress would be called upon to formally agree to the cease fire, since this was not a war declared by Congress.

But with technicalities aside, suburban reaction to the news was strongly favorable:

— MRS. PAT Pappas of Mount Prospect said "I think that it is great. I hope they pull it through. At first I thought it was political but I still feel Nixon is for peace.

— Bob Alcaro of Elk Grove Village: "Kissinger has done a heck of a job.

"I'm thrilled to hear about it. I disagree that we should now go in and help North and South Vietnam. If we pull out let's pull out economically, too. I don't think it's politically motivated, too many people have been working on it for too long."

— Mrs. Doris Lehman and Mrs. Lenore Tarchala, both of Arlington Heights: "We saw him (Kissinger) on television. We are overjoyed. It is the end of the war. They have been working on this for years, it just doesn't have anything to do with the election."

— SHARON BALBOA, Des Plaines: "I'm for it. I don't think it was politically motivated. I'm for Nixon all the way."

— Jean Kaladycz, Arlington Heights: "I'm glad to hear about it even though it was politically motivated. It will probably help Nixon (in the election)."

— Mrs. Carol Cannon, Mount Prospect: "It seems to be politically motivated but I hate to think that. I'm in favor of ending the war. I don't think anyone is for war."

There were also skeptics who saw the action as a purely political move:

— BARBARA MENTA, Schaumburg: "This is just a gimmick and perfect timing on their part."

— Marilyn Hallihan, Mount Prospect: "Yes it was politically motivated and par for the course. It (Vietnam) is such a botched up affair, it could have been ended a long time ago if they had cut off funds."

— Sam Payson, Hoffman Estates: "I don't believe it. It is politically motivated. Even if they do have something it will be temporary and the war will start right over again."

— Mrs. Duane Quaranta, Palatine: "I've got to see it to believe it."

— Joseph Mag, Mount Prospect: "I'm 100 per cent for it, but it should have been done a long time ago and I think Nixon could have done it sooner."

ALSO REACTING to the announcement was Ed Frank of Hoffman Estates, congressional candidate for the 12th District and opponent of Crane in November's election. Frank said "I feel we've lost 20,000 young men needlessly and something could have been done to end the war a long time ago. Congress probably will have no voice in the arrangements — this has been a president's war all along."

And Congressman Harold Collier, (R-10th) had this reaction: "I, like about everybody else, can think of nothing that would be more welcome to the people of this country than our final extrication from the quagmire of Southeast Asia."

Collier said the North Vietnamese were offered the same agreement last January and wondered "why they agreed to this now at this particular time."

Treaty Would Give Nixon Advantage, Says Kennedy

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

A preelection Vietnam peace treaty will give President Richard Nixon a "short-run advantage," Sen. Edward Kennedy said in Niles yesterday.

At a short press conference before a campaign speech boosting the 10th Congressional District campaign of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, Kennedy said he is "hopeful ... prayerful" that peace will be reached in Vietnam.

"The impact of such an end ... the return of American prisoners would be a benefit to the current administration," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

Kennedy warned that "parents who have lost 22,000 sons in Vietnam ... will wonder what factors exist today that didn't exist in January, 1969. It hasn't changed that much."

SEN. GEORGE McGovern, Democratic presidential candidate, was credited with "playing a great role" in bringing the United States to a peace settlement by Kennedy.

"Why has it taken three years, 11 months and three weeks?" he asked. "When the president went to the people in 1968, he said he had a plan to end the war. He didn't say the plan was contingent on (South Vietnam President Nguyen Van) Thieu. I don't think America's foreign policy should be dependent on Thieu.

"Mr. Thieu has affected an absolute veto on American foreign policy in Vietnam," he said. "That has been the fundamental failure of America.

"All of us want this war to end," he said, calling Thieu "unacceptable."

KENNEDY BEGAN his Illinois campaign swing by greeting commuters at north suburban transit terminals. He had breakfast with Mikva before his 8:30 a.m. speech at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

The senator later appeared at O'Hare Airport with Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dan Walker.

Kennedy's speech before the high school students praised Mikva, urged youth political participation and criticized Nixon foreign policy.

"I don't know of any genuine interest and concern about what is happening in Latin America," he said, groping for words to describe genocide in Bangladesh and problems of minority groups through the world.

"WE'VE HAD FOUR years of rising prices and soaring unemployment and we can't afford four more," he said, urging election of Mikva and McGovern.

"Wherever I travel this year, I find that Americans are fed up — fed up with war, fed up with prices that won't stop rising, fed up with jobs that can't be found, fed up with tax loopholes that can't be closed, fed up with streets that can't be safe, fed up with lakes that can't be cleaned; above all, fed up with government that can't perform."

"Let's have four years of peace and prosperity. Let's have four years of hope and reconciliation," Kennedy said.

Campaign Offices In 'Last Hurrah'

by STEVE BROWN

"It's just dull, basic political work," said one campaign worker in describing the efforts in several local campaign offices in the closing days of the 1972 campaign.

That it might be, but canvassing, telephone polls and envelope stuffing comprises the backbone of any successful political campaign. These tasks make up the brunt of work being done by the campaign groups in the offices for President Richard Nixon and Sen. Charles Percy that have opened in Schaumburg.

While preparing for a visit by the senator yesterday, Catheryn Kilgore and Nancy Larson, local organizers of the Citizens for Percy effort, went about the task of phone canvassing and making the final preparations for election day efforts.

From a bare-walled store front office, dotted with Percy posters in the Town Square shopping center, volunteers have coordinated most of the campaign work for Schaumburg Palatine Barrington and Hanover townships.

A BATTERY OF phones set on a hodge podge collection of tables and desks suggests the office was not designed for opulent campaign entertaining, but for identifying Percy supporters and getting them to the polls.

"We have gotten a lot of help from all age groups," Mrs. Larson said. She said married women, teenagers and other volunteers of all sizes and shapes have helped in the effort. In the final drive down to election day, workers are busy updating campaign literature to include newspaper endorsements for the senator's reelection and other recent developments.

A mood of quiet confidence prevails in the Percy headquarters and the Nixon camp which is located down the street in the Weatherway shopping center.

There Mrs. Barbara MacEachron, office manger, explains the major canvassing work for Schaumburg Township has been completed.

"WE ARE IN THE process of making final arrangements for election day," she said. Plans for a voter information service, precinct work and transportation to the polls are being coordinated in the office.

Working in conjunction with the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township, Mrs. MacEachron said this year's campaign has been one of the most intensive and highly organized she has ever witnessed.

Like the Percy group, Mrs. MacEachron said volunteer help has been plentiful, especially from high school age students.

While many are still too young to vote, the high schoolers have been working in several areas as part of social studies term projects.

BOTH OFFICES are well-stocked with literature, bumper stickers, buttons and all the trappings of an active campaign headquarters.

Information about the Nixon campaign can be obtained by calling 894-4136, Mrs. MacEachron said.

Details on the Percy campaign can be obtained by calling 894-0300. Mrs. Larson also mentioned volunteers are still needed to canvass some areas. In addition to Percy's visit, a special coffee will be held at the headquarters during the senator's television special Monday evening.

AN APPLE FOR Teacher is the tribute Hoffman Estates Woman's Club members selected to express their appreciation for a job well done to the more than 600 teachers in private and public schools in Schaumburg Township, Dist. 54. Mrs. John Butler had help from art teacher Jim Shartle as she distributed the apples during American Education Week, celebrated this week.

How Will 'Howie' Affect Fire, Police Protection?

The status of impact studies of the proposed Howie-in-the-Hills development and location of fire and school sites on Moon Lake Village property were discussed Wednesday by the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Richard Regan, commission chairman, said he has received an outline of the impact study that will determine the effect of the development on village service and police and fire protection.

The outline did not contain anything substantive, he said, but recommendations on fire protection will be finished shortly.

PLAN COMMISSION members should walk over the Howie site if they have not yet done so, Regan said. He also said he will encourage the village to take some aerial photographs of the site, which would aid in planning development.

The photographs would show drainage on the site and high water marks among other things, he said.

Lawyers for Robin Construction Co., developers of Moon Lake Village, have agreed to move a fire station site 100 yards, as requested, Regan said. The original problem with moving the site involved the location of the golf course at Moon Lake Village.

Surveys of the school and fire sites are being made to determine their suitability for building, Regan said.

HOWEVER, ED Kalassa, commission member and deputy fire chief, said neither he nor the school district have been contacted about the sites. Consequently, action will not be taken on dedication of two streets to the village until the situation is cleared up, Regan said.

In other reports, Regan announced a special commission hearing will be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 1 to consider a map change allowing rezoning to permit the construction of a restaurant.

Kaufman and Broad Barrington Homes, Inc., want to build a restaurant on the northeast corner of Barrington and Hassell roads. The property is presently zoned for manufacturing, and would have to be rezoned for business to allow the restaurant.

In other discussion, the outline of the proposed bill requiring state certification of building inspectors is finished, Regan also announced. After the attorney general's office determines the constitutionality of the bill, it will be presented to the state legislature at its next session, Regan said.

A VERY TENTATIVE map of proposed street renaming in accordance with the grid system is on display in the basement of the municipal building and available for public viewing, Regan said.

A committee has formulated rules for the future naming of streets, Roger Bergstrom, commission member said. A tentative list has been developed for renaming existing streets in accordance with these rules, he said.

Street names are being changed subject to public hearing to eliminate the existing confusion. Some streets in the village change names on either side of an intersection and others duplicate ones in Schaumburg.

ADDITIONALLY, the grid system establishes the intersection of Roselle and Schaumburg roads as the center point. Stteets are identified as north, south, east, or west, in relation to the intersection.

The commission also discussed access to the new Hoffman Estates High School. Homeowner associations in the area will each come up with suggestions for access' Regan said, and make recommendations to the commission.

Main concern involves sidewalks for students walking to school. Proposals include a sidewalk from the end of Glenlake Drive to the western boundary of the school and sidewalks along Gannon Drive north to the school, Regan said.

The principal of the new high school, Thomas Hillesheim, said he hoped within two or three weeks decisions would be made about the attendance boundaries of the new school.

Percy Wins Kids' Votes

For Republican Sen. Charles Percy, a full day of campaigning in the suburbs ended yesterday with cookies, kids and kudos at the Far Northwest Citizens for Percy headquarters in Schaumburg.

Republican hopefuls and notables were present, but the biggest part of the crowd was youngsters and workers.

Percy talked to the crowd from a table top, and told the kids "I'm for the 12-year-old vote." He urged them to convince their teachers that his 10 a.m. Monday television coffee is a special they should not miss. He explained he plans to reach more than 100,000 people with the help of nine television stations throughout the state.

"Tell your teachers and your parents to tune in Channel 9," said Percy. He added that 2,500 coffees in homes throughout the state have been scheduled for that time, with every one set to watch the program.

"I'll be just like Santa Claus. I'm not going to miss anyone's house," said Percy.

Directing his attention to the oldsters in the crowd, he lauded the success of the administration in negotiations to end the Vietnam War.

Percy signed autographs for an estimated 50 youngsters at the headquarters.

Civic Center Brick Problem Solved

The Schaumburg Civic Center now under construction will be built with glazed bricks which can be produced without violating federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards.

The village board this week approved use of a brick similar to the type it originally selected, but produced under a process conforming with federal requirements. The first choice had been salt glazed bricks, but the board learned the EPA plans to halt future production because of smoke emissions from the process.

In recommending the change, Trustee Herb Aigner said the village was advised it would not affect project costs.

The board also approved a change in the damp proofing process for the building, which will raise costs $1,155, also recommended by Aigner.

SEEKING OF BIDS for autos for the building inspection and police departments was approved by the board. Two cars will be purchased for the inspectors, and 11 for police. The board was told Police Chief Martin Conroy had obtained bids for his department, without board authorization, and agreed to hold those bids until Nov. 14, when the others will be opened. Bidders are to be notified and asked if their quotes will remain firm with the 2-week delay.

Administrator John Coste said Conroy got the bids after a conversation with him, and said there apparently was a misunderstanding. Coste said he intended to ask the board this week for authority to get the police car bids. Village board regulations require authorization from the trustees before bids are solicited.

The board also approved the appointment of Mrs. Ray LeBeau as temporary chairman of the aesthetics committee. Two committee seats remain to be filled. Mayor Robert Atcher said the committee would choose its own chairman when the last appointments have been made.

THE BOARD accepted dedication for a right-of-way along Wise Road, and approved easement agreements with two residents of Laurette Court. The right-of-way is to permit installation of traffic signals and channelization of the intersection of Wise and Roselle roads. The easements are to allow installation of a storm sewer.

Yard size variations were granted to Morwell Builders, developers of Timbercrest subdivision, for five homes improperly placed on lots. Atcher reported he had been informed by the firm's attorney it will not contest a suit filed by the village seeking fines for the misplacements.

An agreement for the granting of variances to Kennedy Development Co. for Timbercrest Woods also received final approval, as did a liquor law amendment permitting sale of liquor on election days.

Twinbrook YMCA was granted a waiver of fees for a business license, permitting it to sell Christmas trees in December to benefit the 'Y'.

Plan Unit Receives Requests

Homeowners' requests relating to the proposed shopping center on Higgins Road and Governor's Lane were presented to the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission Wednesday.

The Barrington Square Homeowners' Association presented their list of requests after they reviewed the plans of the proposed Robert Hall Village shopping center to be developed by Jack Jacobs and Co.

The shopping center would abut their residential complex along Governor's Lane.

The plan commission agreed to encourage Jacobs to include their requests in the center's final plans. Only preliminary site plan approval has been granted thus far.

THE RESIDENTS' requests include the installation of a green vinyl chain link fence along Governor's Lane, with shrubbery on the homeowners' side. They agreed to maintain the shrubbery.

Additionally, they asked for landscaping along Jack Jacobs' side of the fence. A stop light at Governor's Lane and Higgins Road, shopping center lights beamed to the west away from their homes, and placement of the proposed liquor store a reasonable distance away from their property also were requested.

The permanent chain link fence is necessary, a representative of the association said, to prevent children from running into the center's parking lot. The shrubbery would make the fence more attractive, the representative said.

Traffic generated by the liquor store also is a concern. Jacobs' plan indicated the store would be along Governor's Lane, close to the property line.

Some Barrington Square homes are only 20 to 30 feet from the property line, the representative said.

Expanded Hockey Program Planned

A vastly expanded hockey program, featuring two stars from the semi-professional Chicago Warriors hockey team, will be launched next month by the Schaumburg Park District.

Registration for the winter program is currently under way and closes Nov. 4.

"We feel we will be offering a high quality program for youngsters of all ages," said Jeff Fox, park district superintendent of recreation.

Ron Byrne and Eric Thiessen, both regulars on the United States Hockey Leagues' Chicago entry, will be coordinating all phases of the program and instructing the youngsters in fundamentals of the sport, Fox said.

BOTH MEN HAVE worked with hockey programs for youngsters in the U.S. and Canada, Fox said.

"This won't just be a few sessions of watching these players slap the puck around for awhile," Fox said.

Registration fees for the program are $10, with $5 for each additional boy from a family. The program will be conducted on two lighted outdoor rinks at Dooley School and Atcher Park.

The hockey program, which consists of both competitive play and instructional sessions, is open to boys seven through 17 years old.

BOYS MAY PICK up a list of needed equipment when they register for the program. The park district will supply goalie's gear.

The opening orientation meeting for the program will be held Nov. 9. Boys seven and eight years old will meet at 5 p.m., nine and 10-year-olds at 6 p.m., 11 and 12-year-olds at 7 p.m., 13 and 14-year-olds at 8 p.m. and 15 through 17-year-olds at 9 p.m.

The program will hold sessions throughout the season, Fox said.

To combat the possibility of above freezing temperatures during the first few weeks of the program, the district has reserved two schools for films, lectures and positional hockey for the boys in the program, Fox said.

"THIS WAY WE can carry out the instruction even if the ice is bad," Fox explained.

Fox said three special clinics for everyone in the park district and several trips to Warrior's games are being planned in conjunction with the program.

More information about the hockey progran can be obtained frm the park district by calling 894-4660 daily.

High School Student Officers Elected

In a recent student election, the following students were elected officers in Schaumburg High School Office Occupation classes for the 1972-73 term.

In the first-hour class, Juanita Lucchesi of Hanover Park was elected president; Debbie Loeffler, Schaumburg, vice president; Nancy Dittmer, Schaumburg, secretary, and Debbie Holton, Schaumburg treasurer.

Second hour class officers are, Mary Ann Uhler, Schaumburg, president; Jeanine Kettner, Schaumburg, vice president; Patti Schiller, Hanover Park, secretary, and Sue Trendel, Schaumburg, treasurer.

Office Occupation students attend school in the morning and receive credit and a grade for work in local offices after morning classes. Employers assist in training of office occupation students by giving them on the job training and instruction, said staff coordinator Mrs. Diane Reifschneider.

Chamber Reveals 'Welcome' Plan

A new greeters service to welcome residents to Schaumburg was announced Wednesday by the Greater Schaumburg Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

The greeters service, to be sponsored by the chamber, will be directed by Janet Dixon of Schaumburg. Mrs. Dixon and a team of assistants are expected to visit 2,000 residents in the coming year, said Robert Touchberry, chairman of the chamber's retail committee.

The service will provide residents with brochures and maps telling about the village's public services. Retailers interested in subscribing to the greeters service may contact the chamber at 882-2042.

At the dinner meeting, held at The Lancer Restaurant, chamber Pres. John Mathias reviewed the group's first year telling how the chamber was conceived by Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher during the summer of 1971.

It was a time prior to the opening of Woodfield Mall and only four of the ten auto agencies in Schaumburg were open, he added.

He cited the growth of commerce during the chamber's first year and added the expectations of growth in Schaumburg that will make the community a new commercial and entertainment hub for the Chicago area.

These expectations, he said, present a challenge for the chamber that will require full participation by members.

42 Get Counseling From Elk Grove Agency

A total of 42 clients from Schaumburg Township have been counseled at the township outpost of Elk Grove Community Service since Sept. 1.

At Wednesday's meeting of the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors, Connnie Schoeld, chairman of the Mental Health Board reported service to clients has risen since Elk Grove began mental health and counseling services several weeks ago.

Of those township residents seen at the present temporary outpost office at The Buttery on Roselle Road, 15 are from Schaumburg, 17 from Hoffman Estates, three from Hanover Park, two from Rolling Meadows and one from Roselle.

Mrs. Schoeld said the outpost is now averaging 10 clients a week, with others being seen at the Elk Grove Community Services offices on Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village.

TOWNSHIP SUPV. VERN Laubenstein said Elk Grove Community services has offered its service to the township with extreme interest.

In related action, the township board approved relocation of the outpost to the old Hoffman Estates Village Hall on Illinois Boulevard in Hoffman Estates. The renovated building now being leased to various agencies by the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club is centrally located within the township, and offers more private counseling facilities.

The Outpost worker will use a locked office and have the use of another room for group counseling. The Woman's Club will charge $10 a month rental for the facility. The Elk Grove worker will decorate the office himself.

ELK GROVE Community Services will pay the token rent and for the installation of a telephone.

Laubenstein assured Mrs. Schoeld the township was interested in placing the outpost at the most convenient location. He agreed the old quarters in a small office of the township offices were not suitable. However, Laubenstein said the township may in the near future have access to expanded township office facilities, and asked Mrs. Schoeld not to close the door to the possibility of another move.

Laubenstein said he would like to see township service offered under one roof.

The outpost should be re-located to the new office within a week.

More State Aid Than Dual Districts

High School Board To Study Unit District Formation

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education has decided to study the impact of forming a unit school district in reaction to a move in Elk Grove Township to form a unit district in that area.

The board members agreed Wednesday, in their first discussion of the studies now going on in Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59, that it is time to undertake a study on forming a unit district in the entire Dist. 214 area.

A unit district includes all grades from kindergarten through high school, unlike the present "dual district" structure in the Northwest suburbs with elementary districts separate from the high school district.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education awarded a contract in August to a consultant to study the possibility of forming one or more unit districts in their area, which occupies the southern part of Dist. 214.

A PRELIMINARY report by the consultant indicated that some kind of unit district in the Dist. 59 area is possible. A unit district would remove Elk Grove and Forest View high schools, or Elk Grove High School alone, from the control of Dist. 214, depending on how boundaries are drawn.

A citizens committee now has been formed in Dist. 59 to continue studying the possibility of a unit district.

Dist. 214 Board Pres. Ray Erickson noted that under the law a petition could be filed with County School Supt. Richard Martwick with 200 signatures asking that a unit district be formed in the Elk Grove area.

By law, the petition would be reviewed by the county and state school superintendents, a public hearing would be held and, if the petition were approved, a referendum on forming the new district would be held only in the area to be unified.

"When this kind of thing happens there isn't much chance for the rest of an area to have a voice," Erickson said. "I think Dist. 214 should consider undertaking its own study on whether to form a unit district out of all of 214 so there will be input from the whole district."

IN AGREEING with Erickson, board members added that school boards in the other five elementary districts that send students to Dist. 214 should be invited to take part in any study.

Board member Jack Costello said in the past the Dist. 214 board has avoided leading any move toward unification rather than put pressure on the elementary districts.

However, he added, "If the southern half of the district is talking about splitting away, it's not a matter anymore of Dist. 214 forcing its thoughts and opinions on other districts."

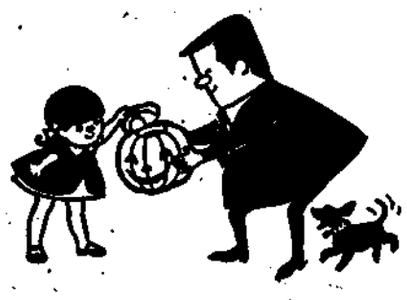

One of the purposes of the study, board members agreed, would be to assess the financial impact of the formation of one or more unit district.

THE STATE school aid formula favors unit districts and a unit district would receive more state aid than the present dual districts do. In addition, board members noted, if Dist. 59 forms a unit the general wealth of the Wheeling Township portion of Dist. 214 would be substantially reduced.

Dist. 59 contains about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 enrollment and about 40 percent of its assessed value, which determine the amount of property tax money that can be raised.

Board members agreed that the first step Dist. 214 will take in studying the unit district issue will be to invite board members and administrators from all feeder elementary districts to a meeting to discuss the question.

Erickson added, "A feasibility study will keep our options open and we may find out a unit district is not feasible, but we have an obligation to study it."

It Happens Every Autumn— Turn Clock Back An Hour

The sun will rise and set as always Sunday morning but you'll have to get up an hour earlier to welcome it.

Sunday morning at 2 p.m. is the end of daylight savings time and the beginning of standard time. Clocks should be turned back one hour, allowing an extra 60 minutes of sleep.

For most of the country, including Illinois, daylight savings time will end. But in some states, including Michigan and Indiana, the practice is ignored.

The first observance of daylight savings time came during World War I when Congress, in 1917, passed legislation authorizing that the time be moved up one hour beginning the last Sunday in March to the last Sunday in October. It served to conserve energy while the war effort was going on. It took effect in 1918 but was repealed in 1919 because farmers objected that their working schedules would be unfairly readjusted.

After the war the proposal lost support until World War II when Congress once again enacted legislation that provided for daylight savings time, but for the year around, not just for a few months. This requirement lasted from February, 1942 through October, 1945.

Interest remained high in the United States after the war and by 1966 36 states were following the daylight savings time policy. But some confusion arose because of the reluctance of the other states to comply.

So in 1966, Congress once again passed legislation, the Uniform Time Act, which stipulated that all states were to go on daylight savings time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

But any state was allowed to exempt itself from this law if it passed a law of its own keeping it on standard time all year as they do in Michigan and Indiana.

Little Action As Congress Adjourns

Congress adjourned in mid-week last week after having experienced difficulty in gathering quorums in both houses. Prior to adjournments, only a few matters were acted on in either house.

Both the Senate and the House, however, voted to approve the Federal Water Pollution Control Act which had been returned by President Nixon without his signature.

Following is a summary of the voting records of Illinois' two senators, Republican Charles H. Percy and Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III and Northwest suburban congressmen Harold Collier, R-10th, Philip M. Crane, R-13th, and Robert McClory, R-12th.

Also included in the summary are Rep. Abner Mikva, D-2nd, candidate for reelection in the new 10th Congressional District, and Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-11th, candidate for the U.S. Senate.

QUORUM CALLS

Senate, none.

House, three, with Collier and McClory present for one; Crane, Mikva and Pucinski absent at all.

Politicians Not Telling Sources Of Funds

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Asking politicians where they get the money to line their campaign kitties is like asking women their age.

You're not always sure of getting a straight answer. But the question must be asked since money — how much a candidate gets and who gives it — can sharply affect what goes on in statehouse corridors.

An aide to Democratic gubernatorial candidate Daniel Walker answered this way when asked where Walker's campaign loot comes from:

"John Q. Public," she said with a chuckle. It was another way of saying Walker's war chest contributors will remain anonymous.

The same is true of Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie who called for laws to disclose "the identity of large campaign contributors" just after Democratic Secretary of State Paul Powell died and left behind an unexplained $800,000 cash hoard two years ago.

Despite his call for disclosure, Ogilvie won't reveal who's helping his reelection effort.

"I'M NOT GOING to give you any names," said Bob Jones of the governor's money collection finance committee. "It wouldn't be fair to those who give because then they might be hit for contributions by everyone, and maybe they only want to give to one candidate."

A more frequent explanation offered by the gubernatorial candidates themselves is that prominent members of the opposite party have chipped in to their kitties and unilateral disclosure would curtail further contributions by "opposite party" backers.

Both Walker and Ogilvie hasten to add they'd be glad to bare their benefactors — just as soon as the other one does or a law is passed requiring campaign disclosures.

Walker and Ogilvie will talk about how much money they've got to spend.

Jones said the governor's finance committee has raised almost $2 million — "just about all you can raise for a gubernatorial race."

Norton Kay, Walker's media director, laughed at the $2 million figure. "They're spending more like $4 million to $5 million," Kay said. "They have to be contracting for $1 million worth of TV time alone."

Kay charged Ogilvie's campaign dollars come from "people who do business with the state." Walker's dough, on the other hand, comes chiefly from small contributors outside the political mainstream, according to Kay.

JONES SAID Ogilvie's campaign revenue was raised mainly via two dinners. "It came from a good mix of people," he said.

"A lot of businesses, naturally, have been very generous. But it's come from all kinds of people."

One statewide candidate — GOP comptroller nominee George Lindberg — has revealed his contributors but the list turned up nothing noteworthy and his action prompted no one else to follow suit.

Lindberg expects to spend roughly $100,000 and his Democratic foe, Dean Barringer of Anna, estimates his campaign outlay at $75,000.

In the race for attorney general, incumbent Republican William J. Scott said he had spent $198,000 with two weeks left in the campaign. Thomas G. Lyons, Scott's Democratic challenger from Chicago, puts his campaign costs at $200,000.

In the contest for secretary of state, Democrat Michael Howlett lists his campaign expenditures at between $225,000 and $250,000. GOP Cook County Chairman Edmund Kucharski says he expects to spend some $350,000 in his bid to keep the office in GOP hands.

In the U.S. Senate race between incumbent Republican Charles H. Percy and Democratic Congressman Roman Pucinski, Percy holds a clear campaign collection edge according to campaign disclosure reports filed by both under federal law.

The reports showed Percy received $1,015,810 between April 7, the first day contributions over $100 had to be reported, and the end of August. Pucinski raised $192,653 during the same period.

Larson Poll:

Nixon, Walker, Percy Leading

A special voter attitude poll of Chicago wards and suburban Cook County reveals that President Nixon is clearly the leader in Cook County, Dan Walker is ahead in the gubernatorial race when city and suburbs are combined, and Charles Percy is substantially ahead of Roman Pucinski in the race for the U. S. Senate.

Political trends in Cook County are being measured exclusively for the Herald under the direction of Carl M. Larson, an Arlington Heights resident and professor of marketing at the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle Campus.

All the accepted professional standards and techniques are being used in the survey. The research team is being led by Mary Ellen Pacewicz of Chicago, a senior in marketing at Circle.

The survey is being conducted in two stages. The initial sampling was made between Oct. 7 and Oct. 15.

The final stage of the poll is now under way and will be published in the Herald Friday, Nov. 3.

CONCESSION STAND attendant Mary Molleken has become a ballot box watcher these days. An employe of the Mount Prospect Cinema, part of the General Cinema Corp. chain, she hands out either a McGovern or a Nixon straw with each drink she sells. The choice is up to the buyer, with the results so far shown on the tally board.

Traffic Safety Exhibit Set

Promoting greater safety on streets and highways is the purpose of an Illinois Traffic Safety Equipment Exhibit opening this weekend at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect.

The exhibit is sponsored by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee and contains 14 display items including the new Illinois breath testing machine; new road signs now being installed throughout the state, a drink-drive calculator, and the air-bag film.

Among the action exhibits will be the Seat Belt Convincer, which gives the effect of a head-on collision at slow speeds. Vehicles on display will be the experimental Periscope Car and the Illinois DOT Emergency Vehicle.

An exhibit of Halloween art by students in the River Trails Park District also will be shown Oct. 26 through Nov. 1 at Randhurst. There will be approximately 120 posters drawn by elementary and high school students.

U. S. REP. ABNER MIKVA, seeking election in the new 10th Congressional District, gained campaign support from Notre Dame High School students and Sen. Edward Kennedy in Niles yesterday. Mikva told the packed auditorium that "it's time we take stock of ourselves."

"DEVELOP INTO A pressure group," Sen. Edward Kennedy urged students at Notre Dame High School in Niles yesterday. "The greatest challenge is before us . . . be involved," he said, urging election of U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva.

'Kennedy Magic' Spellbinds Teens

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy rewalked the presidential path of his brother John yesterday.

The Massachusetts Democrat zipped into Chicago for a quick appearance boosting election of U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

"I remember how John Kennedy came to Illinois in 1960 . . . when he came back to Chicago as President, it was the band from Notre Dame High School right here in Niles that met him at the airport and gave him one of the greatest receptions he ever had," Kennedy told packed auditorium of Notre Dame students.

The same band, with new members, and a standing ovation greeted Kennedy's early-morning appearance in the Chicago suburbs. Wearing Mikva and Notre Dame buttons, Kennedy asked the crowd if the high school would beat St. Patrick's this weekend. The resounding "yeah" kicked off the Kennedy magnetism that campaigns so well.

The short speech, designed to inspire campaign enthusiasm, was Kennedy-perfect. The senator ad-libbed, abandoning his text, and called for young people "to develop into a pressure group — a special interest group" like the National Rifle Association, the highway or auto insurance lobbies or the American Medical Association. He credited youth with "having been the vanguard . . . on the two most important issues of our times . . . Southeast Asia and equal opportunity."

KENNEDY challenged the high schoolers to demand educational opportunities, health care, senior citizen programs . . . "the kinds of things John Kennedy dreamed about . . . that Robert Kennedy talked about . . . these are the kinds of things that George McGovern and Ab Mikva are talking about."

Standing on a temporary basketball gym platform, before television cameras and Kennedy-Mikva banners, the senator was lavish in praise of the former 2nd District who is seeking a third term in the U. S. House from the new 10th District.

"I want Congressman Mikva back in the House for three reasons," Kennedy said:

"He's been one of the most effective members in recent times." The two worked together in Congressional judiciary committees on handgun, 18-year-old vote and environmental legislation.

"Because of his personal qualities — integrity, courage, a willingness to stand out on unpopular issues.

"His vision for his constituents . . . his vision for America."

KENNEDY deftly answered questions from students before leaving the gym to the clapping and band sound of the Notre Dame theme song.

"What do you think of President Nixon's foreign policy?" he was asked. "Not very much," the senator answered. "The President once said that those who couldn't bring peace in Southeast Asia don't deserve another try. I agree with that. We want leaders who will stop spending our nation's dollars on Saigon and Indochina and start spending them on Illinois and all other states here at home. Why should we have a President who's more concerned about the problems of Wall Street, New York City, than he is about Main Street, U. S. A.?"

"What about health care?" another student asked.

"We've won 42 Nobel prizes for research in health care but never have won one for delivering solutions," Kennedy charged. "I personally believe we shouldn't permit health profiteering. Insurance companies shouldn't make profits on the health of our nation. I want quality health care at a price that people can afford to pay. The first questions ask at hospitals now is how much insurance you have, not how sick you are."

"What are your plans for 1976?" came a third student question. "That's a good question," Kennedy quipped, drawing applause. "I'm going to be campaigning for the reelection of George McGovern."

The answer was far from what the crowd wanted and avoided recent political predictions that 1972 will lay a base for a Kennedy presidential effort in 1976.

Dems' Campaign Needs 'Devitalizing'

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pollsters and pundits tell us the only common thread running through the electorate this year is apathy.

They say that many voters who aren't turned on by George McGovern aren't all that wild about President Nixon either. According to Dr. Endicott Torporbolt, director of the National Institute of Political Inertia, this is one reason Nixon has such a big lead.

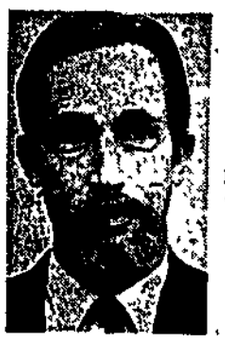

"Our studies show that election year lassitude always works to the advantage of the incumbent," Torporbolt said in an analysis of the 1972 campaign.

"We set up a polling place in our laboratory and attached electrodes to a group of volunteer voters so we could measure their responses as they marked their ballots.

"WE FOUND that it requires more enthusiasm to vote for a challenger than for a candidate who is already in office.

"The difference is only 2.7 degrees, but in a campaign that sparks massive indifference among the voters this can be vital.

"Voters who couldn't care less about either candidate invariably opt for the incumbent out of sheer lethargy, drifting along with the tide being more passive than changing horses in midstream."

Dick West

I said, "You have done for politics what Masters and Johnson did for sex."

"Early in the year the Republicans detected a groundswell of ennui across the country," Torporbolt continued. "They then tailored Nixon's campaign accordingly.

"You will note that Nixon has done hardly any electioneering this year. As a result, he has virtually locked up the apathy vote.

"McGOVERN, IN contrast, has been whizzing around the country, bringing up issues, baiting the opposition and otherwise conducting a hyperactive campaign.

"These are the wrong tactics. He is giving the voters fervor and zeal at a time when the voters are phlegmatic and languid. No wonder the polls show him running far behind."

I said, "Are your advising McGovern to become more listless?"

"His campaign definitely needs a shot of indolence," Torporbolt replied. "I'm not saying that slackening off will bring him victory. He may already have built up too much momentum.

"But if, in the final two weeks, his campaign becomes intensively devitalized, he should be able to narrow the gap."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Here is a very tough hand. The slam contract is good but the fairly simple play of ruffing two clubs in dummy won't work after the defense starts with two rounds of diamonds: South must ruff the second diamond high.

He plays two rounds of trumps and finds that West still holds a pesky eight-spot. If he ruffs those two clubs he won't be able to get back to his hand to pull West's last trump.

You can enjoy yourself working out why this play fails. Now see if you can work out how South can make the hand.

He has to be lucky. He must find East with four clubs so as to develop what is known as a trump-squeeze against him.

South cashes dummy's ace and king of clubs, leads a spade to his queen and leads to the ace and king of spades and a third trump from dummy. This trump squeezes East.

East has to come down to three cards. If he holds a singleton club, South overtakes dummy's trump, leads a third club and sets up his last club. If East comes down to one diamond South lets dummy hold the trick, ruffs a diamond in his own hand and sets up dummy's last diamond as the 12th trick.

Lucky, but the sort of good luck only experts enjoy

Something's Fishy At Woodfield Mall

by NANCY COWGER

A school of fish has swum from McCormick Place in Chicago to Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg, and is very happy with the move.

Woodfield this week is hosting the Midwest Aquarists Inc. annual tropical fish show, which for 14 years was held in the Chicago exposition hall. The show ends Sunday and will include an auction of fish and equipment, new and used, at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Woodfield's grand court. Proceeds will go to the club and its members.

Ernie Hildenbrand of Mount Prospect and show chairman, cited Woodfield's architecture, interior decor and attraction to shoppers as reasons for the change in location.

"It was a new mall that had opened up. It was ideal for our purposes and all the other malls around the city already have tropical fish displays," said Hildenbrand. "The exposure for our club is tremendous," he added, noting each Saturday and Sunday Woodfield is visited by 90,000 to 100,000 persons.

AN ESTIMATED 56 fish tanks are on display throughout the common areas of the mall, varying in size from 20 to 90 gallons. The show includes both fresh and salt water tropical fish of more than 30 varieties, said Hildenbrand. Angelfish are among the most common, and "one of the nicest kinds," shown, he said. But the show includes such unique and expensive varieties as the discus, which Hildenbrand said cost an average of $24 each.

The individual exhibits of club members have been judged, and viewers of the show can see for themselves what tropical fish enthusiasts consider the best of their field. In the display patrons see varied treatments of habitat, some still, softly lit and set with rocks and flora, others in comic or movie motif. One ribbon winner sets elegant beauties against a Laurel and Hardy scene, complete with a joke inscribed on a comic strip type balloon over the pranksters' heads.

Hildenbrand presented some surprising information about his hobby. Tropical fish ownership is the No. 1 hobby in the United States and the world, he said, unhorsing even dogs and cats.

ONE OUT OF three homes houses an aquarium, he noted. The popularity results from a combination of factors, said Hildenbrand.

"You've got living things in the house, and not messy ones like dogs and cats. And its very relaxing," he said.

The aquarists group has 105 memberships, some individual and some held by families, from the metropolitan area. It is recruiting new members during the show, and society representatives are on hand to answer questions on the fish and equipment and provide membership information. Fees for joining the club are $5 for persons aged 13 to 18, $8 for persons over 18, and $10 for families. The club meets at 7:30 p.m. the second Wednesday of each month at 6103 W. Belmont Ave., Chicago. Hildenbrand invited interested persons who may not be able to attend the show to come to a meeting.

Aquarists is among the most active tropical fish clubs in the city, said Hildenbrand. It holds field trips and has two auctions yearly, as well as inviting speakers to each meeting.

IN ADDITION, a variety of fish is chosen for each month, and members owning that type bring them to meetings to compete for ribbons and trophies.

The show is very popular with guests at the mall, said Gerry Dempsey, public relations chief who has decided this week to start an aquarium of his own. He too finds watching the fish restful, and describes the tanks as "living pictures." A number of gradeschools have made field trips to the mall, and others are welcome, he said, adding it is not necessary to notify the center in advance. Dempsey added the display is of interest to people of all ages.

"Parents are enjoying it as much as children, maybe even more. I think parents take more time to actually look at it," he said.

And for many suburban parents, the attractions of Chicago's permanent displays like Shedd Aquarium cannot overbalance negative factors of traffic, distance and immensity that makes a walkthrough strenuous for small children. The Woodfield display is not a Shedd Aquarium, but has many of the attractions, and few of the detractions.

Our Choices:

State Senate

In making the choice for state senator, voters in the five Northwest suburban legislative districts will be casting their ballots for men and women who will exercise enormous influence in the course of state government. The Herald interviewed all candidates for the Illinois Senate in the 1st through 5th districts and now recommends the following candidates be elected to that body:

1st District

The choice between incumbent state representative Brad Glass and Democratic challenger Ann Matasar is a difficult one. Mrs. Matasar is perhaps one of the strongest candidates for public office we have seen. It is regretful that she is opposing a similarly enlightened but better qualified candidate in Glass. We endorse Brad Glass in this race largely on his solid legislative background, his understanding of the needs and nuances of the suburbs and his programs.

Mrs. Matasar has run an excellent campaign and offers the possibility of being an excellent office holder. But, in this case we see no reason to deny Glass a Senate seat and fully endorse his election.

2nd District

In the far flung 2nd Legislative District, incumbent John Graham of Barrington is clearly the best choice for election to the state Senate. Republican Graham is well known to the suburbs and has a long history of serving his district well. We have had our differences with Graham on issues, but his durability and his obvious interest in his district and its people is genuine.

Graham's latest efforts to bring some degree of attention to the problems of flooding in this area is welcome as is his responsible performance in the last session of the Senate when he acted against such matters as the ill-founded optometrists' bill.

3rd District

David Regner, a Republican is clearly the best qualified candidate in the race for the 3rd District Senate seat. His background most recently as the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, his previous terms in the house and his prior background in local government make him an excellent candidate.

Regner is a star of sorts in this year's election process. He seems confident of election and is spending a great deal of time helping candidates on the state ticket, most notably Governor Richard Ogilvie. We hope Dave Regner will turn his attention to the district soon after the election and do his promised job in the State Senate on the district's behalf.

4th District

The chaotic — and often confusing — race for the Senate in the 4th District leaves the voters with two candidates of widely different philosophies and makeup. It is our belief that the choice given to the voters is unfortunate.

Responsiveness to the voters is, in essence, our question about John Nimrod. Nimrod's first allegiance appears to be to the Republican party and to the men who control it. We see his arrival in Springfield as the arrival of a vote for Republican decision makers, not necessarily a vote for the residents of the 4th District.

Democratic candidate Tom Flynn's drawbacks may be measured in his tendency to shoot from the hip with unsupported charges against Republican candidates in the district.

Thus, we withhold endorsement for either candidate.

Given the voter's choice that one or the other will go to the Illinois Senate, we favor Flynn on the basis of his careful study of the issues and in the hope that his attitude at least allows for some influence by district residents on his actions in the Senate.

5th District

The 5th Illinois District, which stretches all the way from Oak Park to a portion of Des Plaines is now represented by Senator Howard Mohr of Forest Park. Mohr is seeking reelection to the Senate and is the most qualified of the two candidates.

Recognizing his qualifications, however, is not enough in this case to earn our endorsement. Mohr is also the mayor of Forest Park and thus represents two constituencies and a form of double dippi.; at the voter's expense We recognize the man's qualifications but we cannot condone his dual representation and its inherent conflicts of interest.

We Endorse...

Edward Hanrahan's Proudest Hour

by ROGER CAPETTINI
Metropolitan Editor

It was the first time I had seen Ed Hanrahan smile since the day I met him more than two years ago.

Of course he hasn't had much to smile about since then.

The heat was already beginning to rise in the Black Panther raid controversy then and it continued until Wednesday. Also, during that period, he was dumped by his old cronies in the Democratic party and had to fight his way back onto the ballot.

But he was smiling about 10:45 am. Wednesday when he strutted into a conference room in the second-floor offices at the Criminal Courts Building following his acquittal.

Maybe he was smiling because he had kept his arch enemies waiting for more than half an hour. No, not the Black Panthers — the members of the news media.

Or maybe he was smiling because the press conference was going to be held in one of the squad rooms used by the state's attorney's police, who conducted the predawn raid on the Panther apartment in December, 1969. How ironical it was — or at least would have been if you could believe it wasn't planned that way.

Edward V. Hanrahan

He surveyed the crowd of a few dozen newsmen before he sat and the grin and his eyes shouted, "I told you so. I told you so."

Then he read a statement which said the same thing.

His statement was short. He said things like, "The trial has proved that no crime was committed," and, "The evidence in court showed no one was murdered," and, "The evidence in court showed the conduct of the police and the other defendants was lawful."

That all may well be true, as far as legal truth goes, but there is another kind of truth — factual truth — and very often the two are not synonomous. And, unfortunately, it's the factual truth we will never learn.

True, the special prosecution team, in the eyes of Judge Romiti, could not prove any crime was committed. But that doesn't mean there really wasn't a crime. It means they couldn't prove it. And Hanrahan knows that. He knows many people who, in fact, are guilty of a crime, go free because his assistants can't prove it.

In the eyes of the court, the conduct of the police was lawful, but that doesn't mean, necessarily, that's the factual truth.

But most of all, Hanrahan could have been smiling because of what the acquittal is expected to mean to him in two weeks.

When Judge Romiti announced the "not guilty" verdict, many political experts are saying already he signaled the death blow to Bernard Carey's chances to snatch the state's attorney's post away from Hanrahan.

The timing could hardly have been better. In fact, it must be regarded as some kind of masterpiece.

Since the indictments were returned roughly 14 months ago, the case has gone through almost every legal machination possible. Yet, somehow it all ended with a directed verdict — without any defense testimony — 13 days before the election.

My, what a strange coincidence.

Right.

So it's no wonder Ed Hanrahan is smiling these days. On top of all that, the polls indicate he, a Daley Democrat, has tremendous strength in the normally Republican suburbs.

That's no surprise either. After all, it was the residents of the suburbs who crossed party lines in the primary to put Hanrahan on the ballot in the first place.

And now, in some kind of misguided belief that he can, in the next four years, eliminate the street crime he has helped foster in the past four years, many of the same crossover voters are planning to give him the votes he needs to continue his glorious record.

Unfortunately, that kind of illogic will mean the sacrifice of a dedicated and professional law enforcement man, Carey, who has vowed to fight both the crimes of violence and the government corruption which Hanrahan has so unconscionably ignored.

The suburban voters, so instrumental in making Hanrahan a happy man, will have the chance to wipe that silly grin off his face Nov. 7.

The question is whether they can make their choice from reason instead of emotion.

Personally I liked Hanrahan better with a scowl.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Witches, Goblins And Ghosts!

Nature seems to be in harmony with the myths of witches, goblins and ghosts. Wind moans, shaking nude tree limbs, playing a macabre tune on windows. Skeleton branches add an eerie effect against the heavy, pregnant black clouds. Cold rain seems to be a must, dampening clothes, making shoes slip, swish and slide on the fallen sodden leaves. Pumpkins lately gathered from fields decorate windows with their toothless grins and/or very sad expressions.

It is the one night of the year "little folks" may be out of doors past their bedtime, begging treats. "Trick or treat" is the chant of the night. Many times a treat is followed by a trick, often a very harmless trick, that of soaping windows. Many of these little dressed up spooks, goblins, fairies or hobos carry goodie bags as tall as they. Moms, prepare for upset tummies and tired aching legs and feet.

This is the night all drivers should be especially careful little ones often have a one track mind, and are not careful of the dangers of the street. Many times they are inhibited by their costumes.

Please be kind, give a goodie to the small fry, they don't ask for much, and really it is the only time they may beg, with permission.

Goblins, witches stay away from our little friends, haunt those who give inedible candies or food; those who refuse to answer the door when they hear "Trick or treat."

HALLOWEEN

Pungent smoke permeates the air;
Moonlight's haze casts shadows of naked trees.
Morbid sounds of prowling cat's fare,
While bravado trixters chant on quaking knees.

Arlington Fans Hit

As a spectator at the Rolling Meadows-Arlington varsity football game this past Friday, I was dismayed by the childish conduct of some of Arlington's athletes. I've never seen such antics in any football game at any age level.

I was proud of our Mustangs' restraint in the face of humiliating taunts by several Cardinals. They tried their best to provoke our boys into throwing a punch but each time a Mustang emerged the stronger man to turn his back and walk away.

These ridiculous actions began in the second quarter and apparently had the coaches' approval, since they continued in the second half as well, after the coach had his chance to talk to his athletes.

There is a natural rivalry between these two schools and that makes for a good, hard-fought football game. but there was a significant difference in the attitudes of the two teams, and I, for one, thank you Mr. Barro, and your staff, for teaching our boys to play football with pride and respect, as the old adage implies. It's not whether you win or lose — but how you play the game. Bravo Mustangs!

'Election Thoughts Of '72'

Governor Ogilvie of Illinois
In the eyes of many he is quite a boy,
As the Governor of Illinois the state
They'd say the job he has done is first rate.
There are others however, who would disagree,
And true to their rights in our democracy,
Would criticize and complain on what Dick has done,
They'd have us believe that Dan is the one.
As Al Smith was purported to have said,
"Let's look at the record" and not be mis-lead.
A card that was given to the author of this ode,
Shows 20 things Dick has done in a quality mode.
Bankruptcy which faced us in '68
No longer is dangerous to our state,
Doubled the aid to elementary and high schools.
Helping our kids to have needed tools.
Dick looked at pollution and here's what he saw
The need for action backed by strong laws.
Aid to mental health he has doubled.
Help for those who are troubled.
Improved health care programs, more acres of park land,
Along with drug abuse program, on his record will stand.
Efforts to prevent and to control our crime
Help for the real needy at any time.
Tax monies are shared by the state with the town,
Helping local treasuries to keep from going down,
Take drivers from the road who drive while drunk,
To do this Governor Dick shows us spunk.
And now with Election '72 only a few weeks away,
I'd hope most people of Illinois would have this to say,
No matter what Dan would like to be,
We need four more years of Governor Dick Ogilvie.

Don't Forget Him

I am a veteran of World War II, I fought in the Battle of the Bulge, I was wounded three times in action and I am now a disabled man. I had four operations before I had my left leg amputated June 11, 1971 in the Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa., and I had seven more operations after I had my left leg amputated.

It would make me, a disabled veteran, very happy if you, the editor, would please have my letter published in the Arlington Heights newspaper. It would make me very happy to receive get well cards, letters or birthday cards. My birthday is October 28.

Since I am disabled, I have a lot of time to read. It makes me very happy to receive mail, so will you please do me this favor.

Word A Day

Business Today

by LEROY POPE
Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whether they want to or not, businessmen must get into community planning in a big way, according to many experienced architects and city planners.

"Cities are vital to business. We have gone about as far as we safely can, perhaps too far, in decentralizing industry and for its own good industry now must help revitalize the cities," says Louis C. Ripa, chairman of Porter & Ripa Associates, Inc., of Morristown, N.J.

Ripa said that in the well-planned city of the future, a man will be able to get to his job within 15 minutes, his children will be able to get to school in even less time and his wife will find every kind of shopping available within a few minutes of her home.

SENSIBLE COMMUNITY planning will save millions of tax dollars a year in commuter transit subsidies and save people even more in trains and long haul bus fares and eventually will solve the nation's major traffic problem, Ripa added.

Since an urban environment is so necessary to many businesses, Ripa said industry must help restore the neighborhood concept to life in the major cities. The urban neighborhood too often has eroded or been turned into a jungle, he said, by the social and business trends of recent years.

Lawrence Lerner of Litton Industries' architectural subsidiary, Saphier, Lerner & Schindler, agrees with Ripa about the importance of the urban environment for business and the necessity of revitalizing urban life. He takes a somewhat more radical approach to the problem.

Known as a daring architectural innovator, Lerner advanced two radical proposals for the city of the future — vertical zoning and something he calls "continue shelter." By vertical zoning, Lerner said he meant building skyscrapers and zoning some floors for residence, some for shopping, some for offices, others for hospitals and clinics, and some even for theaters.

A TENTATIVE experiment along these lines shortly will be launched in Atlanta by still another group. Omni International, a $65-million 14-story megastructure, will be built "as a total urban environment complex" on a six-acre tract in downtown Atlanta by Cousins Properties, Inc., and Alpert Corp. The Omni community is not residential, though. It is to contain a 600-room hotel, shops, offices, tennis courts, a swimming pool and theaters.

Lerner's plan is more daring. In the community he envisages, a family might rarely have to venture more than a few blocks from its apartment. For all the needs of daily living, other than going to work, it would simply use elevators.

By "continue shelter," Lerner said he means a system by which urban land would be owned by the city government and leased for a specific term of years and a specific use. That would enable the municipal government to foster and enforce continuous community planning.

Woodfield, Tollway Draws Office Buildings To NW Area

by LEA TONKIN

The Rolling Meadows-Schaumburg area is gaining momentum as a major office complex center in the Chicago metropolitan area.

According to a report released by Continental Bank, Chicago, the combined appeal of Woodfield Mall and the nearby transportation systems accounts for this expansion.

More than one million square feet of commercial office space is planned or built in the Northwest suburban area. This was among the trends reported in the bank's survey.

Another finding in the slackening of investors enthusiastic attitude as the problem of overbuilding crops up in the office space market.

Continental vice president Charles F. Willson said, "The focal point of this area, which is experiencing rapid residential, commercial and industrial growth, is the intersection of Rt. 53 and the Northwest Tollway." Willson sees the Woodfield shopping center in Schaumburg as the same magnetic force as the Oak Brook shopping center provided for Oak Brook: an attraction for office, meeting and conference facilities.

THE ACCESSIBILITY of major Chicago area transportation systems is another plus factor in the Northwest Suburban office market.

Among the newer office building coming in this area are the Walden Office complex at the corner of Algonquin and Meacham roads. One of two, five-story buildings is completed, with 75,000 square feet of rentable space. The Woodfield Executive Plaza is also underway at the southeast corner or Golf and Meacham in Schaumburg. It will include two, 11-story buildings with a total of 371-940 square feet of rentable space.

"SCHAUMBURG WILL be a mode of economic development," predicts William Gorton, area development representative for Continental Bank. ". . . The big thing Schaumburg has to watch out for is comprehensive planning, in order to function and be viable in the long run. I think (mayor) Bob Atcher is trying to work along this type of plan."

Both Willson and Gorton said the glut of office space which came into the market during the boom years of 1969-1971 is causing problems for some area office building rental agents.

Suburban Chicago office space rose more than 25 per cent over a year ago, Willson said. "A substantial amount of commercial office space — 9.5 million square feet — has been constructed and placed on the market in the last five years. This represents more than 80 per cent of the total 11.5 million square feet of office space available in suburbia," he added.

WILLSON SAID overbuilding and the high vacancy rates in some area office buildings will slow down the construction pace in this market for the next three to five years. "Until last year, the attitude has been 'gung-ho.' Currently, enthusiasm is dampened somewhat," he said.

The suburban area fanning out north from O'Hare International Airport experienced the most striking rise in office construction over the past year, despite this market slackening. More than 700,000 square feet of office space was built in the O'Hare-Park Ridge area over the past year, increasing space by almost 1,000 per cent.

Most investors are taking a cautious approach to new commitments in this area "The building rate has been much higher than it should be, Gorton said of the O'Hare vicinity office expansion. "Next year will be even more difficult in terms of new space coming into the market." He notes that no new commitments for office facilities are being planned after 1975.

"It's a buyers market in terms of rental costs," he added. The average price for many suburban office buildings, now at $6.50 to $7.50 a square foot, has leveled off from the rapid increases experienced through 1970.

CONTINENTAL MONITORS industrial as well as commercial development in the Chicago metropolitan area. There are still more companies making the moving out from the city than making a shift into Chicago. The recent expansion of residential construction in the Northwest suburbs provides the home base for a growing suburban labor pool.

"But it's a two-way street," Gorton said. "At first the suburbs looked like greener pastures. Now that green pasture look is worn rather thin." Companies decide on a city or suburban location according to the economic benefits gained and the personal needs of executives, he said.

The Chicago metropolitan area is holding its own as one of the most viable office markets in the country, Gorton said. The remendous expansion in suburban office space over the last five years has been accompanied by downtown Chicago office construction more than doubling the square footage in the city.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

As if there hadn't been enough bad news for investors recently, "Adam Smith" now offers persuasive evidence that we're being hoodwinked, bamboozled and misled, by the official system, to the point you can't believe much of anything you're told about growth stocks.

"Adam Smith" is the pseudonym of a man who knows his way around Wall Street better than you do your backyard. He wrote last season's best seller, "The Money Game." Recently, his new book, "Supermoney," was published.

The chapter that will make your hair stand on end (or should) deals with the fictions that can be incorporated — quite legally, under the rules — into income statements, balance sheets and the other things prudent investors are supposed to study before parting with their money.

FOR ABOUT a decade now, we've had the cult of the growth company. "Adam" traces all the trouble to this. "You want earnings? Okay, we'll give you earnings," said the supermoney boys — and, like magic.

"Growth companies everywhere! Wherever you looked, there was a company with a neat stepladder of growing earnings — and some of them kept the neat stepladder right up to the day they filed for bankruptcy."

Obviously, says "Adam," the figures offered to the public often did not represent reality. Rather, "a lot of imagination at work." Examples are given of the ways in which companies, using "generally accepted accounting principles," can use various accounting devices to shuffle the figures around and show steadily increasing earnings — until the day of reckoning that finally must come.

There's much controversy currently over this business of "generally accepted accounting principles." Not very surprising, when you see "Adam" quote the former head of one of the nation's major accounting firms:

"How my profession can tolerate such fiction and look the public in the eye is beyond my understanding . . . My profession appears to regard a set of financial statements as a roulette wheel to the public investor."

THOUGH MOST companies, "Adam" concedes, do report earnings and other figures fairly, still the public is left with the question: Which are the ones that don't? "All the numbers look alike," he points out, "and it requires a full-time professional accountant to ferret out all the nuances."

So what happens, then, to that paternal advice repeatedly offered to the public, "investigate before you invest?" It seems it's time to investigate the investigative process — and "Adam Smith" launches the investigation briskly in "Supermoney" (Random House, $7.95).

The rest of the book is uneven, with "Adam" applying his facile and entertaining writing to a variety of subjects, and some of the "in" humor may be over your head unless you speak the language of Wall Street fairly fluently.

That one chapter, though, is enough to recommend the book to anyone with even the faintest urge to invest in "growth stocks."

Janeway To Speak

Economist Eliot Janeway will discuss politics and its effect on 1973 business activity at the initial meeting of a club for O'Hare area executives.

The Oct. 31 session will be held at the Chicago Marriott Motor Hotel. Janeway is known for his newspaper columns, books, broadcasts and lectures on the economy.

The luncheon will launch the O'Hare Executives Club, sponsored by O'Hare International Bank. Quarterly luncheon meetings of the club are being planned, said a spokesman for the bank.

Future guest speakers will include Austin Kiplinger, financial expert and publisher of the Kiplinger Report; Patrick Dunne, deputy commissioner of O'Hare International Airport; and Ara Parseghian, head football coach of the University of Notre Dame.

MSD Board Endorses Chicago Underflow Plan

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) Board of Trustees yesterday endorsed the Chicago Underflow Plan for construction of tunnels and reservoirs to solve flooding and pollution in areas served by combined sanitary and storm sewers.

The approval came despite opposition from two Republican trustees, Eugene H. Dibble and E. George Thiem, who said the plan would be "a heavy burden" on the taxpayers of Cook County.

The plan calls for a system of tunnels approximately 200 feet below ground and a series of reservoirs to store the overflow from combined sanitary and storm sewers during heavy rains.

One tunnel will be built in the Northwest suburban area to serve Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and possibly Palatine.

THE UNDERFLOW plan calls for keeping sanitary sewage out of streams and the lake, and making it possible for the existing combined sewers to handle peak storms, so sewage will not back up into homes.

It proposes to achieve those ends by a $1.2 billion system of tunnels and storage reservoirs.

The Northwest suburbs' tunnel will run from a basin near the O'Hare water reclamation plant north and west. The water will be stored in the reservoirs until stream levels drop, then be pumped to the O'Hare water reclamation plant for treatment.

Details of the design for the Northwest suburban tunnel are not yet final. MSD officials anticipate the tunnel will be 250 feet below ground and will carry storm water to a 2,700-acre foot reservoir near O'Hare Airport.

THE NORTHWEST suburban tunnel system will cost $121 million. At this point, MSD officials are unsure whether the tunnel will extend to Palatine or whether flooding problems in that community will be handled by the Salt Creek work plant.

The board voted to begin design engineering on the Northwest surburban tunnel and to modify plans for the O'Hare water reclamation plant so the plant can handle combined sewage from the tunnel system.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosewitz said design changes in the O'Hare plant will enable the district to save $23 million.

Also at yesterday's meeting, the MSD board directed its engineering staff to begin negotiations on an agreement with Des Plaines, Chicago, Rosemont and the State of Illinois about drainage improvements in the Willow-Higgins Creek watershed.

THE MSD Engineers say detention basin and channel improvements are needed because of additional water that will come from the proposed O'Hare water reclamation plant. They also point to the need to reduce flood damage in Des Plaines and Rosemont.

Chicago is involved in the negotiations because a planned expansion of O'Hare Airport will create a need for drainage retention facilities.

The proposal calls for the state department of transportation to fund channel improvement work on the lower portion of Willow Creek at an estimated cost of $1.5 million.

The MSD would acquire sites for detention reservoirs in the upper portions of the watershed and construct the reservoirs for a total cost of $6 million.

CHICAGO ALREADY has agreed to provide land for reservoirs on O'Hare Airport property. Des Plaines and Rosemont would provide rights of way for channel improvement and would maintain these improvements.

Suburban officials heard an explanation for the underflow plan at an MSD-sponsored meeting Wednesday.

They heard endorsements of the proposal from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and from the state director of the Institute for Environmental Quality, who said Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also favors the plan.

Arlington Heights Village Pres John Woods was one of the few local officials attending the conference who spoke on the proposal.

WOODS CALLED the plan "an exciting development" and said it was important to Arlington Heights. Woods said Arlington Heights officials studied the proposal and found it "very practical, economical, and highly efficient."

He urged the MSD board to approve it.

Other Northwest suburban officials who attended the meeting were Robert Bowen, Des Plaines city engineer; Wendell Jones, Palatine trustee; Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines public works commissioner; George March, chairman of the Mount Prospect drainage and clean streams commission; Frank Palmatier, Arlington Heights trustee; Robert Eppley, Mount Prospect village manager, and L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager.

Correction

The Herald mistakenly reported in yesterday's edition that two State House of Representative candidates from the 3rd District would speak today at a function in Elk Grove Village.

Correct scheduling for the two, Democrat John P. Kelley and Republican Donald Totten, is that Kelley will appear 7:30 p.m. tonight at a coffee in his behalf at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Rettberg, 184 Shadywood, Elk Grove Village.

Both candidates will give five-minute presentations and answer questions during a program sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Jaycees on Wednesday at the village's municipal building.

Osco Strike In 7th Week

The strike by most of the Chicago metropolitan area Osco Drug Co. pharmacists has entered its seventh week.

No breakthroughs in negotiations were reported in the dispute between the Professional Pharmacists Association and Osco.

"All pharmacies are still being operated by management personnel who are registered pharmacists," said an Osco spokesman. Adjusted hours at some pharmacies have been in effect since the strike began Sept. 12.

The Professional Pharmacists Association, comprised entirely of Osco employes, is seeking an adjusted work schedule as well as greater supervision of non-professional personnel. Joe Canzolino, secretary-treasurer of the organization, said the group did agree with Osco representatives on a salary of $313.20 a week. The pharmacists object to work schedules including hours after 9 p.m. and the Osco bid for several nine-hour days during the week, he said.

1st District State Senate

Brad Glass, Republican

Ann Matasar, Democrat

The Legislative District, stretching from Evanston all the way to a boundary west of Buffalo Grove, is one of the largest and most diverse General Assembly districts in the state.

Seeking the Senate seat for the 1st are two particularly articulate candidates — State Rep. Bradley M. Glass and political science instructor Ann Matasar.

Both candidates appeared before the Herald panel for these interviews.

Bradley M. Glass, Republican

Bradley M. Glass:

'We Must Leave School Funding Authority To Local Officials'

by RICH HONACK

Bradley M. Glass is hoping his experience as a state representative will give him a foothold toward an education committee seat if he wins the 1st District Senate race.

He abandoned his House seat after only two years to seek the Senate post made available by the retirement of Sen. W. Russell Arrington. During that two years he did serve with the education and judiciary committees, of the House.

Many state candidates have adopted a holding pattern on proposals for more equitable school financing until studies are complete and the Supreme Court has issued rulings. But Republican Glass is promoting his own House Bill 2192, which would provide a basic formula for all public school students in the state.

HIS PROPOSAL calls for a tax on all real estate in Illinois at the same rate for all. The rate would be figured so it would raise $300 for every regular student. A flat grant of about $300 would come from the common school fund, and the remainder would be provided in what is called a variable matching grant concept.

Under the concept, the state would provide additional funds according to how much the local district could raise on the local level. Wealthier districts would receive smaller grants and poorer districts would receive higher grants.

A school board member for six years, he feels the new formula must be developed for state money to be distributed equally to all children.

"We have to come up with what we think meets the tests of the courts when we decide on a formula, but we must also leave the authority of the funds to local officials," said Glass.

He added, however, that the assessment doesn't seem right either. He believes the Supreme Court will uphold, to some degree, that monies be more equal in such situations. "I also think some taxes will have to be on a state-wide basis."

IN DEALING with problems such as flooding and mass transportation, Glass feels communities should cooperate on an area-wide basis instead of relying on state intervention.

"I still believe in local government cooperation rather than pressure from the state," the 41-year-old attorney said.

As far as any immediate steps to curb flooding, he said, "I really have to wait and see. But the sanitary District (MSD) is making efforts to control the flooding. I do feel that all communities should qualify for flood insurance within this district."

Glass said a building moratorium would be a good idea, but he doesn't think it would stand up constitutionally.

The Palatine and Northfield village attorney said he also feels that highways and transportation are of interest to people of his district, especially in the western section.

He added that the highway program has come a long way, but mass transportation needs help.

"I think highway money should be used for mass transportation programs. It will be tough to pass, however, because downstaters don't have a transportation problem," he said.

A PROPOSAL DRAWN up by the Council of Governments and headed by the mayor of Lombard would exclude Chicago from the transportation system. The proposal includes a six-county area, without the city.

House Bill 4362, sponsored by Glass, may be the necessary first step in getting mass transportation improvements started.

"An arguing point in its favor is to unite the suburban area, giving it stronger bargaining powers. I think the program should be limited to six counties," he said.

Glass feels that assessors should become more professional and more uniform. He expressed his feelings concerning the situation in Buffalo Grove, where half the village lies in Lake County and the other half in Cook County.

He said the equalizer is not doing the job, since people in the Lake County section pay a higher rate than their southern neighbors.

"An interim solution might be to pay the lower of the two countries rates, but the equalizer isn't doing the job," he added.

Glass said he doesn't favor another pay increase for the state legislature this year, but that the allowance for staff should be raised. He said he favored a boost in per diems.

Glass also expressed the belief that teachers, firemen and policemen are in a different employment situation from other citizens, inasmuch as they shouldn't be allowed to strike.

"YOU HAVE TO guarantee vital service. Government is not a profitable service and the employes should realize the limits," said the Northfield resident.

Glass added, "The strike, as far as teachers are concerned, is a tactic of the IEA (Illinois Education Association). The power of the IEA is overwhelming and they provide an unequal match in local negotiations."

"I think there is strength in negotiations without the strike having to be there," he said.

On the controversial subjects of parochial and abortion, he said he supports both.

"I personally do not believe in abortion, but I don't think it is our decision to make. It should be up to person's conscience," he said. He said he feels abortion up to 12 weeks is medically acceptable.

Other issues that Glass supports are:

—A merit system for the selection of judges in Cook County.

—Giving the state or local suburban government some control over O'Hare International Airport.

Ann Matasar:

'You Don't Stop Teacher Strikes Just By Making Them Illegal'

by LYNN ASINOF

Ann Matasar is running a practical campaign as the Democratic candidate for state senator in the 1st Legislative District. A professional political scientist and educator, she knows that she is the underdog as the Democratic challenger in a Republican district.

To overcome this handicap, Mrs. Matasar has gone to meet the people in her newly apportioned district. "I have walked to about one-quarter of the houses in the district," she said. "And I have walked to about half the houses in Wheeling Township."

Mrs. Matasar admitted that many party regulars in the area at first felt she was a token candidate — her name merely filling an empty place on the ballot.

"But I'm not that kind of a person," she said. "That's my name on the ballot and it's a matter of self-pride."

So Mrs. Matasar has spent the past seven months making her name known in the district. She has spent a lot of time in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove because this area is new to the district.

ALTHOUGH THE 1st District stretches from Evanston to Buffalo Grove, Mrs. Matasar said the people in the district have more in common than they may think. She sees the major issues of the district as schools and taxes. "Flooding comes in as you move west," she said.

Rather than continue to let local agencies struggle with flooding problems, Mrs. Matasar said she would like to see statewide land-use policies. These policies would be based on geographical studies of the state and would regulate building in the flood plains and control other environmental problems.

She said this would be the only way to insure uniform flood control policies throughout the state. Although she admitted that local governments might be wary of losing their autonomy, "it's in their own best interests to impose these kind of limits."

To control storm water runoff, Mrs. Matasar advocated giving the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) more money and more power to create a series of regional retention basins. She said it would be foolish to create a new flood control agency when the MSD already exists.

TURNING TO public schools, Mrs. Matasar said she felt it was time for the state to rethink its formula for financing education. A strong advocate of equal educational opportunity, she said she favors increased state aid that would give poorer school districts the opportunity to improve their educational facilities.

This could be done, she said, by instituting a self-help incentive program that would fund districts according to their ability to finance education, with the greater proportion going to the poorer districts.

Mrs. Matasar said she would like to see the final financing formula determined by a group that had studied school financing in depth. She said the new formula should also take into account recent court cases that found the property tax structure of financing schools unconstitutional.

"Whether or not it is a legal obligation, it is a moral obligation to provide quality education for every child in the state," she said. "Either you pay for the child's education today or you pay for the adult's welfare or penal institution tomorrow. I'd rather pay today."

While Mrs. Matasar does not think that teachers should go on strike, she said they should have the power to strike. "I think that striking for a member of the teaching profession is an unprofessional thing to do," she said. She added, however, that strikes are a tool that would give teachers negotiating power.

She said teachers are not generally treated as professionals, their salaries often lumped with maintenance personnel. She said if teachers were treated as professionals they would act as such.

"You are more likely to stop strikes that way than by making them illegal," she said.

THE DEVELOPMENT of a regional mass transit system also is an important issue to Mrs. Matasar. She said she thinks it is impractical to develop a regional transit system without including the City of Chicago.

"A mass transit system does not develop along political boundaries," she said. "It develops from where people get on and where they get off, and that is not Howard Street. That is the Loop."

Mrs. Matasar said she does not support parochiaid because she believes it is unconstitutional. She added that parochial schools are in trouble only in places where public schools are also in trouble, and said the state's first obligation is to the public schools.

A supporter of statewide merit selection of judges, Mrs. Matasar said her stand on this issue indicated her approach to negotiations. "You can always settle for half the pie," she said. "But you go in first and fight for the whole pie."

Mrs. Matasar said that, if elected, she will be in a position of leverage because of the even split between Republicans and Democrats at the state senate. She said that because she has not committed her vote to either party, her vote will become more important because it hasn't already been counted.

To avoid any possible conflict of interest as state senator, Mrs. Matasar already has made arrangements to take a leave of absence from her position of associate professor at Mundelein College to serve the two-year term if elected.

She said her opponent, Bradley Glass, has not taken similar precautions against conflict of interest. She called him a "double-dipper" for holding a state office while simultaneously serving as village attorney for two communities.

Ann Matasar, Democrat

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given that the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Wheeling will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. on the 14th day of November, 1972 at the Village Hall in the Village of Wheeling to act on the petition of the Exchange National Bank of Chicago, as Trustee under Trust No. 31752, owner of record, which seeks a change in the zoning disignation from R-1 to PD-4; a variance from the applicable provisions of the Zoning Ordinance, Section 19.30.030 (c), to increase the total density from the permitted 16 units to the acre or a total of 333 units for the subject 22 acres to a total of 400 units; and a variance from the provisions of Section 19.63.040 (1), to reduce from three and one-half feet to one and one-half feet the elevation of the top of the foundation for all buildings or structures above the elevation of the highest recorded flood level as shown on the Wheeling flood plain map, on the following described property:

That part of the east ½ of the southeast ¼ of Section 11, Township 42 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian, lying west of Wolf Road and lying north of a line drawn from a point in the west line of the east ½ of the southeast ¼ of said Section 11, said point being 1963.0 feet north of the south line of the southeast ¼ of said Section 11, to a point in the west line of Wolf Road, said point being 770.0 feet north of the south line of the southeast ¼ of said Section 11, (excepting from said tract the north 206.8 feet thereof and excepting from said tract that part of the south 200.0 feet of the north 406.8 feet thereof lying east of the west 383.0 feet thereof) in Cook County, Illinois.

The above described property is located on the West side of Wolf Road approximately 770 feet North of Hintz Road in Wheeling, Illinois.

All interested persons are invited to attend this public hearing and will be given an opportunity to be heard. The Zoning Board of Appeals will also give careful consideration to all written correspondence concerning this hearing.

Docket No. 324
Dated: October 25, 1972
Published in Wheeling Herald October 27, 1972.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Bonds can be lost, if lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When matured, they can be cashed at your bank. This may be deferred, until retirement. And always remember, Bonds are a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

HOT SHOPPES CAFETERIAS: GOOD FOOD AT PRICES YOU CAN SWALLOW.

Tender roast beef, au jus, prepared with celery and onions. Crisp garden salad. A hot, crusty roll. And orange gelatin topped with whipped cream.

All for less than $2.

Surprised? That's just one of the surprises you're in for, when you treat yourself and your family to dinner at the Hot Shoppes Cafeteria at Woodfield or Lakehurst Mall.

But there'll be even more surprises. Rich carpeting. Quiet lighting. Tasteful table settings. And something we're mighty proud of. An array of good food. The kind you don't usually find in a cafeteria.

Take our generous sized portions of chopped steak, for example, prepared Sicilian style. Or our pan fried whole halibut, with tartar sauce. Or any one of our crisp salads. Plus lots of vegetables and fruits. And each day our chef bakes pies and muffins and bread. So you'll always be getting fresh bakery treats from our kitchens.

And the price? That'll surprise you too. A family of three can sit down to a hearty dinner for less than $6. One that will be nutritious and well balanced besides.

Not only that, but we'll even give you an extra plate (free) if you want to split an entree with someone else.

Maybe you're not used to cafeterias. Or simply don't like them. We'd still like you to give us a try. We think you'll enjoy the food. And the reasonable prices.

And bring the family along. They'll be surprised too.

ABC Gives Julie A Schedule Break

by RICK DuBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV has finally decided to take some action to learn whether Julie Andrews' highly touted but low-rated new variety series might possibly be saved by an earlier time slot more accessible to children and old folks.

The weekly series normally is seen from 9 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays, an unlikely hour for a family entertainer like Miss Andrews. And when ABC-TV announced recently that her Nov. 22 show would be an obviously children's-slanted salute to the music of Walt Disney, the oddity of scheduling such a program at that hour made the entire peculiar situation much more pronounced. Though set for Thanksgiving eve, when youngsters stay up later, it still was an odd hour for such a show.

On Wednesday, ABC-TV in effect confirmed its goof and, more important, announced that Miss Andrews' Nov. 22 Disney salute will be seen at an earlier hour, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. As a result, one of the network's 90-minute "Movie of the Week" original teleplays is delayed until later that night, having been displaced by Miss Andrews.

ABC-TV IS TRYING to get her plenty of scheduling help for Nov. 22. She will be preceded by Paul Lynde's new situation comedy series, which has been doing pretty well in the ratings with its buffoonery about a lawyer and his family. And the "Movie of the Week" following Miss Andrews will star Robert Young — video's highly popular "Marcus Welby, M.D." — in a comedy as a widower-judge "confronted with a problem when all four of his daughters decide to get married on the same day."

The title of this comedy is "All My Darling Daughters," and ABC-TV spokesmen are making no secret of the network's strategy on that night: Package Miss Andrews in an all family-oriented viewing light on Thanksgiving eve, securing her between two of its stars who have series with successful ratings; hope the Disney magic helps give her a further lift; and, if the overall strategy produces the desired results, get viewers talking about her show again, and watching it.

ABC-TV's family-oriented Thanksgiving Eve package was accomplished by switching Mr. Young's comedy, which also features Raymond Massey and Eve Arden, to that night from its previously scheduled Nov. 8 air time. Before the switch, the Nov. 22 "Movie of the Week" was to have been "The Crooked Hearts," starring Rosalind Russell. This tale, which also stars Douglas Fairbanks Jr., now will be seen Nov. 8.

WITH ALL THE program juggling, Miss Andrews nonetheless will still have to prove her audience drawing power against some formidable video foes Nov. 22. Barring preemptions, she will be up against the "NBC Mystery Movie," and on CBS-TV, her opposition will be the last half of Carol Burnett's variety series and the first half hour of the weekly melodrama "Medical Center." Competing with Miss Burnett is one of those small quirks of fate because not only are the two women good friends, but they have starred together in several video specials.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Not since "The Flintstones" has there been an adult-oriented cartoon situation comedy available in prime time until this television season and "Wait Till Your Father Gets Home."

The same producers are behind the new series which, in its way, takes up where "The Flintstones" left off.

Joe Barbera of Hanna-Barbera Productions describes the new show as a sophisticated, mirthful exposition of the modern generation-gap family.

The stories concern themselves with Harry Boyle, an old fashioned father who must deal with a smart aleck, pre-teen son, an overweight and emotional daughter, and a shiftless son who won't work or go to college. His wife tries to hold it all together.

"This is the first time an animated series deals with current problems," Barbera said. "The father says all the things we chicken fathers are afraid to say to our children.

Their teenage daughter wants to take the pill. The son has long hair. Our plots touch on such things as nudity at the beach, living together without marriage and topic after topic that crop up every day.

"YOU SEE affection between the members of the family. There isn't all the animosity involved that is evident on 'All In the Family.'

"But we get into racial areas and even such things as the homosexual question. But the difference here is that we try to have the family solve its problems."

In some areas where the colorful cartoon series is aired at 7:30 there have been objections from parents that the show is too adult for youngsters. Barbera disagrees.

OUR PRIMARY purpose," he said, "is to entertain viewers. But any family who watches 'All In The Family' can see our show without any complaints about sophistication.

"If we didn't have some bite in our stories we'd be just another cartoon show for kids. And that's not the case at all.

"At the same time we've hired the best writers available to avoid contrived plots. They're delighted to get away from the typical situation comedy stories.

"Family activities are disappearing everywhere — Sunday dinner together, family outings, reunions and that sort of thing.

"So 'Wait Till Your Father Gets Home' deals with family life as it exists today. The characters are very human and truthful."

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to have some information on the bad effects of watching TV by children who watch to the exclusion of play, homework, socializing and consequent truancy.

Dear Reader — I won't attempt to review all of the different comments that have been made about violence on TV and these problems, but I will say that continually watching TV to the exclusion of normal childhood play can lead to degeneration of the body's normal functions from physical inactivity. A study a few years ago showed that children who were irritable, chronically fatigued, with vague complaints, were found to be chronic TV watchers with very little exercise.

I studied the problem of inactivity in relation to the space program and the expected prolonged weightlessness problems. My colleagues and I learned that inactivity breeds low energy levels. In normal individuals it causes a decrease in the amount of muscle mass. There is a decrease in the formation of red blood cells and a loss of normal water from the body tissues. The heart and circulatory system become "deconditioned." The heart rate is rapid and lacks the normal strength and stamina for reasonable amounts of physical exercise. There are probably adverse metabolic effects as well.

Many TV programs are wonderful, educational experiences. Others are wholesome entertainment. But like other things, there is an optimal amount. The only solution is to turn off the TV at regular intervals and insist on a little more normal, human activity characteristic of growing children.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What would happen if a lung is punctured during a nerve block in the chest area? Would it heal eventually and, if so, how long would it take?

Dear Reader — The lungs are composed of multiple tiny air sacs. If one is punctured the lung behaves somewhat like an inner tube and collapses. Because it is composed of many small air sacs only a portion of those air sacs near the area where the puncture occurred may collapse. This varies depending on how big the tear is and other factors. How much trouble a person has depends on how much collapse of the lung occurs. If just a very small amount of collapse occurs, it may be almost unnoticeable.

The collapse will persist until the tear has healed over then, like an inner tube that has been patched, it can be inflated again and regains its normal function. If the tear is large and the lung is totally collapsed sometimes the normally functioning lung will expand to push against the heart and blood vessels to cause difficulties.

Some people have spontaneous collapse of a lung because a little blister on the surface of the lung bursts. These, too, usually heal spontaneously. Occasionally there is associated bleeding and this requires careful medical management.

Air trapped between the collapsed lung and the chest wall is gradually absorbed as the lung re-expands, however, during the time air is trapped in this space one should not travel by air or take a trip from sea level to altitude. The trapped air between the lung and chest wall will expand with decreased air pressure and can cause increased pressure inside the chest against the heart. This same problem used to arise regularly when air was injected between the lung and the chest wall to induce collapse in treating patients with tuberculosis.

If it is a small puncture it usually doesn't take long for the lung to heal and re-expand — usually a matter of weeks.

State Traffic Safety Display At Randhurst

The Illinois Traffic Safety Exhibit will be on display this weekend at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect.

The exhibit is sponsored by Gov. Ogilvie's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee. It contains 14 display items including the new Illinois breath testing machine for drunken drivers, new road signs being installed in Illinois and a film on auto air bags.

The display will be open tomorrow through Sunday. Shoppers will be able to get several traffic safety brochures as well as copies of the new "Rules of the Road and "Bicycle Safety Rules of the Road."

Among the exhibits will be the "Seat Belt Convincer," which demonstrates the effects on a car's occupants of a head-on collision. Vehicles on display will be the experimental "Periscope Car" and the Illinois Department of Transportation Emergency Vehicle.

Pace-Setting Hersey Hosts Meadows

North Race May Clear Up—Or Cloud Up

The North Division title-determining pendulum is back in motion this weekend. The Mid-Suburban time-piece may prolong the extremely volatile five-team scramble to the final sequence of games next week or completely unwind tonight.

The hands of the clock revolve around all three crucial contests tonight beginning at 8:00 at Hersey (4-1) hosts Rolling Meadows (3-2), Arlington (3-2) tackles Fremd (3-2) and Palatine (3-2) challenges Wheeling (0-5).

By examining the possibilities of winners and losers after tonight's clashes, several observations can be made:

—Should Hersey AND Wheeling earn triumphs, Hersey will have clinched the title regardless of next week's schedule by virtue of beating the contenders.

—Should Rolling Meadows AND Palatine emerge victorious, no less than four different teams would enter the deciding weekend of action (nov. 3), with identical 4-2 records.

Nobody knows which way the pendulum will swing tonight.

Here's a closer look at the three monumental games on tap:

MEADOWS AT HERSEY

It wouldn't have been surprising if

COLLISION COURSE. The meeting between Hersey and Rolling Meadows tonight in the North Division headliner will match such standouts as the Huskies' Marty Friel, left, and Scott Miesfeldt, right, against Mustang Jack Lloyd, center. Friel has caught 17 passes for 302 yards and five scores; Miesfeldt has averaged 6.2 yards per carry; and Lloyd has been a key performer on the touted Meadows defensive platoon.

The game, the stadium, the crowd, the drama — these are merely a facade, that part of pro football seen through binoculars from the box seats. Between games the football player is like everyone else.

Steve Conley is a professional football player, a rookie linebacker, but he doesn't ride that sky rocket of excitement even for a couple of hours on a Sunday afternoon. His place of business is usually a stadium, but no bands greet his arrival, no cheers echo through the concrete corridors where he anonymously plies his mid-week grade, no opponent waits across a chalk line to strike out at him.

Conley, an Arlington High School graduate, is on the taxi squad of the Cincinnati Bengals. For this 6-foot-3, 222-pounder, a great stadium can be a lonely, haunted place, a huge stage on which the professional athlete plays to a silent, empty house. This is Steve's private world each week. It can be a world of dull routine, of meetings and practices, of tedious film sessions and chalk talks, of exhausted limbs and weary minds.

Steve doesn't mind. He loves his work. This is what he has always wanted to do, ever since he started tossing a football around with his dad. How many guys can say they thoroughly enjoy their job?

Conley hasn't played in one second of a regular season National Football League game. He is one of 47 on the Bengals' roster. Only 40 suit up each Sunday. The extra seven, or the taxi squad, give an NFL team insurance against injuries or other problems.

"I'm not that dissatisfied with the way things have been going," Conley said from his apartment in Cincinnati. "I'm under contract and on full pay with the Bengals and I'll just have to work hard and wait my turn. I just feel fortunate to have made this team. They had 32 rookies and there are only six left.

"Maybe I'll get a chance to work with some of the specialty teams before the season is over. I thought I might make the trip to Los Angeles last weekend but it didn't work out. I'm just happy to be here, to be working out with the team during the week."

Conley was the fifth player selected by Cincinnati in the pro draft last January. He played his college football as a running back at the University of Kansas but was drafted as a linebacker because of his size and agility.

He's working as a right side linebacker now although it didn't start out that way when he first reported to the Bengals' training camp in June.

"Actually, this is my third position," Steve admitted. "They started me in the middle (linebacker) and then switched me to running back when some injuries came up. I was mostly a running back in the exhibitions and was fortunate enough to score a touchdown on a 20-yard run against Miami.

"But this team has a lot of good, young running backs and I don't have the speed of an Essex Johnson, for example. My speed and movement are above average for my size, but they think I'm more suited for being a linebacker. I'm behind Ken Avery, a six-year vet, on the right side, and it's just a matter of learning the position now. I've been shifted around so much in such a short time that it's helpful to be able to concentrate on one particular spot."

Conley knows the challenge is formidable.

The Bengals used to be a young team that played well with the material available. This season they are emerging as a young team that plays well with talent.

They consider their old players the ones with six years experience in the NFL — and there are only three on the 1972 roster. The average starter on offense has between three and four years of experience. The average starter on defense has between four and five. Coach Paul Brown has poured youngsters into the action ever since the Bengals were founded.

Conley respects Brown, certainly one of the giants in the history of pro football, but he does admit he "can be a hard guy to play for."

"He shows absolutely no emotion, but then he's seen just about everything in 45 years of coaching. Nothing should surprise him any more. But you really know who's running things. There's no doubt about that."

Conley didn't know what to expect when he reported last summer. The degree of severity of the camps varies with the different philosophies of the coaches. Vince Lombardi ran a punishing training camp.

"Our camp was easy, I guess," said Conley, "when you compare it to what I hear about others. Actually, it was more mentally tedious than anything. We'd go from 9:30 in the morning to 9:30 at night with little time off and that went for six or seven weeks. There was no rookie hazing because Brown doesn't believe in it. He feels that overall the squad is too young for stuff like that.

"Everyone is basically in the same age group here," he continued, "and we have the same ideas. We spend a lot of time together, which is great. It makes for a close team on and off the field. This city really goes all-out for the team. I didn't quite expect that but it's great. It's almost like a college atmosphere."

Steve Conley has taken a gigantic step. He's stepped from the college campus to professional football, earning a new position in the process.

On the surface, there are a dozen or so differences between the college and the pro game. Beneath the surface, there are other, more important differences, some of them vital and others quite subtle. All of them throw hurdles in the path of the player trying to make the difficult transition from college.

The college player is still a part-student. His pro counterpart is a student of nothing except football.

The amateur may spend eight hours practicing for Saturday's game. The pro spends 16 hours or more with his team in practice and many more hours on homework.

It's not easy for a rookie. There's a demanding learning process.

One rookie cornered a veteran NFL player at a practice session and decided to get an honest appraisal of his chances.

"Tell me frankly," he said. "You know about my college record, and you've seen me working out here. What do you think I have to learn before I can make this league?"

Back came the reply, crude and sharp, but honest: "Professional football."

That's what Steve Conley is studying right now.

Power-Packed Field Runs Saturday In Sectional Cross Country Event

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

"If you added La Grange, York and Riverside-Brookfield, you'd have the state meet."

This appraisal, coming from Fremd coach Ron Menely, pretty well tells just how tough competition will be at the Barrington sectional cross country meet tomorrow morning at 11:00 at Thunderbird Country Club. That site is on Northwest Highway east of Barrington.

Fornine Herald area teams seven from the powerful Mid-Suburban League plus Maine East and Maine West) and two other independent runners from Elk Grove, it will be the most important moment of the season. Only the state final carries more significance and there is no state final for those who don't make it through the survival of the fittest tomorrow.

As Menely put it, "At this point you can throw out every other meet of the year. The past means nothing. It's a whole new ballgame.

"This is the state series. This is where tradition and background mean so much. Now, guys are running for the kids before them who have built that tradition. There's no more running relaxed. You perform or get out."

Unfortunately, the Barrington field is so packed with top teams and individuals that some people will have to "get out" who will be deserving of making the state meet. It's the same problem as in other years — talent is top-heavy in this part of the state; better than anywhere else.

But unfortunately, because of geographical limitations, the same rules must apply to the Barrington Sectional as anywhere else. Just the top three teams and top 10 runners go downstate. That's a shame because it's quite likely that seven of the best 10 teams in the state will be at Thunderbird.

Besides the two Maines and Mid-Suburban League entries Fremd, Palatine, Arlington, Hersey, Conant, Wheeling and Schaumburg, two other strong squads — Evanston and Deerfield — will also be in on the showdown.

Team favorites, logically, would be two district winners, Fremd (at Crystal Lake) and Maine East (at Elk Grove). However, as Menely said, you can't go by past performances in a meet like this. Besides, at Elk Grove, there were three teams close behind Maine East, all within four points of one another — Arlington, Hersey and Evanston.

Individually, the top harriers — in who knows what order — figure to be Arnie Jackson of Schaumburg, Bill Santino of Crystal Lake, Brian Powell of Elk Grove, Dean Erhart of Deerfield, John Enright of Crystal Lake, Gary Marshak of Maine East and Chip Barbour of Maine West.

Jackson has probably the top credentials of them all, though Santino is not far behind. The Crystal Lake flash was the first runner this year in any meet to outrun Arnie on his own hilly course in the district. As Jackson's coach, Denny Garber, said: "He's never done real well on this course. He isn't used to steep hills. Last year he was third in the district but 24th in the sectional here (at Crystal Lake). He was not as confident as usual and is disappointed, but he's not going to roll over and die."

Ron Menely

Powell, too, is a boy to watch after his somewhat surprising district victory. He recorded a tremendous 14:36 time on a new course a little less than three miles long (how much less is not certain).

Erhart is the kingpin of the Central Suburban League and won the Libertyville District with 14:25 for 2.75 miles. Santino's winning time was 15:38 over three miles of possibly the most rugged harrier terrain in the state.

What makes the race most interesting and unpredictable is that none of these top-rated individuals are on favored teams. The hopes of Maine East and Fremd — and of whoever finishes third, perhaps Hersey or Arlington — rest on close packing, the telltale factor in this big a meet.

Menely is just hoping to have his top man (Jamie Olson, fourth in the district) place seventh or eighth — but have four others trailing closely behind. Maine East has the same kind of plan, trying to have its runners as close as possible to Marshak. In the district the Demons had Pat Moyer fifth and Lloyd Spitzer sixth.

Demon coach John Coughlan says in regard to strategy for Marshak: "If a runner is good enough to go for individual honors, I'd hate to slow him down by running him in a pack. We always give our No. 1 guy the preference to run his own race. We can thank God for this; we've always had at least a couple of good runners at Maine East.

"Everyone else has a prescribed pace and then he tries to hit that pace. The district was not the best race of our lives, but it was a real good step in the right direction.

"We're dying to win the sectional but we know it will be a super close meet. It'll be awful hard for anyone to make a prediction on who's going to win."

Menely was "very happy" with Fremd's showing in the district. "We really bounced back (after losing the conference meet to Hersey), especially Olson. Our five-man spread was 23 seconds and that's very good on a hilly course like that.

"The hills at Barrington are long and rolling, not steep like Crystal Lake. We'd like to put five in the top 20 or 25. If we run our race, we'll make the top three teams."

Both Palatine and Fremd have been hurt by injuries to key runners. The Pirates' top man at the start of the season, Steve Peterson, has been bothered for some time with hip trouble and the Vikings' captain, Steve Inbody, has strained ligaments in a foot arch.

Jim Wise of Forest View, one of the leading area runners all season, will not be in the alignment Saturday because there was a scheduling mixup that prevented the Falcon harrier team from running in Tuesday's district competition.

Others leading their teams in the various districts were Arlington's Neil Haseman (fourth), Hersey's John Jones (eighth), Palatine's Scott Williams and Paul Kearns (fifth and sixth), and Wheeling's Bruce Messinger (ninth).

No. 1 St. Viator To Travel Sunday

by LARRY EVERHART

It was a struggle getting to be No. 1. But now that they're there, the wins keep rolling in if they are to stay.

This is the situation for St. Viator's football team, ranked as the very best team in the state by at least one Chicago newspaper this week following their 28-0 pasting of Notre Dame that gave the Lions a 6-0 record.

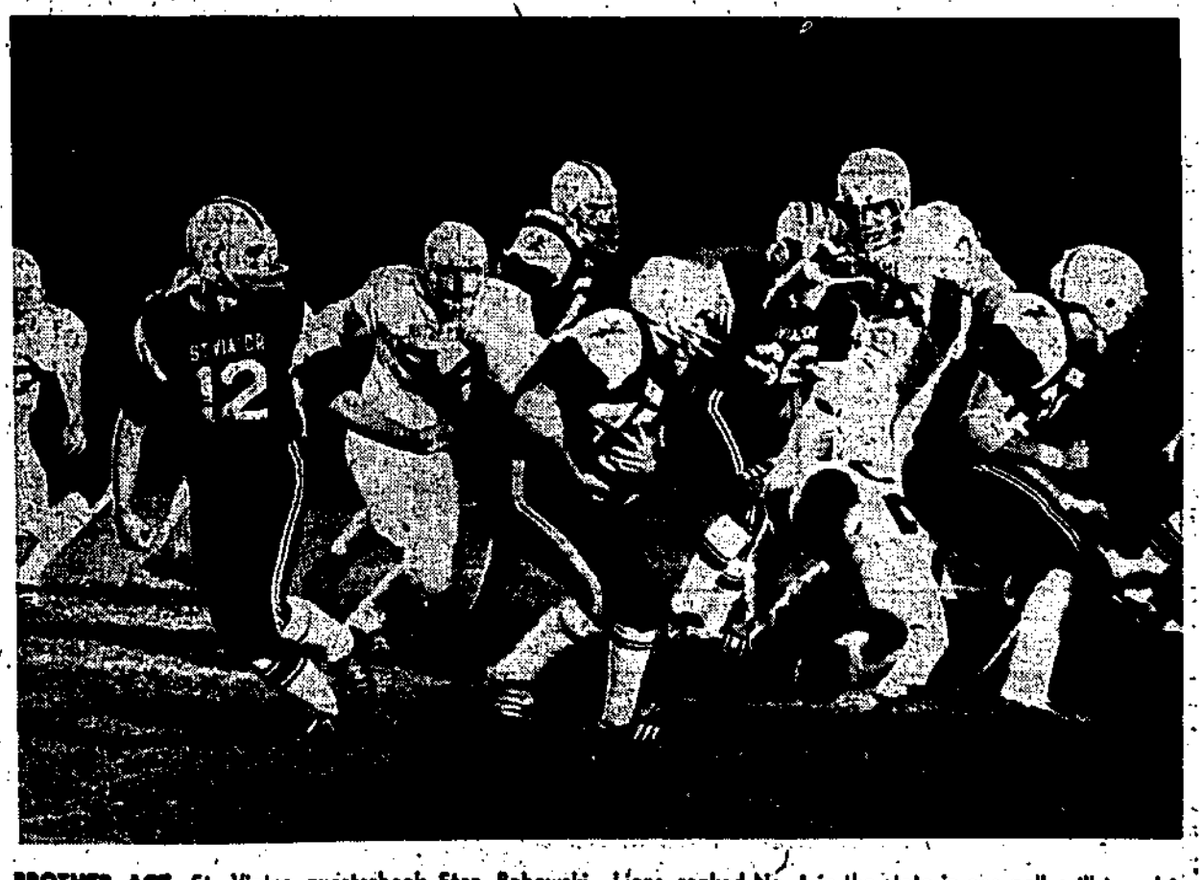

St. Viator doesn't necessarily need to roll up big scores to hold their lofty perch, as certain college teams have been known to do. All the Lions have to do is keep winning.

And, to be quite truthful, it is almost impossible to imagine them not winning when they travel to Westchester to take on St. Joseph this Sunday afternoon. St. Joseph is the only winless team in the Suburban Catholic Conference and took a 46-0 shellacking from Notre Dame, which was handled with ease by St. Viator.

The Chargers have good size but not much else. So unsettled is their personnel that coach Don Heldmann, as of the middle of the week, did not even know who would be starting for him Sunday — at any position.

Couple this situation with the tremendous momentum built up by the Lions (they handed state-ranked Holy Cross its only loss the week before last) and you can see that the score could be lopsided Sunday even if Viator doesn't try to run it up. Eager second and third-

SANTA FE SAYS THANKS

Dear Herald:

In behalf of Santa Fe Speedway staff and management, I would like to thank you for your fine efforts in helping us promote the ever-growing sport of auto and motorcycle racing.

In this, our 20th consecutive year of top-notch local clay oval racing and exclusive national American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned events, we have again been successful — to a large extent due to your continuous support.

We will continue to feature the most diversified racing schedule in Chicagoland in 1973 — Saturday and Sunday auto races, Wednesday night motorcycle shows, and various Friday night features including USAC midgets, demolition derbies and motorcycle TT races.

Exclusive Santa Fe specials ala "Super Joe" and the "Astro Spiral" are expected to provide speedway fans with additional thrills in 1973. Have a nice winter and see you in May.

PICTURE POLICY

Dear Fans Forum:

Just what is your picture policy regarding the high schools? I know you must get a lot of complaints because you obviously can't photograph every team every week, but I have never quite figures out just what the policy is. It seems you favor some schools although you obviously wouldn't gain anything by that except a lot of complaints.

Harold Larson
Arlington Heights

The picture policy is the same as it has been since the Herald began daily publication. Each high school football team is photographed during the same number of games each fall, except the division champions which receive one more. This works out to four per school per football season, or five in the case of the champion. It's the fairest way we have to see that every school is treated equally. There may be two or even three weeks when a school is not photographed but by the end of the season, they will have their four or five games covered. Yes, is impossible to photograph every high school game on a weekend. Thanks for your interest.

BENCH MOST VALUABLE

Dear Sirs:

When they finally get around to naming the most valuable player in the National League, it just has to be Johnny Bench of Cincinnati. I watched many games in that league this year and Bench is so much more important to the Reds than Billy Williams is to the Cubs. Cincinnati won its Division, the playoffs and just missed winning the World Series and the big man all season was Bench, not only on offense but also behind the plate. When Bench floundered in 1971, Cincinnati floundered. Williams has good years and the Cubs don't go anyplace anyway. The key to a most valuable player is his response to pressure situations and Bench constantly delivered this year. He's the best in '72. Williams had a fine year but it did nothing to make his team a contender.

LEAGUES ARE EQUAL

Dear Sirs:

The World Series is over and so should be all this nonsense about how superior the National League is.

Both leagues are equal and it's about time National League fans realize this. In the past 12 World Series the American League has won six. The American League has won 68 games and the NL 67.

That obviously shows equality despite what the National League fans say. All-Star games are meaningless and everyone knows that.

Oakland didn't have their long-ball threat (Reggie Jackson) and their top left-handed relief pitcher (Darold Knowles) and they still won the World Series.

It's time the National League fans realize there are TWO leagues and the ball they play in the American League is on a par with the National. The death of solid pitching is better in the AL.

Congratulations to the Chicago White Sox for battling that fine Oakland team down to the wire in 1972. With Melton back, and a couple winter trades, who knows what might happen in '73?

'SCREAMING CHEERLEADER'

Dear Herald Fans Forum:

Any aspiring sports announcer could do well NOT to listen to Jack Brickhouse in the closing seconds of a close game. H's so unprofessional it's ridiculous. His handling of the final seconds of the Bears' win over Minnesota Monday night on the radio sounded more like a screaming high school cheerleader. And then when it was all over, he interviewed Van Patrick, certainly one of the true professionals in the business, a pleasure to listen to. The Bears should get Patrick.

There are ways to get excited and still be a good reporter. Brickhouse's screaming and near-tears account of that missed Fred Cox field goal was just not professional. It wasn't even close. Did Jack think this was the Super Bowl?'

'Everything To Shoot For...Nothing To Lose'

Harper Battles Top-Ranked Triton

by PAUL LOGAN

How does it feel to be ranked No. 1 in the state, coach?

"Great! It feels great to be back up on top again," said Gene Mitz, head coach at Triton College in River Grove.

How doe it feel to take on the top team in Illinois, coach?

"Great! At least we get a chance to do some damage to somebody," said John Eliasik, the head man at Harper.

This potentially "great" game will get underway at 1 p.m. Saturday at East Leyden High School in Franklin Park. If the Warriors and their coaching staff consider the Hawks hapless after their last two outings (a tie and an upset), the afternoon could turn into an upsetting experience.

"I'd love to do it to Triton," said Eliasik. "They're more or less our natural rival. We're always compared to each other."

This is Triton's second climb into the top spot in the Region IV coaches' poll. though the Warriors have a 4-2 record, two of their wins are over the region runners-up Wright (4-1) and Rock Valley (4-1). Triton took care of the latter team last weekend, 10-0.

Triton's only losses were lopsided affairs to highly regarded Centerville (33-0) and Grand Rapids (47-0). By a strange twist of fate, Triton shares 18th place in the National Junior College football poll with Grand Rapids!

The Warriors have done some thumping themselves against Marshalltown (Iowa), 31-6, and Oakland (Mich.), 20-6. Their fifth win came by forfeit over Marquette.

Although eight players, including five starters, have been dismissed from the team and one super starter has been lost for the season through injury, Mitz is still highly optimistic about the future:

"It's the best our team has ever been — great team spirit. In football, this is what you need to be a winner."

As for the Hawks' spirit, Eliasik said it was "good. We're ready for a challenge this week. We've got everything to shoot for and nothing to lose."

Harper will be back a at full strength with the return of fullback Ken Memken. He will probably be alternating with Dennis Stohl.

Three players will be used at wide receiver — Tom Rambo, Jerry Vaccarino and Rob Kruse.

Despite going through the frustration of a 0-0 game in the mud Saturday, Eliasik had a surprise comment concerning the offense.

"Believe it or not, I was very pleased with the offense last week," he said. "All things being considered."

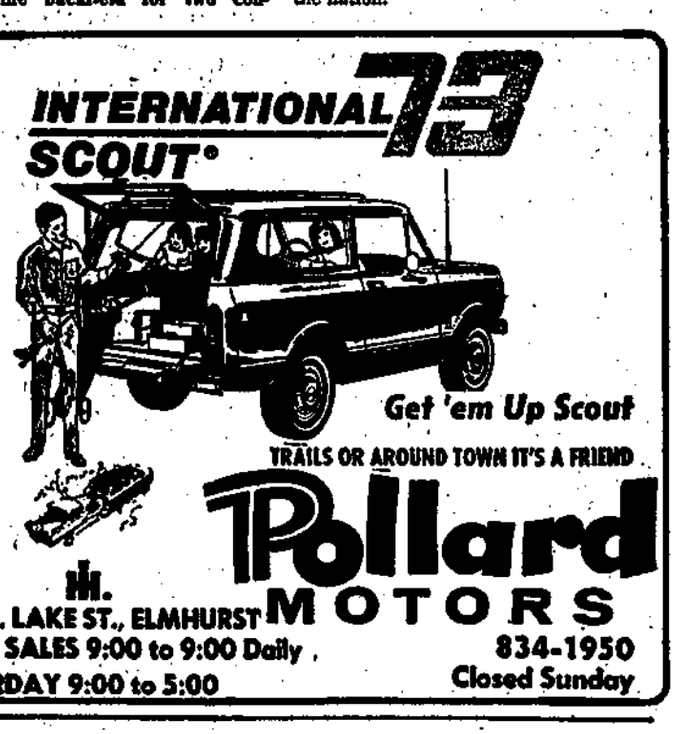

He went on to point out that prior to last week his team had averaged eight fumbles a game for the two games leading up to the mud bowl. Despite the rainy weather, the Hawks dropped the ball just three times.

"And only 35 yards in penalties," he continued "The offensive penalties have hurt us the most."

Both teams will be running the triple option off the wishbone. Triton's leading rusher is Tom Rumishek, 5-11, 185-pound halfback. He's accounted for 500 yards in six games.

"Last week was the first time we started the same backfield for two consecutive weeks," added Mitz, still another problem awaiting the upset-minded Hawks.

Harper will be countering with its well balanced backfield and outstanding pass catching threat — Kevin Sullivan. The 6-1, 190-pound tight end ranks seventh in the nation.

Anybody can sell cars.

Pick up any weekend classified advertising section of the newspaper and start counting. There they are. Hundreds of used car salesmen. From dealers with "overstocked inventories" to little old "Sunday driver" ladies. Everybody and his brother seems to have a car for sale.

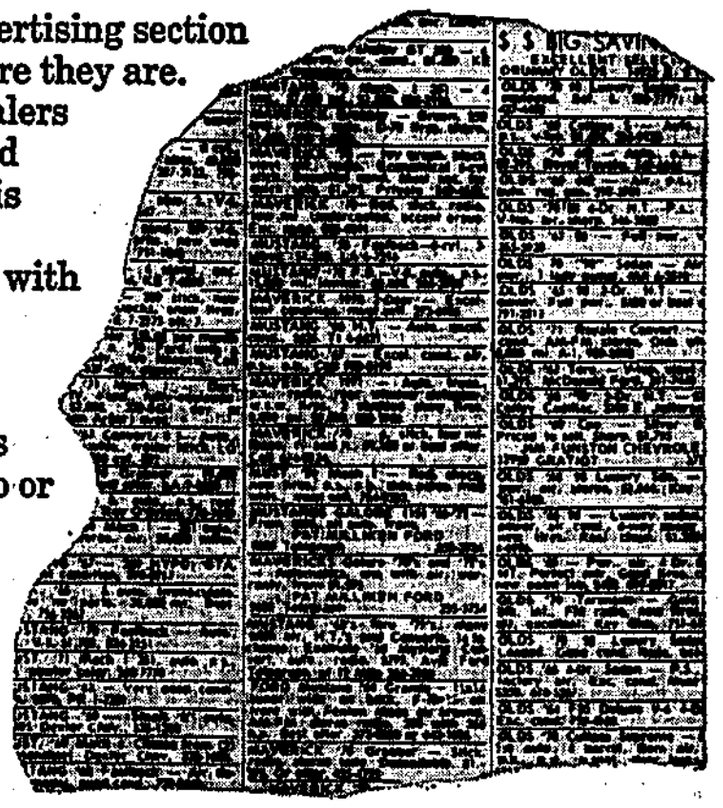

It's not surprising that in a country with some 100 million vehicles on the road there's such a wide choice of people and places to buy a used car.

To these sellers, of course, their cars are strictly used cars. They either want to or have to get rid of them.

But someone's used car to you, as a buyer, is really a new car. You know nothing about the automobile except what you're told by the person who's trying to get rid of it. And that beckons an incredible amount of good faith on your part if the seller doesn't happen to be someone you can turn to if everything he promised doesn't measure up.

At Woodfield Ford, we don't claim to have the biggest or the best or the lowest priced selection of used cars in town. No one person or dealer has all that. What we do have is a good selection of clean, late model cars with reasonable mileage—and reasonable prices to match.

You may not find the exact color or year or model you had your heart set on. But what you will find is an auto dealer with enough guts to invite you to inspect and drive the kind of used cars he's confident enough to sell, knowing full well he'll be in the neighborhood long enough to find out whether you're completely satisfied or not with the car you purchased.

In fact, we don't like to see it happen, but we'd rather return an unhappy customer's money in full than turn our heads with a "sorry, we're not responsible" attitude.

Anybody can sell cars. But you don't find that kind of used car policy just anywhere in the classified pages.

World Table Tennis Team Tryouts At Wheeling High

Tickets are now available for the U. S. Table Tennis Association Team tryouts in the Wheeling High School gymnasium, Dec. 16 and 17.

The Mt. Prospect Jaycees have been selected to sponsor and host the event which will attract the top 25 table tennis players in the United States.

Five men and four women will be selected from this group to represent the United States at Sarajevo, Yugoslavia in the World Table Tennis Championships, competing against teams from China, Japan, Sweden — 120 countries in all.

The same men and women who played against the Chinese, as seen on Wide World of Sports, are expected to compete for the nine places on the U.S. team in this two day event.

The competition will be entirely on a round-robin basis to be held in five, two and one-half hour sessions. the four women and five men with the best won-loss record will be selected for the World Team.

The Mt. Prospect Jaycees extend an invitation to table tennis enthusiasts from Illinois and neighboring states to attend this event which represents the most important competition in this sport for the entire year.

The double session scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 16 will start at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. On Sunday, Session Three will begin at 10 a.m. Session Four at 2 p.m. and the Finals at 6:30 p.m.

Ticket donations are $2 for the first four sessions and $3 for the final round only. For $8, all five sessions may be covered.

Tickets may be obtained through any Ticketron outlet at Montgomery Ward Stores or by sending a check or money order to Gordon Heisler, Mt. Prospect Jaycees, P. O. Box 27, Mt. Prospect, Ill., 60056 or by calling 312-392-6546. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Magic Number 1 For State-Ranked Grenadiers

Powerful Elk Grove Shoots For Clincher Tonight

The magic number is one.

Along the major league baseball circuits, the magic number system is utilized to determine how far away a team might be from cinching a pennant.

Along the South Division of the Mid-Suburban circuit, the system is in effect right now as loop grid competition enters its sixth and second-to-last week of action.

And the number is down to one.

For Elk Grove, one of the principals in the countdown, it means one verdict in their favor wraps up the divisional crown. For the other principal, Forest View, it means any single negative outcome — either a Grenadier triumph or a Falcon setback — mathematically rules them out of the championship picture.

As the situation unfolds, Elk Grove takes on Glenbard North at home while the Falcons entertain Schaumburg this evening. Another South loop contest tonight finds Conant invading Prospect territory and all three contests are slated to get underway at about 8 p.m.

Actually, Forest View has been nurturing only slim hopes of a playoff berth since their decisive loss to the Grove midway through the season. That verdict not only went against the Falcons in the standings, it meant that should the two teams finish deadlocked for first place the Grenadiers would still ascend to the title tilt.

In the skirmish for the number three slot in the South standings, meanwhile, the number is umpteen. This is the approximate possible number of solutions to a jumbled up race that so far has the Panthers holding the upper hand.

According to the schedule for the final two weeks of the season, Prospect would appear to be in the best shape however since they already have their games with Forest View and Elk Grove out of the way.

Here's how tonight's South Division action shapes up.

GLENBARD NORTH AT ELK GROVE

Glenbard coach Don Elmore is experiencing something altogether new to him — a winning streak — and he's finding the feeling is pretty nice.

How much longer it will linger remains to be seen. No one has continued a winning streak past Elk Grove in nearly two years and the Panthers will be stopping in at a most inopportune moment — Homecoming — for their battle with the Grenadiers tonight.

But Elmore hopes this new winning experience will provide his charges with at least enough inertia to put up a decent front against the Grove. "I'd like to at least give 'em a good ball game and I think our kids have the confidence, for a change, to play respectable against this powerhouse."

Last week, GBN picked up their second triumph in succession 7-6 at Schaumburg. "Our offense didn't look good. The conditions were poor but we played too conservatively to begin with. On top of that, probably four of the seven passes our quarterback failed to complete were right on target. That didn't help matters."

All in all however, the Panther pilot sees his team getting better with each passing week. "We're going with a lot of young players. By next year we could be fairly strong. I just hope a little of it shows through ahead of time Friday night."

Grenadier mentor Don Schnake views the Panther hookup in his usual conservative way. Aware of the fact that his club needs just one more triumph to officially seal up their second straight divisional title, he remarked, "I'd just like to get this one out of the way."

"I like their quarterback," Schnake continued on the subject of Glenbard signal caller Daryl Feltes. "He's only a junior but he's got good size and a nice arm. They've got good receivers as well, and he splits 'em out wide so that they're pretty much isolated and you're forced to go one-on-one against 'em."

The only change Schnake has in mind this week is to relieve one of his ace defensive standouts, linebacker Dan Mincey, of some offensive chores, inserting in his place John Lange. Lange, who has been seeing more and more action at offensive guard each week, will probably start now while Mincey concentrates on defense.

Elmore isn't altering anything. "Who wants to change a winning combination?" he chuckled.

SCHAUMBURG AT FOREST VIEW

This one is mostly for pride since the Falcons appear to be safely and permanently in second place and the Saxons are in the second division with just one league win.

"To be honest," admitted Forest View coach Paul Jordan, "in our division it appears to be all over (the battle for first) so it is a little hard to get the kids up." He's just hoping to do so by Friday night as the Falcons try to duplicate a 20-0 victory over Schaumburg last year.

"We didn't play as well as we can against Prospect," Jordan said about last Friday's 38-12 victory. "Prospect outplayed us the first half but we got a couple of breaks — they fumbled a punt and we had that weird play on the sidelines when Tom Mueller scored a long touchdown. Then we played better in the second half."

Jordan is wary of an upset plot by the

Harper Linksmen In Region Tourney

Colleges from these Illinois sectional tourneys will be trying to derail the "Lancer Express" as it rushes toward its first Region IV title today and Saturday in Champaign.

Better known as the College of Lake County, this talented Skyway Conference golf team won the Oswego Sectional at Fox Bend Golf Course with ease last week with a 294. Sister conference school Harper finished 30 strokes behind.

This showing makes Hawk coach Roger Bechtold somewhat of a realist as he prepares his team for the challenging Orange Course of the University of Illinois.

"I don't see how anybody's going to beat Lake County," said Bechtold, prior to taking his team down for a practice round on Thursday. "There's always a possibility, but very remote.

"It's conceivable to get second if we shoot good rounds down there. The problem (this past week) has been with the weather. Not too many players got out to shoot. It's hard to tell how they'll perform downstate."

Harper's chief competition for runner-up honors will probably come from within the conference in the person of Mayfair. The Hawks finished just behind Mayfair in the final SC standings, but Scott McMillion still was back to top form. The Hawks' ace at the beginning of the season had been out for most of the year with an injury to his hand. If he is capable of regaining his swing and touch, the Hawks could finish higher than ever before.

Also playing in the tourney will be Scott Persson, Frank Fenton, Mike Sutton and John Hansen.

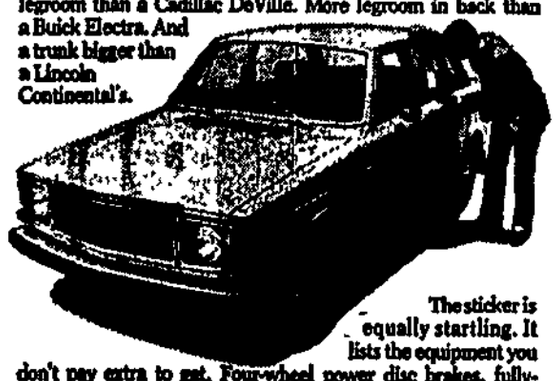

Winner of the Region IV Tournament will advance to the National Finals, June 12-15, at Roswell, N.M.

VOLVO: IT'S BIGGER THAN YOU THINK.

The Volvos in our showroom are bigger inside than many larger cars. Take our Volvo 144 sedan. It has more front seat legroom than a Cadillac DeVille. More legroom in back than a Buick Electra. And a trunk bigger than a Lincoln Continental's.

The sticker is equally startling. It lists the equipment you don't pay extra to get. Four-wheel power disc brakes, fully-reclining bucket seats, whitewall radial ply tires, tinted glass, electric rear window defroster. How much for a Volvo that roomy and that well equipped? Less than you might think. $3620.*

Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Play

Although playing a good defensive game with goalie Mike Mattox making several fine saves, the Midget All-Stars lost to powerful Park Ridge 4-1 last Saturday. John Verdigo scored the only Arlington Heights goal, assisted by Mike Retzer.

The Bantam All-Stars continued their winning ways Saturday as they beat Hoffman Estates, 7-0.

John Roth was superb in the nets, notching his first shutout. Rick Palmer opened the scoring with goals one and two, followed by two goals each by Brian Locker and Jeff Gardner, with a single tally by Doug Pelsue.

Assists went to Jim McGuire, Bob Friedian (3), Bob Rosenquist, Tom McDonald (2), Bob Bettis, John Otzer, and Doug Pelsue.

At Hoffman Lanes

The Blue Angels were the highest scoring team in the Hi-Flyers League at Hoffman Lanes last week with a 2166 series and 803 high game . . . Individual leaders were Maureen Garcelon with 498 and a 209 high game, Jan Graf with 468, and Ardy Heuer and Phyllis Tumminaro with 460 each . . . Some fine skill (luck?) was shown in converting some hard splits . . . Helen Beers conquered the 1-2-4-10, Hopsy Comer the 5-8-10, Judy Marxer the 2-10 and Karen McGinnis the 5-7.

stringers should get ample opportunity to show their stuff.

First the regulars will try to build up a safe lead as soon as they can. That, of course, will include Stan Bobowski, the quarterback who runs like a star halfback. The only offensive player really effective in the Notre Dame game, Stan rushed 14 times for 76 yards. He has had even better rushing games than that on two other occasions.

Bobowski has a fine arm and probably could be an outstanding passer if he wanted to, but there's been very little need for the Lions to throw. Not with standout ground troops of Stan, brother Steve, Tom Maher and Frank Cliggett.

Excelling on defnse last week were excelling on defense last week were Bosch and Andy Michuda, plus Jim Bristol and John Andejeski.

Head coach Jim Lyne does not dislike being No. 1 as some coaches do. "Being ranked is firing the kids up even more," he says.

"I'm not worried about them letting down or getting overconfident. I think they're mature enough to avoid that. They're still sober and serious and want to play football. They know it's up to them. They can win it (the league championship) if they want to."

The Arlington Heights Ladies Elks Auxiliary had quite a day bowling at Beverly Lanes. Nine girls cracked the 200 mark with handicaps.

Pat Greener had 224 and 227 for 633 series while Ella Kramer hit 232, Nancy Schiller 222, Gladys Fontana 212, Marge Colclesser 211, Evie Miles 210, Betty McKinley 207, Isabel Gibson 207 and V. Klingner 204.

The Screwdrivers still maintain first place with 22 points with the Manhattans in second with 17 and the Mai Tais third with 15 points.

Nims, one of three teams tied for first place upon entering the position round for the Parkway League at Beverly Lanes, automatically remained in first by taking seven points by forfeit.

Bill Larson hit 544 for NIMS. Quade won 5-2 over Meyer for the second slot as Jake Herr hit 550 for Quade and Bob Paddock 560 for Meyer. Bic Bananas won 5-2 over Butwein. Glenn Quade, high bowler of the night, hit 587 for Bic.

—Another Crucial North Weekend

Hersey head coach Joe Gliwa and Angelo Barro, the chief Rolling Meadows pilot, didn't wave to each other on their way to work this week.

The near-neighbors and school chums this past summer are close friends 51 weeks out of the year. Tonight they'll meet again, but with a football field between them.

"This is our ticket to the Super Bowl," Barro stated frankly. "We've investigated 50 million possibilities to this thing (the North Division championship), but they all lead back to our game with Hersey."

Gliwa views the pivotal clash in the same vein. "If we win, nothing bad can happen. We've earned a jump (one-game) ahead of the league and it's up to us to maintain that lead."

The crucial game can be billed as a "something-has-to-give" affair. Hersey has been on an offensive rampage that has accounted for its 28-points-per-game average. Meadows, on the other hand, represents one of the stingiest defensive clubs in the area with an average yield of a touchdown and extra point per game.

"We know that Jack Lloyd (75 tackles) is their ringleader on defense," Gliwa admitted, "and we respect what Rolling Meadows has accomplished on defense already this year. We don't think Meadows has had the schedule we've had to contend with this year, but we still can't make anything away from them."

Gliwa emphasized the Mustangs' "strict" triple-option offense and the capabilities of quarterback Bill Geegan, his brother Pat, Larry Pressl and Don Bohac — the components of the full house backfield.

"We won't be surprised if they throw quite a bit, either," Gliwa added. "They put the ball up quite a bit against Arlington last week, so we've had to prepare our kids for that, too."

The pass has been one of the key instruments in boosting Hersey to the top of the standings. Executed by rapidly-improved quarterback Mark Zakula, the Husky aerial weapon has accounted for 302 yards and eight touchdowns.

Chief recipient of Zakula's spirals has been end Marty Friel who has hauled in more than half of his teammate's 32 completions for 302 yards and five scores.

"That combination is really deadly," Barro said, "and when they mix it with the running of (Scott) Miesfeldt and (Matt) Lorlas, there's no question that they're a complete team — the best we've seen this year."

And speaking of weapons, Meadows houses perhaps the best foot in the league in placekicker Stan Hilty who has clicked on three field goals from 34, 25 and 28 yards. The conventional-type booter has also been perfect on all four extra-point attempts.

Keys to the game?

"We've been stressing pass protection and execution all week," Gliwa said. "I think we've seen enough wishbone this year from other teams that it won't surprise us completely and by the same token, we're anxious to exploit their defense. We know others haven't been too successful in the past and now it's our turn."

From Barro's standpoint, "I suppose there's pressure on us because we have to win, but just knowing that Rolling Meadows will have a hand in determining the final league standings is a thrill for us. Let's just say our kids are eager for the challenge and looking forward to the game. If we can move the ball consistently and get our offense to come alive, we'll be all right."

ARLINGTON AT FREMD

To remain in contention or not to remain in contention.

That is the question hovering over Arlington's clash at Fremd this evening.

Although there is a remote possibility that the team eventually emerging with the North Division crown will be wearing three defeats this season, the odds much more strongly indicate a titleist with a 5-2 or possibly even a 6-1 final mark. With that situation in mind, the Cards and Vikings with two losses apiece should be pulling out all stops to remain strong in the running when they meet tonight.

The common foes have several other things in common besides their records for the season. Both have been basically running teams on offense, going to the pass occasionally but relying more on strong lines to open holes and bruising backs to chew up the turf.

Both clubs have also been impressive on defense for the most part, hinting that this faceoff will not be a high scoring contest, even if the weather is conducive to point producing.

Since both outfits have also lost to front-running Hersey, they need help if they want to stay in the race. First they must help themselves though, by winning this game.

Arlington pilot Bob Walther, for one, believes passing may play a bigger role in this game than most people expect. "They've been giving their quarterback good protection all season and he's probably the best medium and long range thrower they've ever had over there."

At the same time Walther feels his own field general, Ward Schell, is beginning to round into form as a strong passing threat after a somewhat slow start. "We're coming to the point where we can rely on Ward more and more in this respect. If the weather's good, our side could open up quite a bit and I'm sure Fremd is just as anxious to test our defensive secondary."

After coming off one defensive skirmish against Rolling Meadows and preparing for another, the Card coach also observed, "I would guess Fremd is bigger than Meadows but I hope they're not as fast. If so, we could be in trouble. We were able to get up for our game last week pretty well because of the personal incentive involved . . . there's a natural rivalry there. Fremd is a little more distant."

Viking head man Al Ratcliff views the game a little differently. "Coach Walther produces the kind of team where you can look at a scouting report from 1969 and see just about the same thing in 1972. That's what makes him successful. He's got things down to a fine science over there."

Ratcliff believes the two teams are very evenly matched and as a result the verdict will be swayed by simple power and execution. "I'm not expecting anything fancy to win this one. It will be the team that hits the hardest and executes the best over the long grind that stands to gain the victory."

Arlington has bettered the Vikings in each of the last two seasons and holds a 4-1 edge in the series. Even so the Fremd coach feels his teams gave the Cards good battles in each of the last two seasons. "We lost but we hung in there and I thought the hitting was good right down to the wire both times. I'm looking forward to the same type of game again although I hope we can change the final results around a bit."

PALATINE AT WHEELING

Despite four straight losses in the MSL and the only winless record among the dozen conference teams, Palatine coach Arv Herstedt is greatly concerned about his hungry Wheeling host.

"I'm sure they haven't given up," said Herstedt. "I'm positive of it. They're out to salvage something out of the season. I couldn't believe that score. . ."

The Pirates' leader was referring to the 46-14 beating the Wildcats received at the hands of Hersey last weekend.

"I think they had a game sort of the way we did. Nothing went right for them.

"We just had a terrible ball game," continued Herstedt of the 7-0 loss to Fremd. "We still are looking for two good games."

Two straight wins would mean the North Division title, an objective that the Pirates haven't given up on.

"I think the North Division is totally up for grabs," he added.

Quarterback Jim Sobczynski will be trying to regain the solid signalcalling that helped the Pirates to their big win over Arlington. He lost his touch against Fremd despite enjoying fine field position on several occasions.

Sobczynski will have a new halfback to hand off to in the person of Lonnie Marchel, Bob Tansey or Al Koenig. Regular starting halfback Terry Tansey is lost for the season.

"He was playing touch football and separated his shoulder," said Herstedt. "That's a pretty big loss. He was really an outstanding junior."

Coach Jack Liljeberg might have to suffer an even bigger loss tonight if the doctor doesn't allow starting quarterback Jim Stoik to play. His right arm became infected and blood poisoning set in.

"I've got the doctor's note right here in front of me," said Liljeberg on Tuesday. "No football for one week. That's going to hurt our chances definitely."

Stoik has another appointment today, so the possibility of his playing is still there.

"We could salvage something if we can win one or the next two games," continued Liljeberg. "We can knock somebody out of there who's got a chance for the title. I think we can do it. We definitely have the spoiler role now."

Despite the lopsided loss, Wheeling's sophomore team ended a long all-level winless streak against Hersey with an 8-6 victory.

"That was a big win for us, I'll tell you," said Liljeberg. "Maybe that will change our luck."

"We've always played pretty well against Palatine ever since I've been here. It's Dad's Day for us. We'll need all the help we can get," he added.

If Stoik isn't available, Scott Keenan, Paul Groot or Phil Toffion will play quarterback.

Two players who'll be returning after injuries sidelined them are tailback Bill Swickard and Tackle Bill Chlebek.

Hersey-Meadows Headliner On Radio Friday

The important Mid-Suburban League football game Friday night between Hersey and Rolling Meadows will be broadcast on WWMM-FM of Arlington Heights.

Station sports director Dick Thomas and Herald sports editor Bob Frisk will report the action, starting at 7:55 p.m. at 92.7 on the FM dial.

Rolling Meadows' visit to Hersey is the featured attraction in the tight North Division race, which has the Huskies currently one game in front of Meadows, Palatine, Arlington, and Fremd.

The station has not picked a game of the week for Friday, Nov. 3 but will make a selection Saturday morning.

Hoffman Pee Wees Take First Place

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club Pee Wee Rams won first place in the East Division of the Northwest Community League by defeating the Knights, 22-0.

A 40-yard pass play from Dave Cerle to Dan Pellegrino and a run by Charlie Pugh made it 12-0 at the half.

The second half saw Pugh score twice more with Mark Zielenske adding a third.

Besides having a consistent offensive performance, Jeff Novak was outstanding on defense, including many unassisted tackles and a fumble recovery.

Other top performers on the offense were Sean and Rex Bradley, John Kenny, Chris Getzinger, Greg Yoder and Dan Reilly. Making up the rest of a defense that has only allowed 30 points in seven games are Bill O'Connell, Joe Griffith, Chris Eisenhauer, Steve Saletta, Dan Bubly, John Sheffield, Joe Gurecki, Pat Mark, Greg Ripohl, Russell Geary, Tony Howe, Doug Zielenske and Jim Katchel.

The Rams will take on the Schaumburg Spartans on Sunday at 1 p.m. at Ahlstrand Field in Hanover Park for the NCL championship.

visitors even though they have to be down after fumbling away a game to Glenbard North, 7-0.

"Schaumburg outplayed Glenbard North but just couldn't get the ball over the goal line," he noted. "Schaumburg is a good team. They have shown it on occasions."

He is grateful that there have been no more serious injuries to the Falcons. They have lost just one boy for the season, Rick Mirro with a knee injury. Bob Wagner also missed last week's game with a bad knee but could be back tonight.

As usual, offensive stars last week were quarterback Bill Millner (four of six passes completed for 64 yards) and John Kronforst (20 carries for 125 yards). Kronforst is the leading scorer (50 points) and second-best rusher in the league with 624 yards in five games.

Even after a couple of discouraging losses, coach Bob Ferguson and his Schaumburg crew are not ready to call it quits by any means. "I think we'll be up to meet this challenge," says Ferguson. "We want to be a .500 ball club.

"I still feel we can move the ball. And we remember last year's game against them. We held them to 0-0 at the half before they finally got to us.

"I know they have a big offensive line. We'll just have to be more aggressive and want it more."

The Saxons, bothered by injuries earlier in the season, have recovered for the most part and should be at full strength for tonight. A real workhorse last week was little halfback Wayne Morgan who carried 30 times for 77 yards.

If it doesn't rain again — enabling Schaumburg to pass more and not fumble as much — this one could be closer than expected.

CONANT AT PROSPECT

The pressure is on Prospect head coach Don Williams tonight.

Supplying the outside het will be visiting Conant while inside, Williams' two daughters (both Cougar students), have been needling the Knight coach all week.

"This is always a trying week for me," Williams admitted."we normally have some really good games with Conant, but someone is always disappointed in our family afterward."

In recent weeks, Prospect has been playing sound football. Quarterback Scott Grear is now barking out 99 per cent of the Knights' offensive plays and halfback Norm Smith has been coming on like ganghusters and now ranks as the league's 10th leading rusher with 224 yards in 44 carries.

Defensively, Mark Luciana, Phil Audet and Randy DiVito mold what is still the conference's best unit against the pass.

Williams recognized the injuries that have plagued the Cougars this season, but still appreciates the threat of quarterback Bill Atkocaitis and halfback Bill Fasig, if he's healthy.

"When Atkocaitis is on," Williams said, "he's as good a passing quarterback as there is in the league. In a way, I think Conant is in somewhat of the same predicament as we are. We're both still waiting to put everything together."

For Conant coach Ralph Losee, 'putting it together' has become more of a medical than a grid task. "I can't ever remember a year as bad as this for unusual and difficult injuries. And every week it seems something new comes up. I wonder sometimes if we'll have enough to field a team by the end of the season."

Perhaps his comments are only half serious but in any event this week's check of the infirmary list sees Dave Reynolds coming out of the hospital (after an appendectomy) and Dan Szymkowiak and Mike Kopin going in.

Kopin, a starting Cougar halfback all season, has a bruised spleen while Szymkowiak has a torn kidney. Also ailing now is Conant's little standout guard Mike Kelly. He has bronchitis and Losee indicates he will be out at least this week and possibly for both final games.

"We've got a lot of positions up for grabs right now. (Warren) Rodie did a good job starting at end for us last week and he'll probably stay. At guard there isn't a lot to think about since we're down to just two of them. We've got (Bill) Fasig back at halfback and (Bill) Koppari is still going at center even though he still is not 100 per cent yet. Other than that and the other halfback position, which is unfilled, our offensive lineup is pretty well firmed up."

Losee didn't spend much time dwelling on Elk Grove ("They're big, strong, quick and they did show mercy on us") looking ahead rather to Prospect: "Their pass defense must be for real and I know we're going to have a real problem on our hands trying to break through it."

He continued, "Their whole defense impresses me in fact. On offense they haven't done a lot yet but I think that's starting to come around now too."

Curling Club Opens Season

The Wilmette Curling Club opens the 1972-73 season on Monday, (Oct. 30) with three days of instruction and practice for new curlers, and coaching for the experienced curlers, at the Curtis Curling Center, 726 Ridge Rd., Wilmette.

The Center, a large six-sheet facility, is the only public curling rink in the United States. Curlers from the entire Chicago area are welcome to join the men's and women's leagues, or mixed league play. There is also time assigned for casual curling.

Gerry and Betty Duguid, both skips of championship rinks, will instruct new curlers again this year. Gerry's rink won the 1972 Illinois State curling championship, and Mrs. Dugid skipped her rink to the 1972 Women's National Championship, held in Grand Forks, North Dakota.

Wil-Wicks, the women's division, invites prospective club members to daytime instruction sessions, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday (Oct. 30-31, Nov. 1). Women who have curled one year or more will meet for coaching and practice Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons (Oct. 31 - Nov. 1).

Evening instruction is scheduled for men and women who intend to curl in regular and mixed leagues. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the sessions begin at 7 p.m., with practice and 4-end games starting at 8 p.m. (Oct. 30-31, Nov. 1).

Curlers who participate in the instruction program will join experienced curlers in the Early Bird Bonspiel, a three-day contest, beginning Thursday (Nov. 3), with prizes for the winners.

Additional instruction periods are scheduled for Saturday (Nov. 4) at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. for adults and juniors.

Two new leagues are offered this year. An evening league for women curlers has been organized for play on Thursdays at 7 p.m. A mixed group for new curlers will meet Thursday evenings at 9 p.m.

Wil-Wicks league play starts Thursday (Nov. 2) at 9:15 a.m. Three mixed leagues begin curling Sunday afternoon (Nov. 5). Men's leagues begin competition Monday (Nov. 6) at 8 p.m. Leagues for junior curlers, eighth grade through high school, get under way on Friday, Nov. 17, at

Milton Richman

TEANECK, N.J. (UPI) — The young man kept the introduction brief.

"Tonight," he said, "we have with us one of the greatest basketball players who ever played the game, a former Boston Celtic and now a part-time commentator with ABC — Bill Russell."

Applause.

Bill Russell moved toward the mike.

Not the old Bill Russell, but the new one.

You remember the old Bill Russell. He'd usually come out on that basketball floor with fire in his eye and an intimidating expression which sometimes made him look like one of God's last angry men.

But the new Bill Russell is altogether different.

He gets $1,500 for speaking to groups about an hour, then answering some questions, and it's obvious he likes what he's doing.

You could see that by the slight suggestion of a smile he had on his face as he placed his hands on the lectern and looked out at his young audience of some 300 the other night here at Fairleigh Dickinson, the ninth largest private university in the country.

"I'd like to say being here tonight is one of the high points of my career," began the 6-foot-9, one-time Celtics' coach in his sweet potato jacket, burgundy turtleneck, white belt and purple corduroy pants. "I'd like to say I've been looking forward to it; I'd like to say it's a big thrill; I'd like to say all that . . . but I'd be lying."

Laughter.

That was about as close as Bill Russell, an acknowledged straight-talker and master of the put-down, ever came to putting anybody down all evening.

For the most part, Bill Russell, 38 and the father of three kids, tried his best to identify with the 18-, 19-, and 20-year-olds who composed the majority of his audience. Sometimes he did, particularly when he talked basketball with them; sometimes he didn't. His generation simply wasn't theirs. One youngster hadn't even ever heard of Jim Loscutoff, one of Russell's old teammates with the Celtics.

Amont the subjects Bill Russell talked about were dope pushers.

He said they called them "dope peddlers" when he was going to school. Had enlightened self-interested citizens stopped them 25 years ago, he said, there would be no problem with them today. Russell said the problem bothered him.

"You see my friends," he said, lowering his voice in avuncular fashion, "what happens to me, happens to you; what happens to you, happens to me. Whether we like or not, we're in this together."

Russell rambled a bit, jumping from one subject to another without really trying to maintain any continuity. He was at his best when he talked about his playing and coaching days with the Celtics.

"When I was coaching, the Knicks caused me some trouble," he said. "They came up to Boston and beat us like we stole something. They beat us by about 38 points one night. When I coached, I had this thing — that you play as hard as you can from start to finish.

"After this game with the Knicks, I came into the dressing room and looked at my players for three minutes. I didn't say a word. Finally I started out by saying 'You dirty . . .' but then I stopped. I said 'The way you people played tonight cursing would be too good for you.' I told 'em I could take $500 from each of 'em but that would be too good for 'em also.' I said 'I know what I'm gonna do. I'm gonna beat you guys up, and I'm gonna go right down the line.'

"THEN I saw Wayen Embry staring at me. He weighed 280 at the time, he had slimmed down, you understand, and when he looked at me, he wasn't laughin'. I looked at him and big John Havlicek standing right next to him, and I said, 'You guys go home now and I'll whip you tomorrow.'"

More laughter.

Bill Russell had to laugh also.

Then came the questions.

Yes, Russell said, the United States was cheated in its basketball game with Russia during the Olympics at Munich.

In answer to another question, he explained he always played to win but has little use for violence in sports.

"You'll always notice the greatest players in sports rarely fight," he said. "Me? I had a few fights. That was just to straighten people out, when I was young. But when I was older, I didn't fight. I'd talk to 'em."

Again Russell laughed. He has a warm infectious laugh which sometimes winds up in a giggle.

Somebody in the back came up with a question about that old dirty word, money.

"I played basketball 25 years, 13 years as a professional, but I can honestly say I never played for money," said Russell, solemnly. "I played because I liked to play, and when I didn't like playing anymore, I quit."

For a split second there, the kids at Fairleigh Dickinson saw the old Bill Russell again. The one with fire in his eye.

Lancers Top Raiders In Hoffman Play

In a big rivalry game of boys football teams in Hoffman Estates, the Lancers of the Boys Club shut out the Raiders of the Athletic Association, 14-0. The victory kept the Lancers undefeated and untied after seven games and set up a showdown for them this week against another unbeaten squad, Glen Ellyn.

Water was at least two inches deep at the Conant practice field, but despite the difficult conditions, the Lancers did not make mistakes.

Terry Sopkin got the winners on the scoreboard in the first quarter by racing 55 yards on blocks by Steve Cyrier, Mike Kirchoff and Paul Gaska. Dan Kaufman scored the extra point to make it 7-0.

The other touchdown was set up by linebacker Kaufman when he picked off a Raider pass and returned it 60 yards. Ed O'Malley ran 18 yards for the score as Scott Miller and Jim Chamberlain blocked. Tim Harkness passed for Mike Reilley for the extra point.

The defense was one for the record books as the Raiders were allowed just one first down and a minus 35 yards rushing all day. Coach Bob Hill praised his boys who played such a fine defensive game — Harkness, Tim O'Toole, Jack Walsh, O'Malley, Steve Grobis, Chamberlain, Kirchoff, Miller, Gaska, Dave Conway and Bill Bartuch.

The Lancers have defeated all of their closest area rivals, Hanover Park, Schaumburg and the Raiders, giving them the Tri-City championship of the Junior Division.

Coaches Hill, Chuck Grove and Ned Rogovoy awarded game balls to Kaufman and Chamberlain.

Hoople: Buckeyes To Get Badgered

by MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Fearless Forecaster

Egad, friends, the spirit of Halloween is in the air. 'Tis the time when youthful pranksters are scurrying around the countryside making life miserable for your Aunt Nellie and Uncle Claude.

And judging from some of the comments on the surprising scores we have for you this weekend, some unfeeling souls have alleged the Hobgoblins have invaded our security-minded computer headquarters. Let me — kaff-kaff — assure you that allegation is a base canard — umkump. The predictions for this week are the complete and sole work of your Fearless Forecaster — Harrumph!

But enough of this chit chat as I know you are anxiously awaiting our brilliant forecast — kaff-kaff!

Would you believe the low-rated Wisconsin Badgers would badger the colossal Ohio State Buckeyes into submission? Well, dear readers, that's the way it will be, says the Hoople System.

We confidently predict the Badgers will turn on their long-time tormentor, Ohio State, in the friendly confines of Camp Randall Stadium in Madison. The Badgers will prevail, 19-18, in a real whing-dinger — heh-heh!

And, for those nonbelievers among you, let me remind you that the Hoople Forecast and — kaff-kaff — ONLY the Hoople Forecast gave you Colorado to defeat mighty Oklahoma last Saturday — har-rumph!

Elsewhere among the top-rated contests Michigan will trounce Minnesota, 44-14; Nebraska will improve its national image by thrashing Oklahoma State, 40-21; Oklahoma will stay in the national title picture by walking over Kansas State, 47-7; Southern California will have little trouble with Oregon State, winning by a 36-10 count, and Penn State will edge the rugged West Virginia Mountaineers, 27-21!

In a big contest in the east, the powerful Delaware Blue Hens will avenge their lone defeat of the '71 season by whipping the Temple Owls, 23-15. Egad, someone has to get the bird in that game — heh-heh!

Now go on with the forecast.

Hoffman Commandos Win

Commando's defeated the Boys Clubs Titans 6-0 in an annual rivalry. The game was played under very inclement weather conditions on Conant practice field which was under two inches of water. The weather proved to be a Commando asset. The defense was superb allowing the Titans a minus six yards for the day.

The Commandos won the toss and chose to receive. On the first series the Commandos moved the ball well — moving from their own 45-yard line to the Titans 18 yard line in 11 plays and two first downs before losing the ball on a fumble. Neither team could mount a very threatening offense thruout the remainder of the first half.

The second half was again primarily a defensive battle. The Commando kicking game was superb with David Curtin getting off punts of 24, 40, and 30 yards. Coach Rooney credits John Connell, center on punts, for an outstanding job in such poor playing conditions.

It was Curtin's 40-yard punt to the Titan seven-yard line that proved the difference. A penalty and two plays later the Commandos forced a fumble on the one yard line recovered by Tony Ianotti. Three plays later Jeff Lapidus went in behind right guard Sid Ironside on a quarterback sneak for the touchdown.

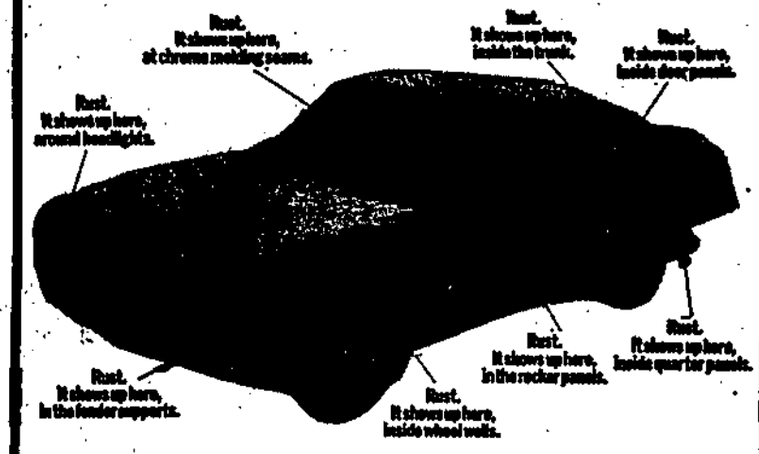

Curtin in addition to his punting was the leading rusher with 47 yards and two interceptions. Coach Dan Rooney said it was a team effort, when asked who were the stars. Some special recognition should be given to George Theros and Brian Eld who started their first game at center and QB. Don Holland, Dan Fasig, Bill Baird, Tony Ianotti and Dan Steinhoff had their best game on the defensive line.

Titan Coach Ed Cyrier complimented Titans Mike Kinsella and John Kerr for their outstanding defensive effort.

Next week the Commandos face West Chicago to see who will make the league playoffs. The winner of the game will face either Addison or Downers Grove.

The auto-makers haven't done it. So we did.

They still haven't unveiled the rustproof car.

And they probably never will.

Because real rustproofing just can't be handled on an assembly line. And undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't help either.

But at Ziebart, we use nine patented spray tools to get inside your car's body. Inside, where rust starts.

We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car absolutely rustproof. Up to 35% more soundproof. And worth more money when you trade it in.

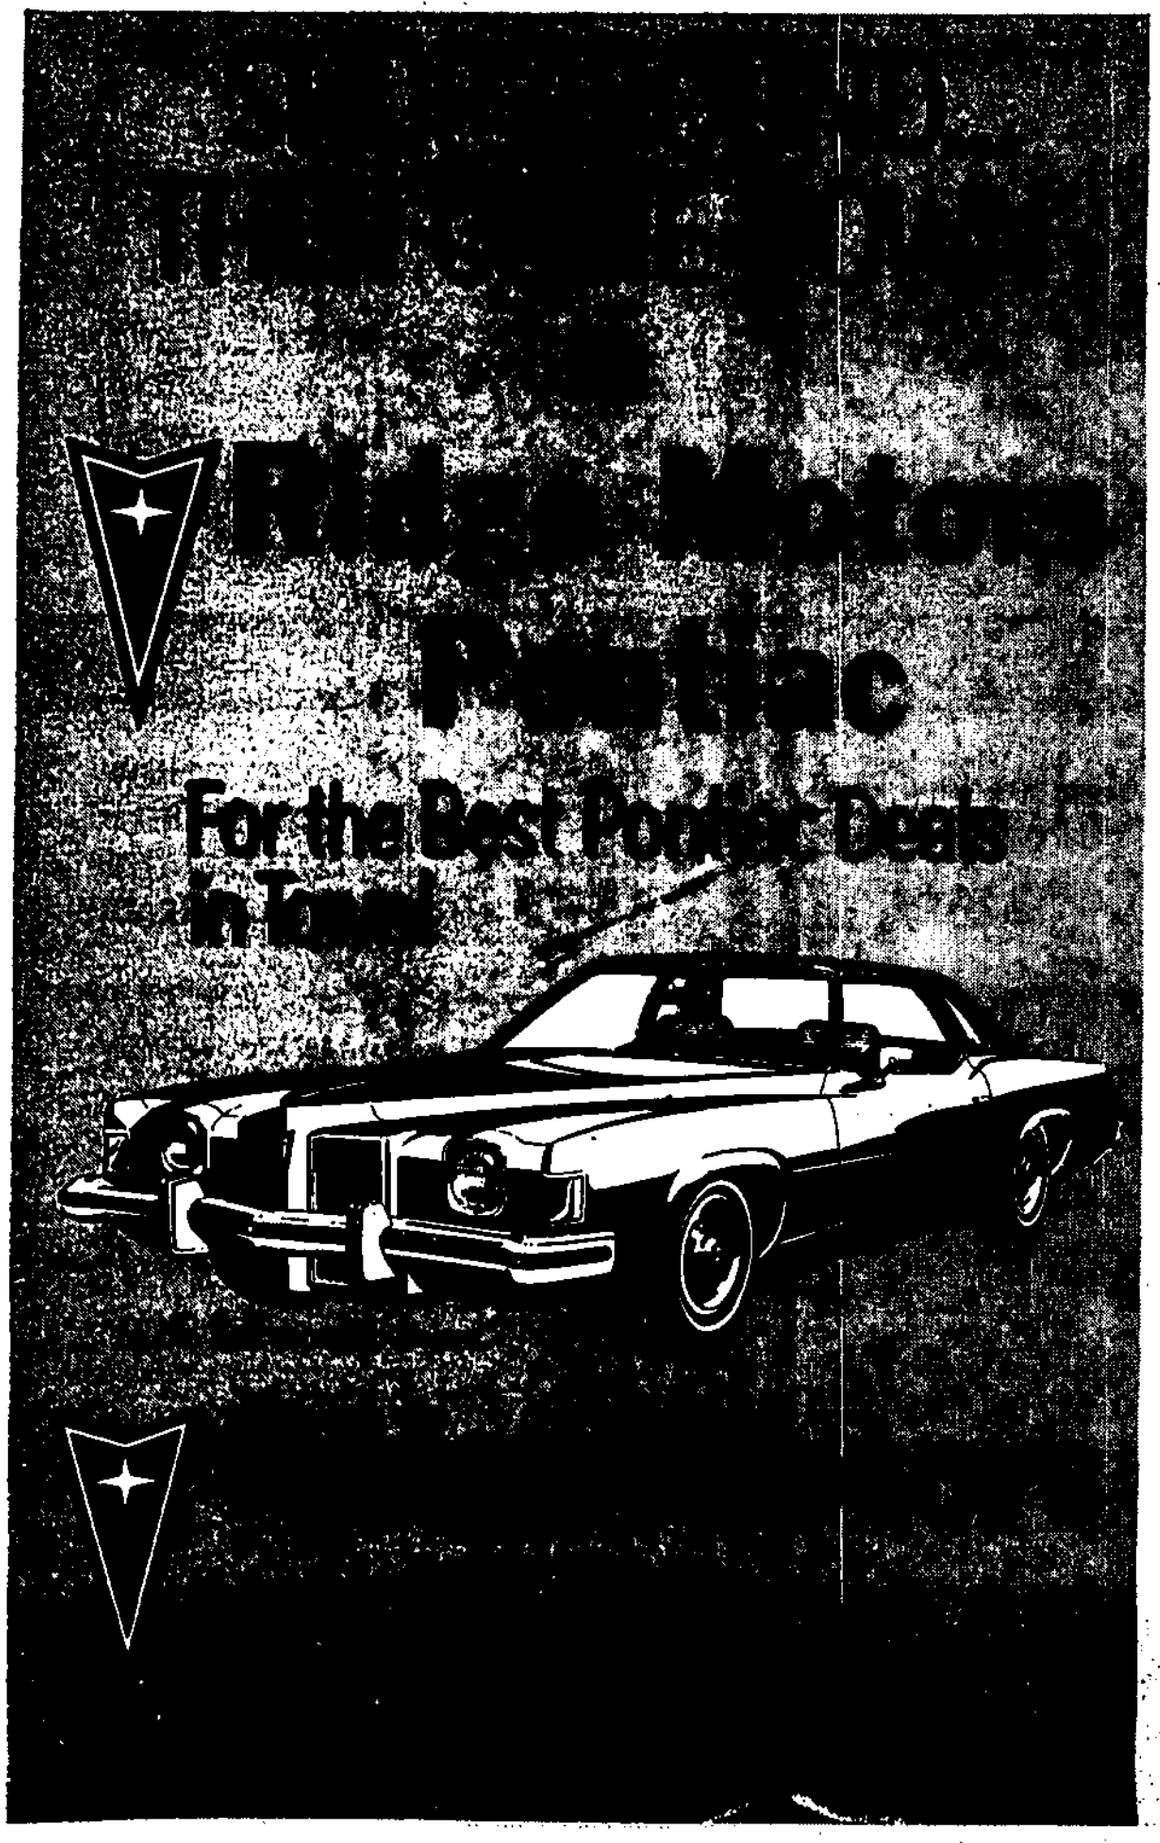

The Ziebart process is so foolproof, in fact, that we'll guarantee your new car against rust for 5 years or 60,000 miles.

There's only one Ziebart process. And only one place to get it. Through an authorized Ziebart dealer.

The one nearest you is listed on the back.

You don't have to be a skier to enjoy the Ski Show/expowinter 72

It's a World's Fair of winter sports. What to buy, what to wear, where to shop, where to ski, how to get there, where to stay, what to see, how to save money, how to do it all, easy, safe and happy.

Hear Olympic Gold Medalist Stein Eriksen, in person, tell his most fantastic ski story yet...see SKIVISION, a thrilling, colorful multi-media ski fantasy... watch sixteen brand new ski movies in seven theaters—the Winter Olympics, the Alps, the Rockies, Canada, New England, the Sierras, stunts, spills, blizzards, avalanches, mountain climbing, free style, the World Cup, the Grand Prix....

Enjoy the brand new SKI CIRCUS, live, indoors, double flips on skis, juggling, stilts, comedy, leaps, kite flying, all by professional and Olympic champions... and the new TRANS AM 5000, coast-to-coast, head-to-head World Indoor Professional Slalom Championships on the longest ski run in the world.

Let SKI Magazine show you how the new ski clothes fit, look and function, and how to choose the right skis for you...see how GLM and the new Short Skis make learning to ski safe, easy and fun...watch Nordic/Cross Country/ Ski Touring demonstrations, the new, quiet way to enjoy winter...and the experts from SKIING Magazine will show you how ski equipment works, how to take care of it, and how to use it safely and enjoyably.

Find a bargain in the Great Swap and Used Ski Sale...try the YMCA Ski Fitness Test...the Budweiser Beer Garden...and visit 200 or more exhibits on every kind of skiing around the world, with experts to answer your questions... all with Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council hospitality.

It's all here...a world all its own...four big days and nights of fun, beautiful people and information...all for the price of a good movie...and you don't have to ski to enjoy it! COME, AND BRING SOMEBODY YOU LIKE

3 Bands At NU's Homecoming

Dyche Stadium is alive with color and action this fall and football is just one of the attractions.

Northwestern's autumn Saturdays are filled with such show-stoppers as four Big Ten marching bands, the baton twirling champion of the world, an all-new Willie the Wildcat, the inaugural performance of the Northwestern University "Wildcat" Alumni Marching Band, and the always colorful pom-pon girls and cheerleaders.

Big Ten football this year brings some of the nation's finest marching bands to Evanston. Hosting the visiting bandsmen is Northwestern's own internationally acclaimed "Wildcat" Marching Band, one of the fastest-stepping bands in the country. NU's band will play new pre-game and halftime shows at Dyche Stadium this year in its inimitable Broadway-Dixie style.

NU's Homecoming game with Indiana Oct. 28 will bring three bands into Dyche Stadium. Indiana's Marching Hoosiers are famed for their fiery antics on the field. NU's "Wildcat" Marching Band, in addition to its own performance, will welcome, for the first time, the NU Marching Band Alumni — popularly known as NUMBALUMS. More than 100 former "Wildcat" band members are expected to march and play at the Homecoming game.

Because this is the regionally televised game on ABC-TV Saturday, the kickoff has been moved up to 12:30 p.m.

The Marching Illini, complete with Chief Illiniwek, are sure to help bring Chicago-area University of Illinois alumni out to Evanston Nov. 4.

Ohio State's All-Brass Buckeye Band brings the Dyche Stadium season to a close Nov. 18.

Tickets for all Northwestern football games are available at NU's Athletic Ticket Office in Dyche Stadium. The office is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. For schedule and ticket information, call 492-7070, in Evanston, or 273-4488 from Chicago phones. All NU home game tickets are also available through TICKETRON outlets.

Willie the Wildcat, Northwestern mascot since 1924, emerges from the purple

SPORTS WAGON: Volvo's sports car class model is the 1800ES Sports Wagon which combines the look and feel of a sports car with the cargo area of a station wagon. The 1800ES provides a 5-feet by 4-feet by 22-inches storage area (35 cubic feet) with rear seat down. The sports wagon's four-cylinder engine is electronically fuel injected for precise fuel/air mixture in varying conditions. The windshield wiper sweep area is now 10 per cent greater for improved visibility. The large tail gate window on the 1800ES, with its electronic defroster also provides superior visibility. The 1800ES Sports Wagon replaces Volvo's traditional 180 coupe sports model.

Martha Parkinson Mills

A Wise Lady Speaks Her Mind In Rhyme

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"My friend, I hope that you are 'hep.'
Suggest that you should 'watch your step'
Before you leap, you'd better look,
Or you might end up in my book."

With after-thoughts of many of her jingles still fresh in my mind, I drove up the driveway adjacent to the "crumbling castle" Mrs. Martha Parkinson Mills labels her home.

The two-story stone house with leaded glass windows and a round tower to one side is unique and intriguing, like its silver-haired genial owner who ushered me into the front room marked by a high beam ceiling and a bevy of antiques.

Still somewhat pleasantly surprised by the amount of interest being taken in her small book of verses, "As I See It," she immediately began, "I don't know what you'll want for this story."

"I grew up in the rural community of Rensselaer Ind.," she stated proudly. "At the age of four I recited my first poem ('The Raggedy Man' by James Whitcomb Riley)."

"I remember it like yesterday. I loved the applause," she continued. "I've been doing it ever since. I'm a real devotee of Riley."

MRS. PARKINSON has received a lot of publicity in her lifetime. Nor is "As I See It" her first published experience. It follows on the heels of another book she finished last year, "Silver Lace and Blue Denim," containing poems and bits of verse she wrote as a girl growing up in Rensselaer.

She is very proud of her pioneer heritage and is the fourth generation of Parkinsons to have been born in the small Indiana town.

The senior citizen of Arlington Heights has received numerous national awards for her wood carved dolls that are encased throughout her home. Many played their part as props for poetry recitals Mrs. Mills formerly presented before organizations and clubs.

"I called them the little people of Drury Lane," she said. The last doll Mrs. Mills carved was Lincoln at Gettysburg. It sits on her television set.

But she doesn't want to dwell on her dolls because that is in the past. The years have destroyed her carving and she has retired from giving programs. That vital need to be creative is currently being filled by her four-line verses. Having written over 500 . . . "I lost count after that" . . . she is hoping to publish another small booklet this spring.

"Though your flattery I like, forsooth,
It's my looking glass that tells the truth.
My hair is thin, my muscles sag.
Let's face it. I'm just one 'old bag.'"

SHE CHUCKLES when you read that particular verse back to her.

"How old are you, Mrs. Mills?"

The question is a good one since fashionably dressed in a bright pink pants outfit and showing no lag in gait whatsoever, her self-portrait is a little misleading.

"I'll be 87 in November," she affirms. "I've done a lot of things in my time, but never much housekeeping," she laughs. "Many exciting things have happened . . . but I've never been in jail."

Grandmother of eight and great-grandmother of two, she began writing her verses just for the fun of it.

"I have a little trouble with insomnia. When I can't sleep, I get up and write something down. The rhyme might not come out quite right the first time but I polish that up later," she explained. "It is something over which I really have no control. Some days I don't write anything; other times I write six or seven."

Mrs. Mills expounds in her verses wisdom and opinions that have matured over 86-plus years.

"YOU WILL disagree with many of my somewhat unorthodox views," she writes in the beginning of her book. "That you have a perfect right to do. I do not ask that you agree with everything I have said. I only ask that you respect my right to say it."

"They slop about in their bare feet,
Long hair and garb that's far from neat.
A stupid way to let us know
That they don't like the 'status quo.'"

"I wrote that one day after I went to Chicago and saw all those hippies lolling around Michigan Avenue not doing a thing," she said.

But Mrs. Mills also writes,

"Those crazy kids with all their capers,
Sure get the headlines in the papers.
But here and now, I want to state,
The kids I know are simply great."

"A lot of kids are simply misjudged," she continued. "If they have long hair, they're all put in the same category. My grandfather was a wonderful person and he wore a full beard."

"WE HAVE TO judge people individually," she continued carrying the discussion over to racial discrimination.

"Until we learn to judge people individually, we aren't going to go very far," she said. "The problem can't be legislated."

"You'll judge your brother, if you're wise,
Not by the color of his eyes.
And, unless our reasoning is thin,
Not by the color of his skin."

Mrs. Mills winter vacations in a small town right outside Sarasota, Fla.

"The sunrise is just out of this world," she said. (A love of nature is very evident in many of her verses.)

"When the sun shines, it's like millions of diamonds reflected on the bay," she continued. "And close by is a wilderness. I call it an African jungle. It's filled with birds, snakes and alligators. But I haven't been back since I heard there were bobcats there too."

Yet her denunciations are as expressive as her praises, particularly to annoying nuisances . . . like salesmen.

"IF YOU WANT to do a thing badly enough you can," said Mrs. Martha Parkinson Mills who in the last several years has turned out more than 500 four-line verses. Many have been compiled into a small booklet entitled "As I See It." She continues to write and hopes to publish another book this spring.

"By phone or knocking at my door
They figure I don't 'know the score.'
Their tactics do not suit my taste.
All that 'hot air' just gone to waste."

"I DON'T even know how they get my telephone number," she said. "It's unlisted. They call and want me to go to college. They'll even loan me the money they say. Someone else comes along and wants me to buy a car. What would I want with a car? I don't even drive."

But Mrs. Mills does get around quite well on a three-wheeler which she rides back and forth to do her shopping.

"It keeps my blood going," she said.

A Unique Film

Coming: The Naked Ape

by DICK KLEINER

When I heard that somebody had bought Desmond Morris' fascinating book, "The Naked Ape," for a movie, I figured the purchaser was looney. It couldn't be made into a film. It was a book of ideas not a story. It was about as cinematic as the Sears Roebuck catalogue.

I have just talked to that looney, a slim, bright-eyed man named Donald Driver and maybe he's done it. Anyhow, the filming is finished, the post-production work is well underway and it will be out sometime next year — after three years of work.

"It's a unique film," he says, "and I don't mean that as praise, but as fact — nothing like it has ever been done before. I have no idea how it will go, who its audience is, what the reaction to it will be."

What makes it unique is that it is, in Driver's words, "a multi-media movie." It uses live action (with Victoria Principal, Johnny Crawford and Dennis Olivieri), animation, art, architecture, music and maybe even the kitchen sink.

THE FINISHED picture is meant to be funny, a commentary on man and his world. But Driver isn't sure the public will get the joke. Maybe they'll take it all seriously. That's something he'll have to wait and see.

Driver says he first saw the book when it was printed in Life Magazine, before it came out in hard covers. And he immediately visualized it as a movie and bought it. That's remarkable in itself because he'd never made a movie before.

He's always been connected with the stage, as a playwright and director. He currently has a play running in Chicago, "Status Quo Vadis," which will open on Broadway early in 1973.

He likes the film medium — he says it's a "gentleman's medium," because you only work from nine to five, where with the stage you go 15 hours or so a day while preparing a play to open.

"There's another difference," he says. "In the theater, the people you meet are unpleasant, but honest. In the movies, everybody is charming, but they're all crooks."

'Something Wonderful'

Conrad Makes It Big As Cannon

by DICK KLEINER

Hollywood — (NEA) — Most actors are as introspective as a summer squash. They live outgoing lives, think outgoing thoughts, probably even dream outgoing dreams. It is rare to find one who can analyze his emotions.

Bill Conrad is one of those rarities. Riding the crest of a huge tsunami to success, he can pause to consider what it all means. For him, "Cannon," his big CBS show, is a bountiful blessing.

"Something wonderful has happened," Conrad said, and his light blue eyes shone with delight.

"I've always been successful, but I've never been connected with A SUCCESS of the size of this one. And it's made me realize I'm doing something important — as important as building a bridge.

"I don't say this as part of any ego trip — I don't need that — but I'm convinced that I'm contributing something important. I'm giving people some happiness each week, and that's exciting."

HE'S RIGHT. It is a contribution. Lots of actors tend to scoff at any attempt to pat them on their egos and tell them they make people happy for awhile, and therefore they are doing worthwhile work. It has become fashionable among actors to say, "It's just a job — but I really wish I was a teacher or something really important."

Not Bill Conrad. As a result of "Cannon," he's seen the light, and, as he says, it's wonderful and exciting to know you're doing a job that gives millions some weekly joy.

"Many people ask me," he says, "If I get tired of signing autographs. No, I don't. I realize that everybody who comes up to me is taking his heart in his hands. For all they know, I could be mean and chop them off at the knees. Oh, you get the village idiot once in awhile, but most are decent people — they love me, and I love the whole thing."

Now that the first, shaky season of "Cannon" is under his ample belt, he loves everything these days. That first season had its tribulations, as most new ventures have.

"LAST YEAR'S scripts," he says, "could have been done by anybody — Mannix, Columbo, anybody. But gradually, the character of Frank Cannon has evolved until today he's an individual and the scripts are Cannon scripts."

So he loves the part and the scripts and the show. And he says he has a love affair with the crew and vice versa. And he loves the act of working.

"I have to work nine months out of the year," he says, "and I only wish it were 12. I'm happiest when I'm working."

The success of the show has, naturally, made him a big commodity on the Hollywood flesh market. He's doing guest shots on some of the major variety shows — Dean Martin, Bill Cosby, "Laugh-In," Sonny & Cher.

He says that his agency, William Morris, recently told him he's become their hottest client, from the standpoint of demand from variety shows. And, he says, he's "having a ball" doing the shows.

BILL CONRAD

"YOU'RE LOOKING AT a happy actor," he said, and every one of his 265 pounds (give or take a dozen pounds or so) seemed to be grinning along with his wonderful face. "And there aren't many happy actors around."

He knows all about happy and unhappy actors, because for many years he was a director. He gave that up when "Cannon" came along, and he doesn't regret it for a minute.

"This came at the perfect time in my life," he says. "I have no responsibilities. My son is 15, going to a school on Catalina that specializes in marine biology and oceanography, the two fields he's interested in."

The "Cannon" crew seems as contented as is "Cannon's" Conrad. There's a girl assistant director, Linda McMurray, who is prettier behind the camera than most girls in front of the camera.

There's Conrad's dialogue director, an old-timer named Michael Audley, who says that "Bill has almost a photographic memory, but he'd have to have, to learn all the lines he has to learn."

AND THERE'S Big Jim Casino, Bill's stand-in and double. From a distance, it's hard to tell the two apart. And that is as it should be, because Casino does most of Conrad's stunts — Bill has a trick elbow which he must watch — and that's why you can't tell when you see the show.

"Bill and I have an agreement," Casino says. "I make him look good in the long shots and he makes me look good in the close-ups. I'm trying to take some weight off, so I can do the stunts better and make Bill look better."

It's a cheerful company, mostly because its star — companies take their morale tone from the star — is relaxed and cheerful. They did a scene and it rough first take. There were a few phoomfers and fumbles. But nobody got excited, nobody showed any sign of tension.

"Well," said Conrad, "I think we got the general idea, anyhow."

Co[illegible]

When you're caught on the horns of a dilemma, the logicians say, you must make a choice which usually involves compromise. It's the opposite of having your cake and eating it too but I go along with the cake theory.

Recently, a friend dropped me a note saying she was going to manage a good estate sale in a town some 30 miles away, and that if I would be on hand among the first comers, I would have a good chance to get some really fine things at a pretty fair price. Or, she suggested, I could wait until the last day of the sale, the last hour, in fact, and if anything was left, I could have it very reasonably, because they intended to sell out completely.

I decided to do what any red-blooded, beady-eyed antiquer would do — I went both times.

A friend went along the first time (hint: always take along a friend who has different collecting tastes from your own, to avoid scratched wrists.) We arrived with shining morning faces a half hour early, so as to be first in line. So did 30 other red-blooded, beady-eyed antiquers.

THE POLICY OF this house sale, which is a good one, even though I didn't think so at the time, was to let in only twenty people at a time, so as not to be overrun, and so that everyone could examine the merchandise without risk of life and limb. We leftovers stood outside, trying to act nonchalant and uncaring, but inwardly fretting that the best things were going to be carried off. As people left, others were let in, and our turn finally came.

The manager had not exaggerated; it was a good sale. Everything was old or collectible and the owners had been quite eclectic in their taste, for they had something of almost everything. The prices were right, too, for one expects to pay about half at an estate sale of what is charged in a shop; and that's how my friend had priced them. I felt very fortunate to get a fine old Imari platter and my companion bought some of the old needlework samples she is so fond of. I missed out on the small Oriental rugs, for the one lone man in attendance carried them off at the start, and I'm sure he found some very good bargains. He was smiling from ear to ear.

ONE HUGE ORIENTAL rug was left. One would have had to have a ballroom sized area to accommodate it, and the price was quite high, but still a bargain, considering its type and condition. It was a Royal Sarouk in a beautiful deep plum, and except for the fringe on one end, it wasn't badly worn. (Oriental rugs are one thing you can buy in poor condition if the price is right; they always have value.) In fact, some antiquers prefer their rugs worn and thin, especially in an authentic Early American decor. Orientals "go" very well with this type of furnishings because the early colonists did use "Turkey" rugs and those from the Near and Far East.

I had admired another Imari plate, smaller but unusual in pattern, but could afford only one that first day. On the last day of the sale I went back, taking another pal along with her husband. He is an Oriental rug lover, and he negotiated with the owners and bought the huge rug for a song. I did a little negotiating of my own and bought the second Imari plate so reasonably that I figure I got a bargain on both plates, in the irrational rationale of the collector.

THE NEW OWNERS of the huge rug sent it out to the cleaners and had one end refringed. This is an intricate hand-done process, involving unweaving or "picking out" the end, then binding it off, not just sewing on a new fringe. The cleaning and fringing cost $100 but they still felt lucky to have bought a rug of that size at such a price.

"Not to decide," they say, "is to decide." To paraphrase, "To decide both ways is to find two bargains."

The Book Stall

"LIFE," by GARY KRIST.
Olympia, $6.95

Gary Steven Krist seems an amiable, likeable young man. He has an IQ way above average. He is well-read, likes to try to get inside his own brain to find out what makes him tick.

Krist has written a fascinating autobiography titled "Life." It is so well-written that when you finish, you almost feel sorry that he must spend the rest of his life in jail.

For Krist Masterminded an outrageous — and almost successful — crime. He kidnapped a pretty young heiress, Barbara Jane Mackle, in 1968, buried her alive in an ingeniously constructed life support system near Atlanta, and extorted half a million dollars from her wealthy father.

With better fortune, he would have gotten away with it. His luck and resourcefulness ran out in a Florida swamp, after Miss Mackle had been unearthed, alive and well.

The book deals in detail about the bizarre kidnapping, but even more, it deals with Krist's formative years — years on a desolate Alaskan island, all but ignored by his parents. Then he turned to petty crime.

Krist is a criminal, but also he is interesting. And so is his book, once you work through the incredible series of typographical errors in the printing.

Composer Of 'Third Man' Puts Away His Zither

by GERD KRIWANEK

VIENNA (UPI) — Toni Karas pushed aside his well-worn zither and shook his head sadly.

"Times have changed," the composer of the "Third Man" theme said. "There isn't a single zither player left in Vienna's wine cellars.

"People are no longer interested in good music. They care only for Pop and Rock — but is that really music?"

Karas, 66, whose haunting Harry Lime melody became a world hit, retired recently as a full-time musician.

"I do not fit any more into these hectic times which lack humanity and culture," he said in an interview.

"People today have lost all feeling for good companionship. They can enjoy themselves only when they are noisy and shouting. Money and ambition have replaced everything."

It was chance, not ambition, that made Karas famous.

A graduate of the Vienna Academy of Music, he got a job playing the zither in a Viennese wine cellar during the meager post World War II years.

"One night, British film producer Carol Reed was among the patrons," Karas said. "He stayed behind until almost everyone had left. He asked me if I would compose the music for a film he was shooting in Vienna. I agreed. The film was 'The Third Man'."

SWEPT TO STARDOM, Karas toured the world with his zither, performing in more than 440 cities.

Karas sunk his earnings in a wine cellar of his own. Socially it was another hit, but financially it was a flop.

So he took up his zither again and joined the Wienerwald restaurant chain, which specializes in Viennese chicken, as their star performer.

Earlier this year, Karas retired on doctor's orders. But he still continues to practice the zither two or three hours each day and plays at the opening of every new Wienerwald eatery.

The rest of the time he devotes to his garden, overlooking the Sievering valley — one of Vienna's wine growing centers.

The small, spritely, bespectacled musician plans to continue writing songs for the zither. Karas does not expect any great success.

"Who can play the zither these days anyway?" he said.

'Skyjacked' Banned

SYDNEY (UPI) — Australia has banned the movie "Skyjacked," starring Charlton Heston. The Australian censor said he believed the film would teach people how to stage a hijacking. But the novel "Hijacked," on which the picture is based and which includes many more details of the actual hijack, is on sale throughout the country.

Playback

by Tom Von Mehren

Cat Stevens

Cat Stevens' fourth A&M album, "Catch Bull At Four" (SP-4385), is as impressive as all the prior ones. But it may not be as commercial.

All of the Cat's trademarks are present — high-strung melodies, shifting rhythms, plucked guitar, surreal lyrics and Alun Davies backup on guitar — but the album is not oriented toward producing hit singles. Musically, it goes back to the first A&M album, "Mona Bone Jakon," while Cat's voice is stronger and the meanings many shades less clear.

The album probably won't win many new fans for Stevens but it will delight the thousands of old ones. As usual they can expect to hear the Cat on guitar and piano, but they also will be treated with his work on synthesizer, electric mandolin, Spanish guitar, penny whistle, organ and assorted percussion.

FOR EXAMPLE, "Angelsea" is made very exciting through the use of the synthesizer. And with his guitar, it pulls one into swaying with the choruses. Another real good song is the lovely "Sweet Scarlet" on which Cat accompanies himself on piano only. Reportedly dedicated to Carly Simon, the song is filled with tender lyrics that tell of what was gained through a love that failed: "All those days are frozen now and all those scars are gone/Ah, but the song carries on."

Two of Stevens' epics are included. In "18th Avenue" we are told of a cab trip to the airport on the surface, but messages abound underneath (although sometimes unclear). The instrumental break in this song tells a tale of its own with its many shifts in style and tone. The other epic is "Ruins" which basically warns if we don't stop messing around with the environment, it will get pretty gruesome. "Don't stop that sun to shine, it's not yours or mine," Cat writes.

Each of the other six songs also has something to recommend it but don't expect to hear them all on your AM radios. Most of the songs are too sophisticated.

What do Percy Faith's "Day By Day" (Columbia KC-31627), Andy Williams' "Alone Again (Naturally)" (Columbia KC-31625), Ray Conniff's "Alone Again (Naturally)" (Columbia KC-31629) and Johnny Mathis' "Song Sung Blue" (Columbia KC-31626) all have in common?

Answer is they all contain versions of "Song Sung Blue" and three out of the four try these: "Day By Day," "Alone Again (Naturally)," "Too Young" and "Where Is the Love." But there the similarities end.

I AM NOW CONVINCED that Mathis has no peer as an interpreter of popular songs. This is his second great album in a row. He is more consistent and pleasing than any other popular singer and the arrangements he works with are also the best turned out these days. D'Arneill Pershing handles all arrangements in this superb album.

Mathis seems a little softer this time around and in songs like "Too Young" he invokes his earlier romantic sound. A beautiful rendition of "Where Is the Love" and a skilled "Lean on Me" are other highlights. In fact, the only fault I can find is a bit too much chorus on "Run To Me."

Mathis (who used to run track at school) is about to leave all others in the dust.

Other new releases include: "Black Sabbath Vol. 4" (Warner Bros. BS-2602). Once again the band has turned out some heavy rock and roll (well amplified). But what feeling there is comes from the performance, not the music — most of which is undistinguished. The exception is a pleasant little melody called "Changes."

"Mar Y Sol" (Atco SD2-705) is yet another festival album, this time recorded in Puerto Rico. Surprisingly, though, both the sound quality and the music are good. Exciting performances by Jonathan Edwards, B. B. King, Cactus, Allman Brothers, J. Geils Band and John McLaughlen are included.

BERT MILLER of Evanston, right, plays Eleanor of Aquitaine, and Jackie Shadinger of Chicago is Alais in "The Lion in Winter," forthcoming production of Des Plaines Theatre Guild.

'Lion In Winter' Next For Des Plaines Guild

"The Lion in Winter," a witty but dramatic comedy about King Henry II of England, has been scheduled as the next production of Des Plaines Theatre Guild. It will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings for three consecutive weeks starting Nov. 3 and continuing through Nov. 18.

The play by James Goldman is a both humorous and dramatic tale of what might have occurred at a Christmastime gathering of a feuding royal family.

Hank Vandenboom of Wheeling will play the lusty King Henry and Bert Miller of Evanston will appear as his devious queen, Eleanor of Aquitaine. Their three sons, all contending as Henry's successors to the throne, will be acted by Ron Verson, Niles; James Gicas, Chicago; and Rocky Laudadio, Harwood Heights. Verson plays the surly Richard, later called the Lion-hearted; Gicas, the crafty Geoffrey; and Laudadio, the petulant teenaged John, who 32 years later signed the Magna Carta.

Jackie Shadinger of Chicago has been cast as Alais, the French princess whom Henry is reluctant to give up as his mistress just because she is betrothed to his son Richard. Daniel Kreisman of Skokie will portray her brother, King Philip of France, who comes to court to demand either return of Alais' dowry or the marriage to Richard.

Nancy Kole will direct this play for the Guild.

Sponsored by the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club the shows are benefit performances with proceeds going to Cancer Research, the Brain Research Foundation, Scholarships for Teachers of Exceptional Children, Project Concern and the National Association for Retarded Children.

Entertaining with Locke will be six circus acts. "Bumper thumbers" and balloons supplied by Northpoint Jewel Tea, will be given to the children.

Tickets, $1.50 apiece, are available through the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club, P.O. Box 575, Arlington Heights, 60006. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be included with ticket requests and time should be specified, 1:30 or 3:30 p.m.

Mail-ins for tickets will be accepted until Saturday, Nov. 11. Tickets are also available from any member of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club.

Choral Concert At Forest View

A choral concert sponsored by Chapter ER, Arlington Heights, P.E.O. Sisterhood, will be presented Sunday afternoon at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

The Chorallers of Arlington High School, the Town Criers of Forest View and the chamber choir from John Hersey High School will display their vocal talents starting at 2 p.m.

The concert in the Little Theatre at Forest View will help raise scholarship money for a local university coed. Tickets at $1.50 are available through Mrs. Norman Patberg, 259-4441; Mrs. William Grady, 392-3664; or may be purchased at the door.

The P.E.O. Sisterhood is a philanthropic and educational organization interested in providing increased opportunities for higher education to women. There are seven chapters in Arlington Heights.

Director In Debut With 'Charlie'

Evidently directing plays is like riding a bicycle; once you've learned how, you never forget.

At least that seems to b the case with Ginny Lobaugh, who has dusted off the director's chair, unused for more years than she cares to admit, to accept directorship of Masque and Staff's most recent production, "Goodbye Charlie," opening this weekend at Dempster Junior High School.

According to cast and crew of the comedy, Ginny hasn't forgotten a thing she learned over a period of several years sometime back as traveling producer-director for the Cargill Company. It was Ginny's job with that company to visit small towns in the East, South and Midwest to work with various civic and social organizations in the production of fund-raising theatricals. Every group, according to Ginny, was a different challenge, and "You learn your craft in a hurry that way," she said.

Ginny also chalked up considerable acting experience with the Chicago Stage Guild, with which she appeared for seven years following her stint with the Cargill Company.

THE RESULTS of her work with Masque and Staff, with which she has been associated for the last several years, will be seen beginning at 8:30 this evening and continuing over three additional performances tomorrow night and next weekend. This time, however, Ginny is provided with able assistance in the producer's job by Liz Williams, who is assuming that role, too, for the first time. Assisting Liz are production committee chairmen Susan Johnson, Skip Skibski, Bob Farber, Sharon Farber, Elaine Pelligrinetti, Deanna Skibski, Guy Marsh and Lois McKelvey.

"Goodbye Charlie," which features Judith Haugh, Ted Thoms and Susan Woodrow in principal roles, is the story of Charlie Sorel, a philandering playboy who is shot dead by a jealous husband and then reincarnated — not as his former self but — as a beautiful young woman. The results of this remarkable transformation, at which Charlie is at first appalled and then somewhat pleased, are all too predictable — and extremely funny.

Tickets for the play may be purchased at the door before each performance. Season tickets, enabling the holders to see all three of Masque and Staff's 1972-73 productions, may be ordered by calling 437-0679, or may be purchased at the door through the run of the current play.

JUDITH HAUGH appears as Charlie, late playboy who is reincarnated as an attractive young woman, and Ted Thoms plays Charlie's buddy, George, in "Goodbye Charlie," opening tonight at Dempster Junior High. Masque and Staff is producing the comedy.

Craft Boutique In Mt. Prospect

Mount Prospect Craft Artists, a local group interested in crafts, will present their fourth annual boutique Nov. 9 at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 See-Gwun.

Handcrafted items by an estimated 50 members will be on sale from noon till 8 p.m.

Among those who will be exhibiting are Nels Johansen, woodcarving; Thor Petersen, lapidary art; Cathy Dillon, copper enamel pictures; Kent Burgess, metal sculpture; and Gladys Ackley, rosemaling.

Further information may be obtained from the group's secretary, Evelyn Brandeau, 253-5214.

The door donation of 25 cents per person will be given to emphysema research.

Mr. Voice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Allen Swift, broadcasting's "man of a thousand voices," has given vocal interpretations of mail boxes opening, tooth decay erupting, germs germinating, soup being slurped, and peanut butter taking during his varied career.

He has been the voice of Mighty Mouse, Herman the Mouse and Dwight D. Eisenhower. His voice was dubbed for Eisenhower's in the movie, "The Longest Day."

MOS Auditions For Children's Play

Auditions for Music On Stage's Christmas production, "The Emperor's New Clothes," are being held next Thursday at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights. Tryouts begin at 8 p.m.

There are six singing parts available and a chorus to be comprised of men, women and children.

Director and author of the musical is Chris Musil of Wilmette. She will be working with the musical director, John Shaw of Mount Prospect. The two directed the two Christmas productions staged by MOS last year at Woodfield Shopping Center.

This year's play is being presented in association with the Parents Arts Council of School District 59. Performances will be staged in four schools beginning Saturday, Dec. 2. Other dates of production are Dec. 9 and Jan. 6, 13 and 27.

Further information is available through Mike Woulds, MOS president, 894-2182.

Art Guild To Have Pottery Program

Mrs. Marie LeFevre will demonstrate making stoneware pottery before members of the Community Arts League of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove when they meet next Thursday.

Mrs. LeFevre, a member of the Community Arts League herself, moved to Riverwoods from New York a year ago. She has exhibited and won awards in many art fairs throughout the East and is currently in the process of setting up her own studio.

Mrs. LeFevre will be assisted by Mrs. Pat Ketzel, a potter from Buffalo Grove. They will demonstrate the slab and coil method of working with clay as well as throwing on a potter's wheel. Various glazing and firing techniques will also be discussed.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the old church building in Chamber of Commerce Park on Wolf Road north of Dundee Road. Further information is available through Mrs. R. Bruhn, 537-0760.

Sexy Lainie Kazan In Regency's Blue Max

Lainie Kazan

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The BLUE MAX of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE has further established itself as a full-fledged nightclub spot rather than only a hotel lounge with the booking of LAINIE KAZAN who is currently on stage through Nov. 4.

The sexy songstress has a voice that never quits with a volume that hardly needs encouragement from her accompanist.

But she is backed by a very effective group of musicians who include her guitarist and musical conductor, James Stuart, and pianist, Russ Turner. Percussionist for the Blue Max, RICK BOETEL, highlights several numbers by offering unusual sounds with the tamborine, triangle and other instruments.

The full strength of Lainie's voice booms out with such numbers as "Sunny," "Summertime" and "Porgy."

A little quieter and a whole lot sexier (however, no number is devoid of allurement) is a medley which Lainie introduces with the comment, "If you could see into my soul, perhaps you'd get this message." She then breaks into "I'll Marry the Sun" and "Natural Woman."

Lainie Kazan makes up the whole show as did Dick Haymes, her predecessor in the Blue Max. If this is a new procedure, I'm all for it, particularly if it means extra funds have been allotted to attract big name entertainment.

Lainie's only fault is that she kept the audience waiting half an hour. But then, I guess her stage performance made up for it.

CATHY & THE GOOD NEWS bring their music to the TACK ROOM show lounge in the ARLINGTON PARK TOWERS HOTEL beginning this Monday and continuing through Nov. 25.

Featured with the female singer are RAYMOND BROWN on organ, MICHAEL ONDO on drums and JIM HUEGEL on bass.

Another new combo to open in the area is "THE ON STAGE MAJORITY," a musical comedy troupe that will be performing in the WINDJAMMER LOUNGE of the CHICAGO MARRIOTT MOTOR HOTEL beginning next Wednesday.

The group is composed of four young men who use a variety of musical styles, instruments, costumes and facial expressions to present an act of "1,000 faces." The group's engagement lasts through Feb. 25.

FERLIN HUSKY and CARL SMITH will headline a country and western spectacular coming to MUNDELEIN HIGH this Sunday. The show will also feature the COMPTON BROTHERS, JEANIE WRIGHT AND THE DEDICATED FOUR, HAYDEN THOMPSON and SIMON CRUM.

There will be performances at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tickets, 566-0533 or 566-1656. Proceeds from the show will go toward the Jaycee Youth Center being built in Mundelein.

"THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER," the story of two look-alike boys who "just changed places," will be dramatized at the MILL RUN CHILDREN'S THEATRE on weekends through Nov. 17.

Plays in progress in the surrounding area include "THE GAZEBO" at Pheasant Run Playhouse with guest star CRAIG STEVENS.

"LOVE IN E-FLAT" is currently being staged at PAOLELLA'S RUSTIC BARN DINNER THEATRE in Bloomingdale. AL NUTI, who appears in the production, has been nominated by the Joseph Jefferson Committee for the best actor award in a supporting role for 1972-73.

"WILL SUCCESS SPOIL ROCK HUNTER?" is the theatrical fare through Nov. 5 at SHADY LANE FARM PLAYHOUSE three miles west of Marengo on U. S. 20.

The "INJUN SUMMER" cartoon, produced in life-sized proportion on the lawn adjacent to the Playhouse and dining rooms, is now erected and will remain up through November.

Children's Play Auditions Monday, Tuesday Evenings

Village Theatre will hold open auditions for its children's play, "The Adventures of Peter Macaroon," at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday (Oct. 30 and 31) in the Pioneer Park Bathhouse, 560 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

The script by Jared Brown calls for six male and female adults, two teenagers and seven children. The fantasy features stories about The Duke Of Dirtydom, who turns Princess Fair into a lima bean, and Countess Nasty, who sets out to paint the moon black.

Roger Krupa of Mount Prospect will direct "The Adventure of Peter Macaroon," with production dates set for Dec. 16 and 17 at Hersey High School. For further information, Krupa can be reached at 255-4707.

Rodgers Surprises

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone knows Richard Rodgers wrote "Some Enchanted Evening," "Younger Than Springtime," "Mountain Greenery" and "My Favorite Things."

But an exhibition at New York's Hallmark Gallery honoring the composer's legendary 55-year career listed some other, less familiar Rodgers melodies. Among them: "Fan Tan Fannie, "My Pal Bumper," "How's Your Health?," "When they Rub Noses In Alaska," "Lido Lady" and "Out Of A Job."

LOUIS NYE AND EDGAR DANIELS appear together in a scene from Arlington Park Theatre's production of "Charley's Aunt," now going into its last week of performances.

Fess Parker Park

Fess Parker has announced plans for a $25 million 150-acre amusement park in Santa Clara, Calif., to be called "Fess Parker's Frontier World Park."

Mali Stamps

The African republic of Mali has ordered a set of three commemorative stamps honoring Nat King Cole, Louis Armstrong and Erroll Garner.

Music Calendar At Harper

A coffeehouse concert tonight, a combined choir and band concert Monday evening and a Harper Community Orchestra performance Nov. 6 are coming events at Harper College.

Folksingers Sean Ryan and Walt Conley will be entertaining in the College Center tonight, Conley from 8 to 9 and Ryan from 9 to 11. There is no admission charge.

A native of Ireland, Ryan has lived in the Chicago area the past 10 years. Formerly a resident of Des Plaines and Mount Prospect, he now lives in Schaumburg and is an instructor in the learning laboratory at Harper.

Currently appearing at the Foxes Den in the Rolling Meadows Holiday Inn, he will be featured there also in December. He also has sung at the Earl of Old Town in Chicago and at Butch McGuire's in Mount Prospect.

Walt Conley also is appearing at the Foxes Den Tuesday through Saturday nights. With a drama degree from Colorado State University, he has appeared on television and in off-Broadway shows as well as giving college concerts throughout the U. S. and Canada.

FOR THE MONDAY evening choir-band combined concert, Jerry Davidson, Harper music instructor, will lead the choir in the suite from Offenbach's operetta, "La Vie Parisienne." Assistant Professor Robert Tillotson will direct the band in Gustav Holst's "First Suite in E-Flat," "Prelude" and "Fugue in F Minor" by Houston Bright and John Philip Sousa's "George Washington Bicentennial" march.

Dr. George Makas, professor of music, will conduct the Nov. 6 orchestra concert which will feature the Suzuki Violin Players of Arlington Heights, a group of 16 young people. The orchestra will play the Dvorak "Carneval Overture" and "The New World Symphony." Betty Haag will direct the Suzuki violinists.

Both the Monday night and the Nov. 6 concerts are free and open to the public. They begin at 8 p.m. and are held in the College Center.

Best Off Broadway Tells Cast For 'Sound Of Music'

Best Off Broadway Players has completed casting of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music," scheduled for presentation in December.

Sue Ruetenik of Arlington Heights will appear in the lead role of Maria, the vivacious novice who leaves the convent to become governess for the Von Trapp family. Sig Erber of Oak Lawn will play Captain Von Trapp.

His children will be portrayed by Peter Buckley, Janet Locker, Susan Mueller and Colleen McManus, all of Arlington Heights; Matt Penn, Palatine; Evangeline Miller, Prospect Heights; and Judy Crop, Mundelein.

The Mother Abbess will be played by Betty Meyers, Mount Prospect, and the parts of Sisters Berthe, Margaretta and Sophia will be taken by Charmaine Sayre, Lynn Jessen and Fran Pitchford, all of Arlington Heights.

Tracy Albert, Barrington, will appear as Elsa; Bob Esvang, Arlington Heights, as Max; Bert Kuhr, Elk Grove Village, as the Baron; Chuck Sayre, Arlington Heights, as Franz; and Marilou Arnold, Des Plaines, as Frau Schmidt.

ROLF WILL BE protrayed by Don Narter, Wheeling; Ursula by Margaret Downham, Arlington Heights; Herr Zeller by Don Potter, Hoffman Estates; and the Admiral by Gil Pearson, Villa Park.

Additional cast members include Diane Scherer and Chuck Lubeck, Mount Prospect; Pat Piper, Mimi Senticola, Sandy Blanc, Judy Gabl, Eileen Kiely, Sharon McManus, Tom McManus, Loryn Dodge and Marianne Marchesese, all of Arlington Heights; Charlotte Domville, Yvette Heyden, Cindy Cole and Greg Ziomek, all of Palatine; Linda Ferguson, Hoffman Estates; Jan DiCosola, Wheeling; and Donna Bernat, Villa Park; Chris Carle, Chicago; Heidi Seagren, Barrington; William Sayre, Roselle.

The production will be directed by Angelo Karas of Chicago with Bill Kotsakis of Palatine as musical director and Rosann Pusateri of Arlington Heights as choreographer.

Show dates are Dec. 1 and 2 and 8 and 9 at Elk Grove High School. Special group rates are available. Ticket information, 392-4875.

How a minus on your paycheck can be a plus in your future.

Sound confusing? It isn't, really. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck. That's the "minus."

That amount will then be invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. That's where the "plus" comes in. Because you're automatically saving for your future, with one of the safest investments there is: U.S. Savings Bonds.

And, by deducting a little at a time from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch financially. Before you know it, you'll have quite a tidy sum tucked away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Put a little "plus" in your future. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. You may be deferred taxes, redemption, and always guaranteed a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Dear Dorothy: I was tempted to buy a frozen turkey roast, but held back because there are only the two of us. Can this be cooked in three hours, as the directions say, and be refrozen to be used later? And would it taste good when heated again and served?—Eleanor Allen

The answers are "yes" and "fine" to everything you ask. Any frozen meat can be cooked and refrozen once. You have to be careful about only two things: cooling the meat properly and then wrapping it correctly in moistureproof-vaporproof material. Go ahead.

Dear Dorothy: Somewhere along the line I acquired an 8-inch glass plate and it is my most useful tool when I make a graham cracker crust in my 9-inch glass plate. After I've pressed the crumbs (with sugar and butter) in the plate, I use the smaller plate as an insert to even out all the ridges.—Sondra Bechoeffer

Dear Dorothy: There are tiny nicks on the rims of some of my treasured crystal stemware. Ours is a small town and there is no one near to whom I can take them for buffing. Is there anything I can do on my own?—Grace N.

You can experiment — at your own risk, mind you — on one of the small nicks by rubbing it gently with an emery board. Specialized repair shops that do this kind of work advertise in national publications so, if the buffing experiment doesn't work, you might consider looking into these firms.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any nutritive difference between butter and margarine?—Julia G.

None. However, if it's important to you, butter is rated as saturated, vegetable margarine as polyunsaturated.

Illinois Foster Parents To Meet

Illinois Foster Parent Association will hold its second annual conference Saturday in Asbury United Methodist Church, Kankakee.

Registration begins at 8 p.m., followed by three workshops on problems of foster parents and agencies. Foster children will also offer suggestions on foster home care improvements.

A group session will have Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karvenek, foster parents of Johnny Lindquist, telling of their experiences.

KRISTY GUENTHER tried very hard to qualify as a model in "Fashions with a Flair" but she'll have to do a little growing first. Presented by St. Alphonsus Women's Guild, the 8 p.m. show Wednesay, Nov. 15, will be held in the Scanda House, Mount Prospect Plaza, with fashions from Chez Chantel.

What's New

To Make Living Easier

by United Press International

For an authentic brick decor in kitchen, family room, fireplace wall, there's a new "Brick-In-A-Can" that you spread on with a putty knife or trowel. A stick-on tape is used to form desired brick shapes and mortar lines. Finish allows the look of new or used brick, a regular or irregular surface.

(Dacor Manufacturing Co., P. O. Box 1489, Worcester, Mass. 01601).

In tune with the trend toward decorating with craftwork, there's a new line of model ship kits planned as wall hangings. The new Ships Gallery series features a two-thirds sailing ship model four available initially complete with rigging against the backdrop of an antique map, and mounted on a simulated wood plaque. Kits consist of the model parts, map background, plaque with wall hanger, and gold antiquing finish.

All area women are invited.

Area Women In Israel For '72 ORT Conference

As delegates from the West Suburban Region of Women's American ORT, Mrs. Richard Ginsburg, Hoffman Estates, Mrs. Irving Rish, Elk Grove Village and Mrs. Sherwood Zwirn, Buffalo Grove, are in Jerusalem this week for the 1972 National Board Conference.

The conference, held Sunday through Wednesday, featured Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and other top Israeli officials. This weekend the women will be touring ORT schools in Israel, and are expected home sometime next week.

"We will be able to see with our own eyes how great a role ORT has played, is playing and will play in the up-building of Israel by providing a great reservoir of skilled workers for the country," said Mrs. Zwirn, West Suburban regional president. More than 100,000 students, young and old, have graduated the ORT-Israeli network since its establishment in 1949 and ORT's annual enrollment in Israel is nearing the 50,000 mark, she added. More than 70,000 are enrolled annually throughout the world.

The vocational training program of the Jewish people, ORT has been in operation globally since 1880. More than one million people have been provided with modern skills ranging from carpentry and mechanics to electronics, telecommunication and computer repair.

Program Nov. 2 On Plant Photos

"Photography for the Horticulturist" will be the topic of a workshop program presented by the Chicago Horticultural Society, Thursday, Nov. 2, at 1:30 p.m. The program will be at the Society's Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway, between Dundee and Lake Cook Roads.

The program will be presented by Kee T. Chang, photo department manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. Through the use of twin screen projections, he will illustrate and explain the differences in types of film, film speeds and exposures for specific effects. The talk will be geared to appeal to advanced amateur photographers, discussing techniques particularly related to the filming of horticultural subjects.

Reservations are suggested for this workshop. They may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Fran Whittin, Chicago Horticultural Society at 332-2868.

Guild To Stage A Fashion Show

Ladies of the St. Alphonsus Women's Guild, Prospect Heights, are presenting "Fashions with a Flair," Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. at the Scanda House, Mount Prospect Plaza, Mount Prospect.

Fashions presented will be from Chez Chantel, a new shop located in the shopping center. The selections promise to include a wide variety, with prices and sizes for all.

Coffee and assorted desserts will follow the show. For tickets and information readers may call Dorothy Doran at 299-6404 or Arlene Norkus at 299-4738. Donation is $2.25 and everybody is invited.

Church Garage Sale

Unity Northwest Church, Arlington Heights, will be holding a garage sale and close out on a private dress sale of latest fashions Saturday at 1 p.m. at the church, 1801 E. Palatine Road.

All The Family Took Part

All of the brothers and sisters in the Bruno Jacobs family of Arlington Heights and the Louis Wuich family of Wheeling took part in the wedding of Pamela Jacobs and Thomas Wuich. The Sunday afternoon nuptials on Oct. 1 were performed in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, Arlington Heights.

In the wedding were the bride's sister, her three brothers and a sister-in-law besides the groom's sister and brother. The bride's niece and nephew were also in the bridal party.

PAMELA, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs of 828 S. Highland Ave., chose her sister, Mrs. Patricia Hoar of Indianapolis, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kathy Jacobs of St. Charles; Barbara Wuich, sister of the groom; and Diane Hecht of Forest Park.

Kelley Hoar, 4, was flower girl and her brother Kevin, 5, was ring bearer.

Tom chose a friend, Rich Diens of Wheeling, as best man, with Peter and Perry Jacobs, the bride's brothers, and John Gribbon, Palatine, as ushers.

NOT TO BE left out, the two other brothers of the couple took part in the service. Paul Jacobs, St. Charles, was commentator at the Mass and John Wuich was altar boy.

The bride came down the church aisle wearing a white organza gown with high neckline and bishop sleeves accented in Venise lace flowers. Her Camelot headpiece and cathedral-length veil were also trimmed with the lace. Pam carried a cascade arrangement of phalaenopsis orchids with touches of orange stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wuich

Her attendants wore burnt orange crepe gowns with Venise lace trim and carried bouquets of orange and yellow pompons.

A DINNER and dance reception at Nordic Hills Country Club followed the wedding. The couple spent a week's honeymoon in Florida and are now at home in Arlington Heights.

The groom, whose family lives at 308 S. Wheeling Ave., received his degree from Northern Illinois University in '70 and is working on a master's at DePaul University, Chicago. He also works for Walter E. Heller in the city.

Pam attended Northern Illinois after graduating from Arlington High and is employed at Culligan USA in Northbrook.

Next On The Agenda

MEADOWS JAYCEE-ETTES

The October meeting of the Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes will be held Monday night in the home of Mrs. Victor Sheridan, 3604 Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows. During the program, members will be making decorations for the "Cheese Hut," their booth at the bazaar to be held in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Mall Saturday, Nov. 11. All wives of Rolling Meadows Jaycees are invited.

For more information on the meeting or purchasing cheese balls for the coming holidays, readers may call Mrs. Sheridan at 253-7922, or Mrs. Robert Wiggins at 259-4487.

OUR SAVIOUR'S WSCS

The Women's society of Christian Service of Our Saviour's United Methodist Church, Hoffman Estates, will hold their monthly meeting next Wed. at 1 p.m. in the church. The program, "Listen, There's A World Out There," will deal with human development. Guest speakers will be representatives of the Northwest Opportunity Center in Roling Meadows and the Northwest Volunteer Service Bureau. Everyone is invited and a "sitter" is provided.

Afternoon hostesses will be Sue Blommer and Georgia Buckley. The church is located on Golf Road east of Roselle Road.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS WOMEN

"Many Moons," a marionette program adopted from the modern fable by James Thurber, will be the program next Wednesday for Arlington Heights Women's Club. The group will be meeting at 1:15 p.m. in Southminster Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights.

Dorcas Smorgasbord

St. Peter's Lutheran Church's Dorcas Aid will hold a smorgasbord from 5 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 2, in the church cafeteria, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights.

For tickets readers may call CL 3-7168. Adult tickets are $2.50; children 6 to 12, $1.25.

'Lost,' One Wedding Ring

The old joke about the best man misplacing the wedding ring almost became a reality at the Sept.30 ceremony uniting Priscilla May Maxwell of Rolling Meadows and John Thomas Donahoe of Hoffman Estates.

When it came time for the groom to place the ring on his bride's finger there were several moments of confusion. The best man could not find the ring.

After searching through all his pockets he finally found it. The ring had slipped down into a corner of a pocket and in his hurry he had missed it.

Quickly the lost was found and the ceremony continued on schedule.

PRISCILLA AND John were married at 6 p.m. by candlelight in the Presbyterian Church of Palatine. A reception followed at the Arlington Heights Elks Club where 160 guests greeted the couple.

Priscilla is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Maxwell of 2168 Vermont St.

She wore a white silk organza Victorian gown styled with long sleeves, a high neck trimmed in heavy Venise lace, and a detachable train. Her headpiece was also of silk organza and attached to a triple veil that fell to the waist. The bride's bouquet was a nosegay of white carnations and baby's breath surrounding a cluster of tearoses.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Donahoe Jr. of 1807 Jamestown Circle, had his brother James of Carpentersville as best man. Another brother, Joseph Donahoe, also of Carpentersville, ushered along with Mike Danforth and Jack LaGreca of Palatine.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Donahoe

Carolyn Susan Maxwell, Priscilla's sister, was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Cheryl Elmgren and Nancy Henning of Palatine and Deborah Merton, Buffalo Grove.

Carolyn wore a two-toned gown designed with a white bodice and orange skirt. With it she wore a large picture hat in orange and carried tearoses to match. The bridesmaids' gowns were exactly like Carolyn's but with apricot colored skirts. Their roses were the same color as the maid of honor's.

AFTER A honeymoon at Lake Winnebago, Oshkosh, Wis., the newlyweds are living in an apartment in Hoffman Estates. The bride is a nurse at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, the groom works for Triple A Construction Co.

Carolyn graduated from Fremd High School, then Harper College in '71. Her husband attended Palatine High and went into service, spending two years in Vietnam.

$500 Award To Hoffman Club

In a close contest the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club has won $500 from the Hoffman-Schaumburg Chamber of Commerce.

The contest was held by the Chamber to determine the most worthwhile project contemplated by a civic or social non profit organization. Other organizations entering the contest were the Center for Child and Family Studies, the Provisional League of Women Voters, Conant Booster Club and FISH, Inc.

The woman's club won the award for its project of refurbishing the town's old village hall into a community center and meeting place.

Mrs. Arch Ward, club president, said, "Now we can walk into the building and completely redecorate the meeting room. We have already allocated $1000 from our fund raising affairs and with the additional $500 we are sure to finish the main room."

Club members are also planning to redo the original kitchen which in recent years was made smaller and used for storage.

A Honeymoon In Florida For Mr. And Mrs. Kenny

Pamela Cipri and Richard M. Kenny honeymooned for two weeks in Hillsboro Beach, Fla., following their Sept. 30 wedding in St. Paul United Church of Christ, Palatine.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Cipri, 156 S. Greeley, Palatine, Pamela and Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Kenny, Wauconda, were married in a three o'clock, double ring service which was followed by a reception for 175 at the Corner Cupboard, Barrington.

For her wedding Pamela chose an ivory satin Empire gown with scoop neckline and Juliet sleeves. Venise lace appliques and be-ribboned lace trimmed the bodice and the A-line skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a band of real flowers which matched her bouquet of gardenias, white Elegance carnations, white daisies, pink Sensation roses, baby's breath and springeri greens.

Cindy Cipri, Palatine, was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were another sister, Penny Cipri, Palatine, the groom's sister, Elizabeth Kenny, Waukonda, and JoAnn Werling, Rolling Meadows.

THE MAIDS wore gowns of deep purple and ivory with ivory Cluny lace yokes and bishop sleeves. Purple velvet ribbon accented the ruffled necklines and the cuffs. The bell-shaped skirts of purple sakl were made with set-in waists. Wide-brimmed picture hats of purple banded in ivory lace and old-fashioned bouquets of purple Elegance carnations, lavender poms, pink Elegance poms, and baby's breath with springeri greens and purple velvet ribbon streamers completed their ensembles.

Michael Parks, Rolling Meadows, was the groom's best man, and ushers were the groom's brother-in-law, Harry Alten, Harvard, Ill., the bride's cousin, Tom Bergman, Palatine, and the groom's cousin, Tom Riley, Chicago.

The new Mrs. Kenny is employed by Langer Printing Co., Palatine, and the groom is with Kenny Construction Co., Skokie.

A Classic MODEL HOME
By Chicagoland's Prestige Builder
The Kennedy Company

Is now available for immediate occupancy. This 4-bedroom, 2½-bath home with tiled central foyer leading to either the formal living or dining room is evidence of an efficient floor plan where any room can be reached without passing thru another.

The paneled family room with its bracketed wood mantled fireplace will be a cozy delight during these coming winter evenings; and next summer your recreational pleasures will be served by our Olympic pool, cabana and tennis courts located within view of this outstanding residence located on a ½ acre fully landscaped homesite.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Herald Newspaper does not knowingly accept HELP WANTED ads that indicate a preference based on age from employers covered by the AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT.

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. For further information contact the Wage and Hour Division Office of U.S. Department of Labor at 4032 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, Illinois. Telephone (312) 736-2909.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D E B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Courtyard For All Seasons

by Cindy Tew

An overgrown field? A haven for homeless animals? An arboretum? A learning center?

The Thomas Junior High School courtyard, enclosed on four sides by classrooms, has been called all of the above. The nature center, now five years old, has a few new residents this fall.

The nature center concept also has expanded and now includes a garden, located across the street from the Arlington Heights school. The good harvest this fall of corn, carrots, sunflowers and green beans will keep all the animals in food for the winter.

Though the garden was the idea of Principal Robert Spinks, three sets of students have kept a close watch on its progress. Sixth graders planted the vegetables last spring. Students in summer school classes took care of the weeding, and last week fall term students harvested the crops.

"We'll use the shocks for our compost pile, and we'll be ready to plant again next spring," said science teacher Jim Voris, who is in charge of both the nature center and garden.

THOUGH A core group of about a dozen students take care of the nature center regularly, students in science and art classes use the area in their studies. Other students visit the area frequently to see former pets, including turtles and rabbits.

"Can I do rocks?" Jim Fruchterman asked Voris. "Doing rocks" means straightening out the rock path that weaves through the nature center. Voris solicited rocks last year by offering an extra point to students' grades if they brought in large rocks.

"Some kids brought in hunks of concrete. We've got a whole pile of it," said Jim, who is as adamant as Voris about keeping the place natural.

Jim, an eighth grader, has been working in the center for three years. Last summer he helped dig a four-foot-deep pond.

"I fill the pond when it gets low, cut the grass by hand — we can't use power mowers because they disturb the animals — and make sure the place stays in good order," said Jim. Both Jim and his teacher hope the pond won't freeze this winter and kill the fish.

Many of the animals, including pheasants, turkeys, turtle doves and quail have been donated by students. Other animals are introduced to the center on a donation basis.

"I set a collection box in my classroom a few weeks ago and told students they could contribute to the purchase of some chipmunks if they wanted," said Voris. "We collected $25 and bought four chipmunks and a couple of ground squirrels from a nearby game farm."

TO MAINTAIN the balance of nature, the wings of only a few birds are clipped so they can't leave. Most of the birds, therefore, are only temporary residents of the courtyard. But even the transient community has a pecking order.

"A wild turkey was king of the roost until we introduced a white pigeon this fall. The turkey immediately inspected the new arrival and the pigeon flew at him," Voris said. "That turkey has about a six-foot wing span and it flew clean across the courtyard and right into the wall. I had never seen the turkey fly before."

Voris is careful to raise solely native animals and plant only native crops, trees and grass. And during the school year, students may make native products.

"We could make jelly from the hips of the prairie roses or cider out of the crabapples," Voris said. "The art department may want to use the sumac or maples to make natural dyes."

Voris, who has been a science teacher at Thomas for three years, knows what he's talking about when it comes to crops and animals. He grew up on a farm in southern Illinois.

"Next year we're going to have an even larger garden with more variety," he predicted. "We'll probably have more animals in the nature center, too."

Picking the last few ears, in muddy fall weather, is fun for the boys.

Village Officials To Decide Fate Of Health Survey

Elk Grove Village officials are expected to make a decision on adopting the recommendations of the Comprehensive Health Survey before the end of the year.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek, after the survey had been presented to the village trustee, said one of the first problems that would have to be worked out in financing the project. He said the village would meet with other agencies to determine possible funding.

The survey, prepared by a special committee of the village board of health, was presented to the trustees at a special meeting Wednesday night.

The 294-page report recommends that the trustees appropriate funds and create the local organizations necessary to implement a comprehensive health plan for the village.

First-year costs of developing such a plan were estimated at $48,700 by the committee. Representatives of the Comprehensive Health Planning Inc., the official planning agency for Cook County, and the Northwest Illinois Planning Commission said their organizations probably would contribute funds to the program.

PATRICIA BOURKE, committee co-chairman, said the goal of a comprehensive health plan was to not only treat sickness, but to attain the highest level of good health for local residents.

Brother Fedinand Leyva, chairman of the board of health, said he had spent "five frustrating, unproductive years on the board of health, with little success in solving problems. The board couldn't operate efficiently and effectively."

But if the recommendations of the study are adopted, Brother Fedinand said the board of health would become an effective organization for dealing with health care.

The survey covers all aspects of health problems concerning the village, including environmental factors, medical manpower and facilities, and government agencies dealing in health problems.

The survey contains numerous recommendations to coordinate health care programs among private medical personnel and facilities, government agencies and other organizations that are not directly connected with health care, but whose activities can influence health service in the area.

DR. PAUL Gallagher, executive director of Comprehensive Health Planning Inc., called the study "good enough to be reported in the national journals."

He said Elk Grove Village, if the survey recommendations were adopted, would become one of the first communities to "address itself to what will become the chief problem in the county, providing better health care."

Thomas Vick, local administrator for the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, called the study "a planner's dream." He said the study was the first he had seen which included the effects of environmental problems in planning health care.

Zettek said the survey, "was such a fine piece of work that it has to be considered in a positive way."

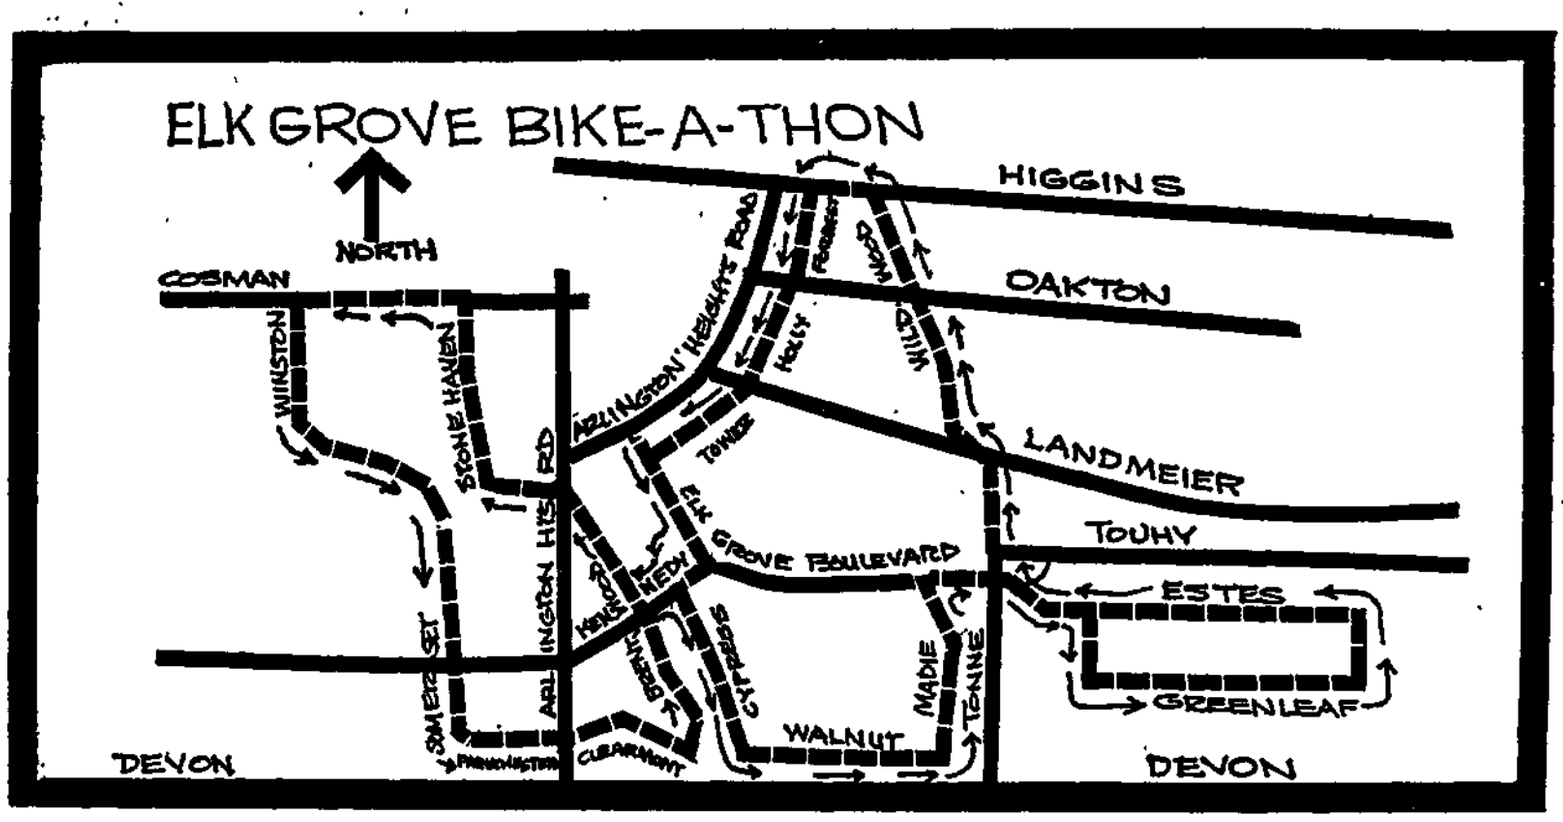

Zettek and Trustee Ed Kenna both said the board would quickly take the survey under consideration. They both told the committee co-chairmen, Mrs. Bourke and Mrs. Donna Farley, that they "could be very optimistic" about favorable consideration.

KENNA SAID that if the recommendations were adopted, the first step would be to hire the "health coordinator" that the study calls for. This coordinator would serve as a manager in the development of the program.

Kenna repeatedly complimented Mrs. Bourke and Mrs. Farley for the work they did in organizing the survey.

After the meeting, Kenna said that if the village had contracted with a professional research group to do the survey the cost would have been at least $30,000.

The survey was done by a volunteer group that spent less than the $1,500 the village allocated for expenses.

SUNDAY'S BIKE-A-THON in Elk Grove Village covers more than 14 miles. Riders will be backed by sponsors who will pay them for every mile that they ride. Proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society.

Accusations Becomes Heated

Dist. 214 Teachers, Board At War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Unit districts to be studied. See Page 4.

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 850 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $8,650 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

Village Flood Insurance Program To Be OKd Soon

Elk Grove Village's participation in a special federal flood insurance program should be approved "momentarily," Village Mgr. Charles Willis said this week.

Willis said he had been contacted by Washington officials for additional information about the village and was told at that time he would get written notice of approval soon.

Two weeks ago the village trustees voted to apply for federal designation as a flood prone area so residents could buy insurance against flooding loss at reduced rates. The subsidized insurance program is sponsored by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Tuesday a motion was passed by trustees requiring village officials to contact residents in flood areas about the availability of insurance when it is approved.

Willis said only a part of the village is in the flood area, and 117 single-family homes, less than 10 multi-family dwellings and less than 50 business and industrial firms would be affected by the federal program.

After the village is approved for the program, property owners can buy the flood insurance through their local insurance brokers. State Farm Insurance Co. is the designated underwriter for flood insurance policies in Illinois, but any licensed broker can sell the flood insurance.

Coverage is available to both residential and small business structures.

Under the insurance program, single-family homeowners can insure their house for up to $17,500 and the contents to $5,000 against flood damage. To insure a home for $5,000 contents and $5,000 building, the owners of a home worth $17,500 and under would pay $30 a year. For the same coverage, the premium on a $17,501 to $35,000 home would be $35 and the cost to insure a home over $35,000 would be $40.

For the maximum coverage of $17,500 for the building and $5,000 for contents, the owner of a home over $35,000 would pay $84 a year for insurance. The minimum premium on a policy is $25.

Flooding has been defined by the program as a general inundation of the land. Water coming in a house through a backed-up sewer or sump pump drain would not be covered by the insurance.

Arlington Heights, Palatine, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect already have been approved for the subsidized flood insurance.

Chicagoans Charged With $3,500 Tire Haul

Two Chicago men have been charged with the theft of 49 tires worth $3,500 from General Tire Co., 800 Chase Ave., Elk Grove Village, police said yesterday.

Police said Ronald Cross, 19, was charged Wednesday, and Horace Cherry, 21, was arrested yesterday for the theft on Oct. 7. Both men were employes of the company at the time of the incident. Four tires were recovered, police said.

Bond was set at $8,000 each, and the pair was scheduled to appear in Elk Grove Village circuit court Nov. 1.

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of worn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

Sen. Percy Calls War 'The World's Greatest Polluter'

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would becme a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

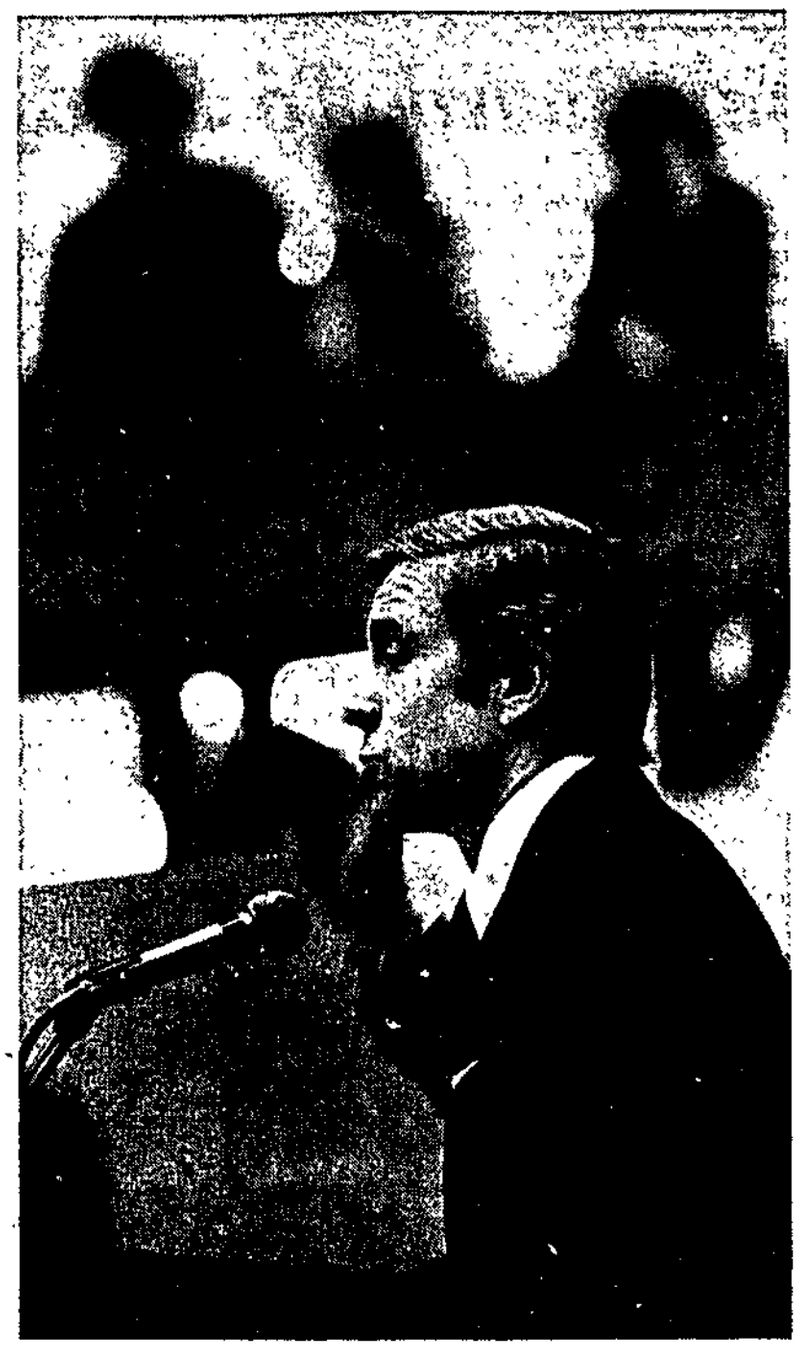

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Pipes Being Cleaned For Anti-Flood

Storm drainage ditches and pipes in the Shadywood Lane area north of Landmeier Road are being cleaned out in an attempt to alleviate flooding in the section, Village Mgr. Charles Willis said this week.

Willis said the downstream end of a drainage ditch in the area was blocked, and the channel would be dredged to make a place for the water to run off.

The area has been plagued with flooding problems this summer, including the flood disaster of Aug. 25. Residents have approached the village board of trustees on several occasions, complaining of the constant threat of flooding and sanitary sewer back-up.

In a report to the village manager, village engineers said they inspected the pipes and ditches and found part of the way the ditch was nonexistent and the water was left to find its own outlet. It said the water was not running off properly, and there was resistance to the flow.

"It is our recommendation that the ditch be cleaned and where it does not exist any more, dig a new one ... We feel that by cleaning and opening the ditch most of the flooding problem will be eliminated," the report read.

Willis said the plan would affect only the problems the residents have been experiencing from water. He said earlier that the sanitary sewage trouble could be helped only by building a new treatment plant that would relieve the already overburdened sanitary sewer lines.

Greg Spencer, 13, Dies In Tranquility Of The Suburbs

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

GREG SPENCER received a multitude of help. Here, he is with special therapist Helen Van Meter at Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his dtath apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

Plenty Doing In Town For Halloween

If your child asks, "What can I do for Halloween," the answer is — a lot of things.

The Elk Grove Village Lions Club has arranged for Halloween costume parties to be held 6:30 - 8:30 p.m., Tuesday at Admiral Byrd, Clearmont, Ripley, and Salt Creek Schools.

Children from toddlers to 12-year-olds are invited to the parties. Lions member John Geiger suggested that parents accompany preschool children.

Prizes and treats will be given to every child. At each school the grand prize, a $25 savings bond, will be presented to the child with the most original and scariest costume.

AT THE ELK Grove Village Public Library, the preschool story hour, 10 - 10:30 a.m., Tuesday will be a costume party for children ages 4 and 5. Ghost stories will be read and treats will be available.

Tuesday evening 7 - 7:30, at the library a costume judging party will be held for children in grades K-4. Prizes and treats will be awarded.

The library is now accepting entries for its best carved or decorated pumpkin contest. Prizes will be awarded to the best pumpkins in six categories.

The contest is open to children in grades 5 - 8. Judging will be done Monday evening at 7:30, and the winning pumpkins will be put on display.

The library will only accept pumpkins which have already been carved. No carving will be permitted in the library.

THE ELK GROVE Village Jaycees will start Halloween in the village on Saturday. The Jaycees will run a haunted house from 4 - 9 p.m., Saturday and Sunday and 6 - 9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, in an empty warehouse at 119 Gordon St.

Earl Peacock, haunted house project chairman for the Jaycees, said the house will be open to children of all ages, but he recommended that preschoolers be accompanied by a parent.

A 35-cent admission fee will be charged to enter the haunted house.

A Halloween party will be held Saturday at the Willow Terrace mobile home park for residents of the park and their guests, Mrs. Ida Koll, office manager at the park, said the party has been a tradition since 1964.

Prizes are given to the boys and girls with the best costumes.

Village ordinance restricts trick-or-treating to Halloween Day, Tuesday, only. Children must stop going from house-to-house by 8 p.m. A fine of $5 to $200 can be levied for violation of the ordinance.

The Elk Grove Police Department advises that an adult go with children who are trick-or-treating.

Second class postage paid at Arlington Heights, Illinois 60005

A REPAIRMAN from Illinois Bell Telephone Co. mends a broken cable that cut off service to some 100 customers Wednesday in the Arlington Heights and Higgins roads area in Elk Grove Village. A bulldozer belonging to Greco Construction Co. severed the cable while working on Higgins Road. Telephone service to Park 'N Shop Center was interrupted for six hours.

Demand For Blood: Is It Outrunning The Supply?

by JOANN VAN WYE

Talk of a blood shortage may become a self-fulfilling prophecy.

David Eisenman, a member of the Illinois Department of Public Health Blood Bank Program Task Force, made this statement yesterday at the 50th annual meeting of the Illinois Hospital Association at Arlington Park Towers.

"I don't think we will find any lack of volunteer donors when we clean house. We have turned volunteer donors into paid donors in many cases," said Eisenman, speaking at a workshop entitled "Blood: The Law, The Supply, The Demand."

Eisenman called on hospitals to eliminate blood replacement programs and guarantee donors a patient will not be charged for the blood they have donated. He also spoke in favor of regionalizing blood banks and transporting blood from one area to another if needed.

DR. THIRU Vaithianathan, president of the Illinois Association of Blood Banks, told people at the workshop the blood replacement program could not be eliminated until there is enough preplaced blood.

Sometime in the near future the program hopefully will reach the goal of preplacement of blood (enough blood in storage) and replacement programs can be changed or eliminated but until that time we must work with a replacement system, said Vaithianathan.

"We need to reduce the over-all demand on the supply," said Vaithianathan. He said this could be done partially by eliminating unnecessary blood transfusions.

"Boundaries must not be established to limit the transport of blood. Free transport should be made possible and easy," said Vaithianathan.

Richard G. French, senior partner of Howard and French, attorneys at law, spoke on the law in regards to blood.

The Supreme Court has held blood is a product and if it is defective there is a liability. It does not matter what degree of case is used, said French,

The only defense in a case where a patient charges he contracted hepatitis from a blood transfusion is proving the virus was not contracted because of the transfusion.

FRENCH explained malpractice was not involved in such cases but rather products liability.

Blood banks and hospitals have both been held liable in cases where hepatitis was contracted due to a blood transfusion, according to French. The liability of the doctor in such cases has still not been determined, he said.

"A law that went into effect July 1, 1971 has granted blood banks and hospitals a two-year immunity from such suits unless negligence is involved. The law will automatically be repealed on July 1, 1973.

The law that went into effect on October 1, 1972 and requires blood to be labelled either purchased or volunteer does not eliminate the possibility of a patient contracting hepatitis from a blood transfusion. It also does not prohibit use of purchased blood.

Effective July 1, 1973, physicians will be required to use volunteer blood when available. Purchased blood can still be used but doctors will be required to make a written explanation of why the purchased blood was used and place it in the hospital records, said French.

High School Dist. 214 Teachers, Board At War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 830 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $8,650 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

Rules For Blood Donation

Wheeling residents who are planning to donate blood to the Wheeling Community Blood Plan Saturday or Sunday should follow a few simple rules before arriving at Wheeling High School for blood donation.

Four hours prior to giving blood, donors should refrain from smoking and eating fatty foods. No alcoholic beverages should be consumed within 12 hours of the donation appointment. Anyone on medication should consult with people from the Beverly Blood Bank before donating.

According to Tony Altieri, president of the Wheeling Jaycees, 160 persons are signed up to donate blood.

The Jaycees are sponsoring the blood plan in conjunction with the Beverly Blood Bank. According to the terms of the program, 4 per cent of Wheeling's population must donate blood to the plan to cover blood needs of the village.

The blood drawing is the first of four planned this year. Altieri said he would like to have approximately 200 donors for each drawing to meet the 700-pint requirement imposed by the program. The next appointments will be in January.

The Jaycees are being assisted by the Jaycee Jills, the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Nurses Club and the Wheeling public relations commission.

Park District Plans Boo Ball Saturday

The Wheeling Park District's Boo Ball Saturday night will feature live entertainment by the Flying Austins.

The park district has received enough donations to make the live entertainment possible. The band for the party has played on the Bozo show and during the Chicago Bulls halftime shows.

The Boo Ball, which will be at the Heritage Park recreation building, will run from 7 to 10 p.m.

Election Judge Rift Has Been Settled

by LYNN ASINOF

Despite rumors and a great deal of confusion, Mrs. Fran Hoos will once again serve as a Democratic election judge in Precinct 27 on Nov. 7.

Mrs. Hoos, who has been an election judge for 14 years, told the Herald she learned through the grape-vine last week she had been replaced for the Nov. 7 election. After making several phone calls to check the story, Mrs. Hoos said she was told she had been replaced by Margo Allison.

Mrs. Harvey Sturman, who is filling in for her husband as the Democratic captain in Precinct 27, said she had indeed replaced Mrs. Hoos because Mrs. Hoos was not doing her job.

She said Mrs. Hoos had never been on time for her election work. "She has never been there at 5:30 a.m.," she said. "If the other judges are there at 5:30 a.m., they have to do her share of the work. If the other judges aren't on the ball, we'll have to do the same."

ACCORDING TO two of the Republican election judges in that precinct, however, Mrs. Hoos is a competent election judge. Lillian Stiller said she had complained about Mrs. Hoos six years ago when she was late arriving at the polls. "Since that time, she has always been on time," Mrs. Stiller said.

Nelda Paisley, another Republican judge in the precinct, concurred with Mrs. Stiller. She said after the one incident six years ago, she had never had cause to complain about Mrs. Hoos.

According to the county department of elections, however, Mrs. Hoos was listed this time as a Democratic judge for Precinct 33. Mrs. Hoos said she had never been notified of any such transfer and had not been notified of her replacement, either.

In fact, Mrs. Hoos said she still had her 1972-73 election judge card and was even invited to the luncheon for Democratic election judges.

JIM McCABE, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said he had no knowledge of Mrs. Hoos' problem. He explained that he merely okays the lists of election judges sent to him by his precinct captains. He then delivers his lists to the county.

McCabe said he knew of no political reasons for Mrs. Hoos' replacement, and added that he did not involve himself with local Wheeling politics. "I don't live in Wheeling and I don't get involved in Wheeling problems," he said. "I'm not in the position to get judges off, because we're breaking our necks to get judges."

He explained Mrs. Hoos' name had probably been listed as an election judge for Precinct 33 because of an error in paperwork.

McCabe said that since Mrs. Hoos wanted to be an election judge so badly, he would rectify the situation. He said he has sent a letter to the county asking that Mrs. Hoos be reappointed as the regular election judge for Precinct 27. In the letter, McCabe asked that Mrs. Allison be retained as a retention ballot judge to count the paper ballots on election day.

According to McCabe, there are now enough regular election judges in the township to cover all polling places. He said, however, his office is still trying to find retention judges to count the paper ballots.

Cardinal Cody To Officiate

St. Mary's Celebrating 125 Years

St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove will mix the old with the new as it celebrates the commemoration of the first mass in this area more than 125 years ago.

His Eminence, John Cardinal Cody, Archbishop of Chicago, will preside over the Liturgical Service, which will begin in the old church at 4 p.m. The service will then move to St. Mary's cemetery and end with the offering of mass in the new chapel below the school.

The service will start with the old liturgy in the church that was built in 1890. Cardinal Cody and other officers of the mass will enter the building, after which there will be a reading from scripture.

The reading will be followed by a latin chant that will signify the old language of the church. Following the chant a martyrology (brief history of St. Mary's) will be read.

THE MARTYROLOGY will explain how, in the fall of 1847, Father J. Fortmann celebrated the first mass in the Buffalo Grove area. It was said in the house of John Simon Hennemann, which stood on the dividing line of Lake and Cook counties. It served as the church until a regular building could be built.

A church was built and dedicated in 1853. It stood until it was destroyed by fire in February 1855. Even though the new church was not built until 1899, mass was still offered and St. Mary's was given the status of a "country mission."

In 1912 a three-room schoolhouse was built and in 1947, His Eminence Samuel Cardinal Stritch dedicated a new school. In November, 1966, Cardinal Cody dedicated the latest addition to the school that now houses 720 students.

After the martyrology is read a candle will be lit in memory of the old parishioners. It will be lit by the oldest member of the St. Mary congregation, Andrew Firnbach, 90.

THERE WILL then be a procession in which all parishioners will pass through an honor guard of students to the cemetery. At the cemetery, the Cardinal will offer a prayer for the dead and bless the graves, while St. Mary's student body sings, the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

After the ceremonies at the cemetery, the group will move to the new chapel, where a mass will be offered by Cardinal Cody.

During the offertory portion of the mass several items will be brought forward, such as the first baptismal record and items showing the progression of education from 1847 to 1972.

The gifts will be brought forward by families that represent the fifth generation to attend St. Mary's and the newest family to be registered with the parish.

ANOTHER CANDLE will be lit during the mass to represent all those present in the parish at this time.

Throughout the entire celebration songs will show the changes over the last 125 years. Latin songs will be sung with the accompaniment of an organ.

The songs will progress to present day folk songs and children playing guitars. The recessional hymn will be the song "America."

The Village of Buffalo Grove awarded Father Donald Duffy, pastor of St. Mary's, with a plaque last Monday night in commemoration of the anniversary.

Father Duffy told the group at the village hall it was hard to visualize living as it was 125 years ago, compared to the modern society of today. However, he said many things are similar.

"We, like the people of Buffalo Grove 125 years ago, are new. We are growing. And in growing we have problems, just like the people 125 years ago. However, they took their problems and what they knew and conquered them," said Father Duffy.

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of worn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

Percy: War Is Greatest Polluter

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would become a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

Arlington Heights Road Is Opened

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson has said the recently completed improvements of Arlington Heights Road "illustrate how communities and governmental bodies can work together.

A group of about 10 village officials and others who made the project possible gathered for a ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday morning.

"This is the first example in Buffalo Grove of how we can work with other governmental agencies under the provision of the 1970 state constitution that allows for cooperative projects," Larson said.

The project, first considered in July of 1971 has involved the participation of 12 area agencies at various times during the past year.

"We saved quite a bit by the participation of these agencies in the project," Larson said. "The previous board had considered financing the improvements with a general obligation bond issue and money out of the general fund that would have affected governmental services."

Larson said he gives most of the credit for the negotiations worked out for the project to Village Pres. Gary Armstrong, Ed Street, Lake County highway superintendent, Ken Welton, former Lake County highway superintendent and Clarence Pontius, head of Vernon Township.

Larson said one of the most important points to come out of the cooperative project has been that the road has been adopted into the Lake County and Cook County Highway systems.

"This road is no longer a local responsibility," Larson said, "Future improvements will be borne by these two agencies."

Larson said approximately 6,000 to 8,000 cars travel Arlington Heights Road each day and within 10 years he expects the number to double.

Those attending the ribbon cutting ceremony were Gary Alstot of Alstot and March, engineers for the project, Armstrong, Village Trustee Randall Rathjen, Street, Village Trustee Ed Osmon, Public Works Director Bill Davis, Bob Soukup and Russ Dahlstrom, both of Milburn Brothers, one of the contractors for the project and Tom Maire and James Stavros, representing Rock Road, the other contractor.

Greg Spencer, 13, Dies In Tranquility Of The Suburbs

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his death apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

Condominiums Planned In Area

Golf Course May Play Key Role In Phoenix Zone Case

by JILL BETTNER

Is preservation of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course essential to the future quality of the village? The value of maintaining this open space may determine the action taken on the Phoenix Construction Co. proposals to develop land surrounding the course.

The proposal became an issue at a plan commission hearing Wednesday night.

Phoenix plans to develop 12 acres at the northwest corner of the golf course at Checker Road and 36 acres at the southwest corner of the golf course on Lake-Cook Road, with condominiums ranging in price from $27,500 to $42,000. Apartments and condominiums are planned for a 16-acre parcel bordering the east end of the course.

In addition, the company also plans to develop a 33-acre parcel north of Ill. Rte. 83 with 242 townhouses.

Harold Friedman is one of three owners of the property to be developed. He also owns the Buffalo Grove Golf Course. In 1964, the village board granted Friedman multiple-family zoning in a pre-annexation agreement. Prior to that time, the land was zoned for single-family homes.

FRIEDMAN DID not build on the land, and when the preannexation agreement expired five years later, the zoning on the land reverted to single-family.

Two years ago Friedman appeared before the village board seeking rezoning for multiple-family housing with the intention of building 1,100 apartments. Through an apparent administrative oversight, the village board failed to pass the necessary ordinance and the land was never officially rezoned. Friedman said he did not press for the rezoning because, after checking market conditions, he decided not to build the apartments.

Friedman and representatives of the Phoenix Construction Co., their architects and engineers, presented a request for zoning and slide presentation of plans for their present proposals at the public hearing Wednesday night attended by about 90 persons.

Part of Friedman's proposal to satisfy village requirements for developer donations to area school and park districts involves the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

Concerned about preserving open land for public use, village officials first started looking into the possibility of buying the golf course last spring. At that time, Friedman presented plans to develop the course with townhouses and apartments.

Buffalo Grove was turned down early in October after applying to the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for a grant to cover 50 per cent of the estimated $1.1 million purchase price of the course.

FRIEDMAN IS offering to sell the golf course to the village under a five-year lease purchase arrangement that would allow the village to buy the course with revenue gained from the operation of the facility. In addition, Friedman would give the village 4.8 acres of land that he owns directly across Raupp Boulevard from the village hall. The land could be used for a public works garage.

Friedman has said that if the village board doesn't like the offer he will abide by the terms of the recently passed Buffalo Grove resolution that determines developer donations. Friedman would also have to stick to a requirement of his 1964 pre-annexation agreement to donate $50,000 for the improvement of Checker Road.

Some members of the audience booed when Friedman read his offer to the commissioners, and one man shouted, "It sounds like blackmail to me!"

Following the slide presentation, several people expressed their objections to the planned developments. Plan Commission Chairman Carl Genrich said several more workshops will be conducted on the Phoenix proposals before the plan commission finalizes its recommendation to the village board.

Trout Fishing At Local Pool

Despite the cool temperatures, the Willow Stream Park outdoor pool will still be put to use this weekend. The swimmers won't be people, but more than 400 trout.

The pool will be stocked with the fish, weighing from one-half to three-fourths of a pound each. Participants must bring their own fishing equipment, but bait will be supplied by the Park District.

CHILDREN'S FISHING will begin at 10 a.m. tomorrow and groups will be allowed to fish 30 minutes. The limit on the catch is two fish per child. Parents are urged to accompany all small children and all hooks on children's lines must be either filed off or bent back flat.

Adults may begin fishing at 1 p.m. with a $1 fee per half hour or until two fish are caught, whichever comes first.

Orville Hamilton, area expert on nature and fishing, will be on hand to offer tips and advice. Interested persons may also sign up at the derby for an ice fishing course to be taught by Hamilton this winter.

Park District Plans Boo Ball Saturday

The Wheeling Park District's Boo Ball Saturday night will feature live entertainment by the Flying Austins.

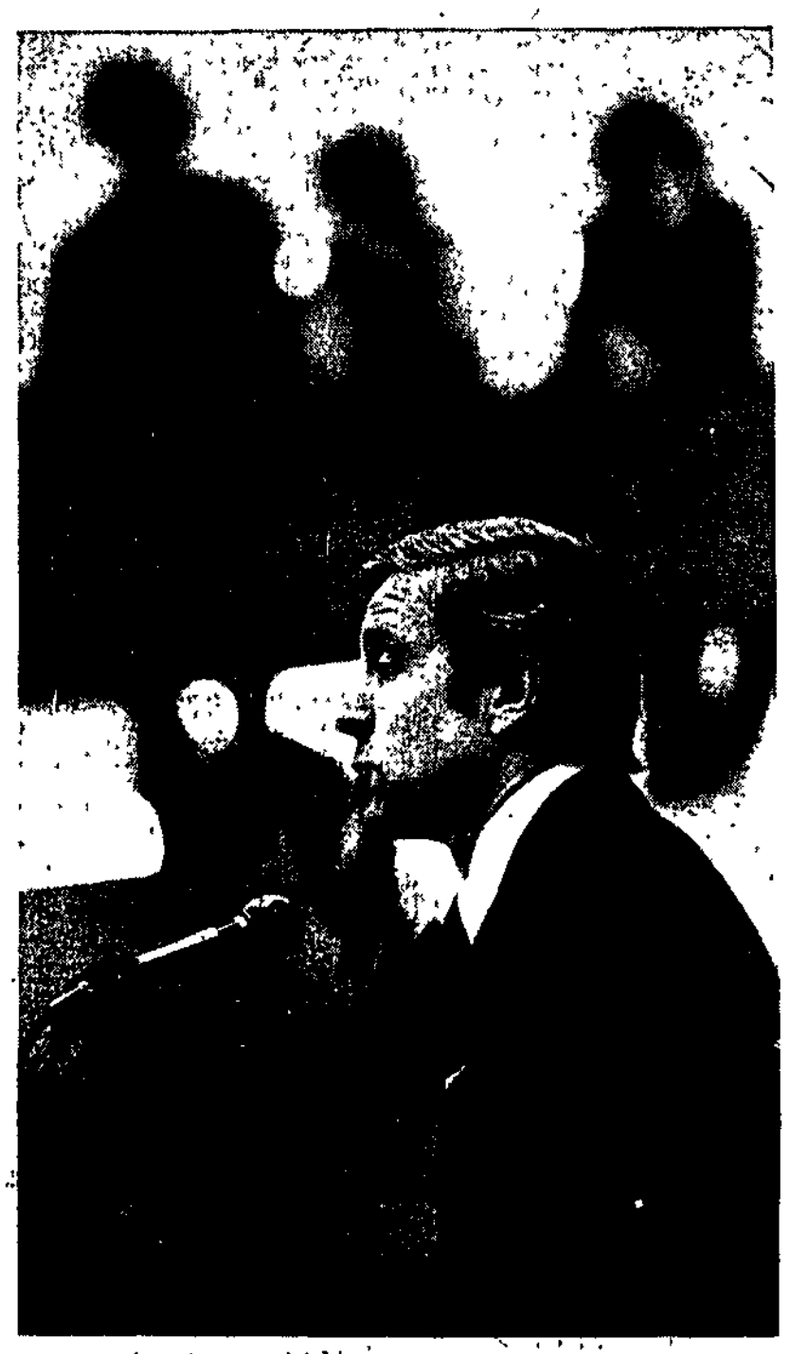

The park district has received enough donations to make the live entertainment possible. The band for the party has played on the Bozo show and during the Chicago Bulls halftime shows.

The Boo Ball, which will be at the Heritage Park recreation building, will run from 7 to 10 p.m.

Halloween Parade

There will be a Halloween parade at the Willow Grove school in Buffalo Grove Sunday between 2 and 3 p.m.

The costumes will be judged and prizes will be awarded in various categories. Children from preschool through fifth grade are invited to participate in the parade. Refreshments will also be served.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Police Issue Halloween Safety Hints

Buffalo Grove police have requested that children in the village observe the Halloween trick or treat activities between 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police have asked parents to accompany their children while going from house to house. They added that police will be patrolling the streets of the village watching the children.

Police issued the following warnings to parents if they plan to let their children trick or treat:

—Traffic dangers are bad at dusk and small children should be watched by adults when crossing streets. Any mask that reduces vision should not be worn when a child is crossing a street.

—Avoid using open flames, such as candles or jack-o-lanterns.

—Avoid flimsy costumes that burn easily.

—Watch for dangerous treats (razor blades in apples, tacks in popcorn, needles or pins in candy). Insist that all treats be carefully checked before eating. Fruits should be cut into small pieces and washed.

—Unpackaged items such as popcorn or small candies should be discarded, as should candy with open or torn wrappers.

KNOW WHERE and what route your child is taking and set a definite time for his return.

—Advise children not to accept rides from anyone and not to enter any house.

—If at any time a "tampered treat" or suspicious activities are noticed, call the police.

Buffalo Grove police have also given directions for making costumes fireproof. They said parents will need seven ounces of Borax, three ounces of Boric acid and three ounces of water to make the mixture.

Parents should mix the Borax with a little water and make a paste. Add the Boric acid and the remainder of the water and stir until clear. Dip the entire costume in the solution, getting it completely wet, and then let dry.

Police said parents should be aware of all the hazards of trick-or-treat and take steps to avoid them, so all children can have a safe and enjoyable Halloween.

Cardinal Cody To Officiate

St. Mary's Celebrating 125 Years

St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove will mix the old with the new as it celebrates the commemoration of the first mass in this area more than 125 years ago.

His Eminence, John Cardinal Cody, Archbishop of Chicago, will preside over the Liturgical Service, which will begin in the old church at 4 p.m. The service will then move to St. Mary's cemetery and end with the offering of mass in the new chapel below the school.

The service will start with the old liturgy in the church that was built in 1899. Cardinal Cody and other officers of the mass will enter the building, after which there will be a reading from scripture.

The reading will be followed by a latin chant that will signify the old language of the church. Following the chant a martyrology (brief history of St. Mary's) will be read.

THE MARTYROLOGY will explain how, in the fall of 1847, Father J. Fortmann celebrated the first mass in the Buffalo Grove area. It was said in the house of John Simon Hennemann, which stood on the dividing line of Lake and Cook counties. It served as the church until a regular building could be built.

A church was built and dedicated in 1853. It stood until it was destroyed by fire in February 1855. Even though the new church was not built until 1899, mass was still offered and St. Mary's was given the status of a "country mission."

In 1912 a three-room schoolhouse was built and in 1947, His Eminence Samuel Cardinal Stritch dedicated a new school. In November, 1966, Cardinal Cody dedicated the latest addition to the school that now houses 720 students.

After the martyrology is read a candle will be lit in memory of the old parishioners. It will be lit by the oldest member of the St. Mary congregation, Andrew Firnbach, 90.

THERE WILL then be a procession in which all parishioners will pass through an honor guard of students to the cemetery. At the cemetery, the Cardinal will offer a prayer for the dead and bless the graves, while St. Mary's student body sings the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

After the ceremonies at the cemetery, the group will move to the new chapel, where a mass will be offered by Cardinal Cody.

During the offertory portion of the mass several items will be brought forward, such as the first baptismal record and items showing the progression of education from 1847 to 1972.

The gifts will be brought forward by families that represent the fifth generation to attend St. Mary's and the newest family to be registered with the parish.

ANOTHER CANDLE will be lit during the mass to represent all those present in the parish at this time.

Throughout the entire celebration songs will show the changes over the last 125 years. Latin songs will be sung with the accompaniment of an organ.

The songs will progress to present day folk songs and children playing guitars. The recessional hymn will be the song "America."

The Village of Buffalo Grove awarded Father Donald Duffy, pastor of St. Mary's, with a plaque last Monday night in commemoration of the anniversary.

Father Duffy told the group at the village hall it was hard to visualize living as it was 125 years ago, compared to the modern society of today. However, he said many things are similar.

"We, like the people of Buffalo Grove 125 years ago, are new. We are growing. And in growing we have problems, just like the people 125 years ago. However, they took their problems and what they knew and conquered them," said Father Duffy.

AFS Chapter Taking Orders For Pizza

Students from the Wheeling High School chapter of the American Field Service will be taking orders this weekend for a pizza delivery fundraising project Nov. 4.

This weekend is the last chance to order pizzas, which will be prepared by the students in the school cafeteria. The pizzas will be delivered uncooked to the homes on Nov. 4 to raise money for AFS scholarships.

Wheeling is one of five local high school AFS chapters participating in the pizza day sales. Orders for the pizza can be placed with any AFS member or by calling a school AFS representative. In Wheeling, Mrs. Betty Kerr, 541-4119, is taking orders for the pizza.

The AFS chapters hope to make the pizza day an annual fundraising event.

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

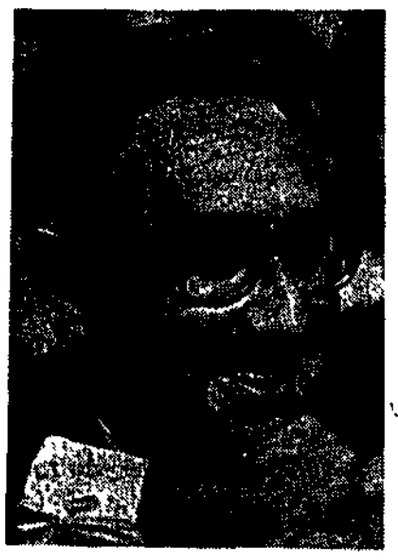

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

Misunderstanding Of Program

Red Cross Denies Blood Plan Will Cause Shortage

American Red Cross spokesmen have disputed statements by a Northwest Community Hospital official that a blood shortage could occur if the Village of Palatine engages in a blood donor program with the Red Cross.

Mrs. William N. Clark, chairman of blood program volunteers for the Red Cross mid-America chapter, said the comments made recently by Jack Ryon, a spokesman for the hospital, indicating that a shortage of blood could take place "are based on a total misunderstanding of the Red Cross blood program and how it works."

Ryon had said that if Palatine joins the Red Cross program, rather than a similar program sponsored by the North Suburban Blood Center, where the hospital draws it supply, the hospital may be forced to go outside the suburban area to meet its blood needs.

AND THAT, hr said, could lead to the use of blood of questionable quality.

That statement was challenged by Dr. Bernard Stodsky, acting medical director of the Red Cross. "There seems to be some fear of 'city blood,'" he said, "but there is absolutely no difference between city blood and suburban blood.

"Every unit of blood gets the same rigorous screening, testing and scientific processing."

And Dr. Stodsky added, "Much of the blood drawn in Chicago actually comes from suburban residents, who donate at their places of employment."

The Red Cross program provides that if 4 per cent of the residents of a community donates a pint of blood each, all residents in that community can receive an unlimited amount of blood for one year.

Ryon had expressed the fear that a program like that would remove Palatine's 26,000 persons as potential blood donors in the event of a relative's need for blood.

THE RED CROSS looked upon that possibility, however, as good, because "local hospitals will be relieved of the necessity of making urgent calls on friends and relatives of patients to come in and replace blood."

In addition, Mrs. Clark termed "totally untrue" statements that the Red Cross replaces blood used with monetary payments.

"Red Cross has been fighting the idea of buying and selling human blood since modern blood banking came into being, and is nationally known as the standard for safe, voluntarily donated blood."

Dr. Stodsky said that in addition to replacing blood used under the Red Cross program, the organization often fills requests for hospitals for emergency help on blood supply.

Ryon could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Demand For Blood: Is It Outrunning The Supply?

by JOANN VAN WYE

Talk of a blood shortage may become a self-fulfilling prophecy.

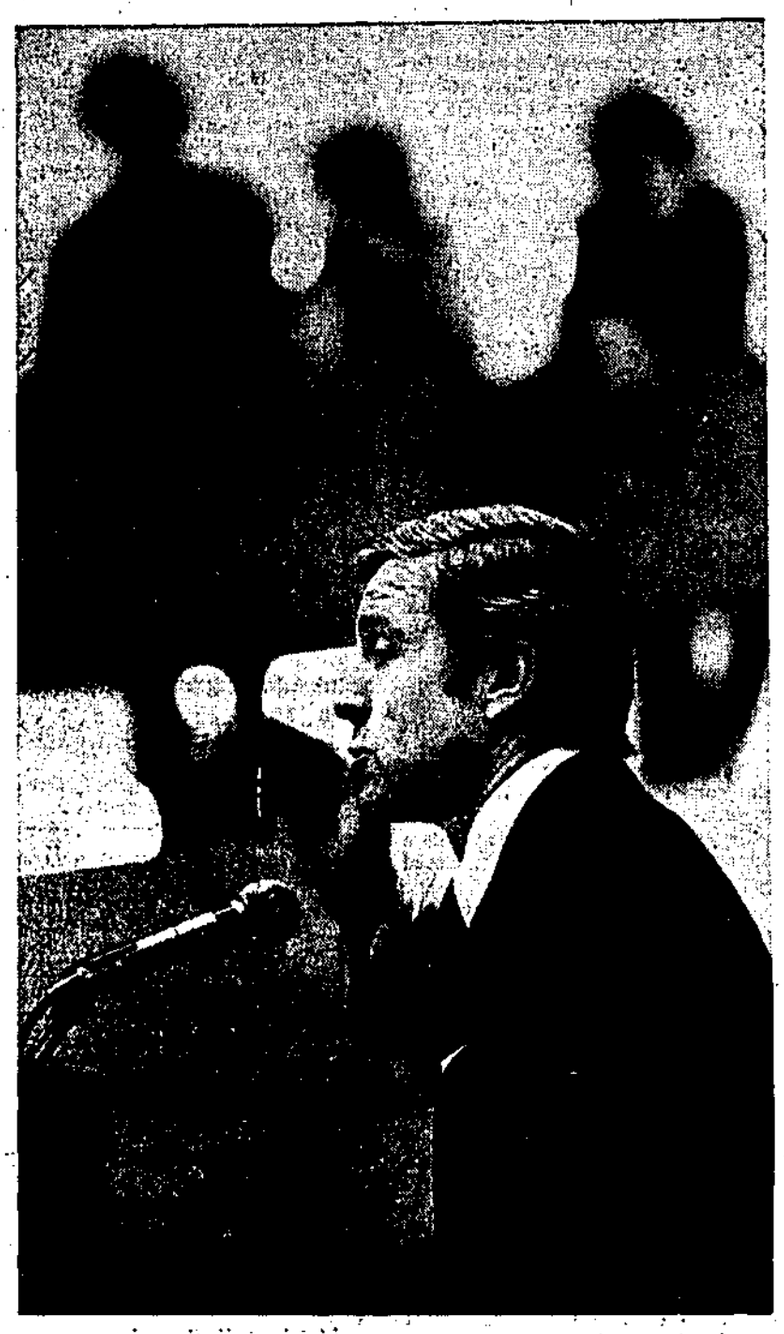

David Eisenman, a member of the Illinois Department of Public Health Blood Bank Program Task Force, made this statement yesterday at the 50th annual meeting of the Illinois Hospital Association at Arlington Park Towers.

"I don't think we will find any lack of volunteer donors when we clean house. We have turned volunteer donors into paid donors in many cases," said Eisenman, speaking at a workshop entitled "Blood: The Law, The Supply, The Demand."

Eisenman called on hospitals to eliminate blood replacement programs and guarantee donors a patient will not be charged for the blood they have donated. He also spoke in favor of regionalizing blood banks and transporting blood from one area to another if needed.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Percy: War Is Greatest Polluter

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would becme a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Youth Dies In Suburban Tranquility

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his dtath apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

Village Independent Party Open House Set

The Village Independent Party (VIP) in Palatine will hold an open meeting Tuesday to make plans for a convention in January when candidates for village office will be slated.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Slade Street fire station.

Committees are to be formed and guidelines determined for the VIP convention, tentatively set for Jan. 13.

The VIP board of directors has proposed four committees be organized, to handle credentials, standing rules, program and physical arrangements, and resolutions.

According to Roger A. Bjorvik, VIP vice president, each precinct in Palatine would be given one delegate vote at the convention per 50 registered voters.

No set number of delegates would be selected, but however many registered voters attend the convention would split their precinct's votes.

At the convention, the VIP will select a slate of candidates for the village election in April.

Vacancies will occur for the positions of village president, village clerk and four trustees.

Mayor Jack Moodie has announced he will not seek reelection but several of the trustees whose seats are expiring are expected to run.

The VIP was formed in 1971 as the Village Incumbent Party, then renamed the Village Independent Party, in an effort to keep national parties out of local politics.

FOR SAFER SKIING, Art Christensen, director of instruction for the Grand Prix Ski Club based in the Northwest suburbs, shows club member Lynn VanKampen how to compute ski binding tension with a device called "Release Check." Both the ski club and Gordon Lipe, inventor of the device, will have booths at 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter, which runs through Sunday at Arlington Park.

You Can Even Get Married On Skis . . .

by DAVE MARSHMAN

Skiing is a very sociable sport. In its two years of existence, the Grand Prix Ski Club has seen nearly a dozen marriages among its members.

"When you go skiing, you'll find that everybody is friends," Art Christensen, a founder of the club smiled, citing just one reason why skiing has become one of America's most popular outdoor sports.

But Grand Prix is more than just a social club. Its members are really into skiing.

The main attraction of the club, which meets twice a month at Knight's Pub in Des Plaines, is its program of ski instruction, says Christensen, himself a ski instructor certified by the Central Ski Instructor Association. The price of membership in the club — $20 for singles, $25 for couples — buys the beginner all the instruction needed to ski, and ski well.

For the skittish, let it be said that Christensen and his five co-instructors have taught 80 beginners to ski in two years — with no injuries. Christensen said the instructors are very careful to see that everyone in the club skis properly and safely.

"Anybody who starts skiing without a lesson is sticking his neck out the first time on the hill," Christensen warned. "Skiing is very easy to learn. It's just like driving a car — if you ski properly, you can stop and turn anywhere you want."

CHRISTENSEN CREDITS the club's perfect safety record to his background in mechanical engineering. He said that 70 to 80 per cent of all ski injuries can be attributed to improperly adjusted bindings, something his background has enable him to correct for members.

Besides talking about bindings and safety at nearly every meeting, Grand Prix Ski Club owns a "Release Check," a machine that measures the force it takes to make a binding break loose and allows proper adjustment. Use of the machine is free to members, but Christensen said it would cost three dollars for the same service at a ski shop. The inventor of the machine, Gordon Lipe, will be at this weekend's Expowinter '72 Ski Show at Arlington Park Race Track. The club will have a booth at the show.

Christensen, who lives in Arlington Heights, and Bob Immens, co-founder of the club, will advise members which ski shops to patronize to be assured of safe equipment. Both men have had experience behind ski shop counters.

But the instruction is just as important as safety tips for enjoyable skiing, Christensen said.

"When we take a group out for instruction, we aren't obligated to teach for only an hour, as many commercial instructors are," Christensen said. "We will spend a whole morning with them.

"With the club, you become friends with the instructor, and he stays with you for the whole season," he said. Using club instruction, Christensen said it takes an average of two seasons to become a good skier. He added that a person doesn't have to be a great athlete to ski, but it helps to be coordinated.

THE CLUB doesn't limit its activities to skiing, however. Christensen said Grand Prix goes all year long — ice skating, bicycle riding and, of course, holding social activities. Members range in age from 21 to 55.

The club's primary skiing grounds are at Wilmot in Wisconsin. But the club is also planning trips this year to several mountains in Michigan; Alta, Utah; and Aspen, Colo. Members recieve reduced rates for the trips.

Last year the club's membership was 120, but Christensen said the group wants new members. Their goal is 200 this year. Information may be obtained by calling either Jeff Neroy, 593-5731, or Ernie Cornehl, 882-2178.

Christensen put the club's primary goal this way:

"Our basic thought is to teach people to ski — and to stay in one piece."

Expowinter '72 Comes To Track

People are always looking for bargains. And that makes the ski swap and used ski sale one of the highlights of the 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter that opened last night at Arlington Park Exposition Hall.

Sponsors of the ski sale offer to put any gear up for sale. Just check it with the attendants, and if the gear is sold, a small fee will be charged.

Besides the usual array of booths for ski clubs, equipment, resorts, vacation trips and the like, a host of experts in all phases of the sport will be on hand at the show. Among these will be Gordon Lipe, inventor of a device for adjusting ski releases; Jeff Job, who has appeared in many ski movies; Corky Fowler, member of the Hart Ski Co. demonstration team; Stein Eriksen, one-time Olympic champion; and Willy Bogner Jr., a noted ski photographer.

Several ski magazines also will have booths at the show, featuring films, lectures and demonstrations of equipment, skiwear and tips for better and safer skiing.

A special attraction will be the Ski Circus. Featured will be aerobatics, stunts, ballet and humor — all on skis, of course.

Hours for the show are 4 p.m. to midnight today, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Demand For Blood: Is It Outrunning The Supply?

Banks, told people at the workshop the blood replacement program could not be eliminated until there is enough preplaced blood.

Sometime in the near future the program hopefully will reach the goal of preplacement of blood (enough blood in storage) and replacement programs can be changed or eliminated but until that time we must work with a replacement system, said Vaithianathan.

"We need to reduce the over-all demand on the supply," said Vaithianathan. He said this could be done partially by eliminating unnecessary blood transfusions.

"Boundaries must not be established to limit the transport of blood. Free transport should be made possible and easy," said Vaithianathan.

Richard G. French, senior partner of Howard and French, attorneys at law, spoke on the law in regards to blood.

The Supreme Court has held blood is a product and if it is defective there is a liability. It does not matter what degree of care is used, said French.

The only defense in a case where a patient charges he contracted hepatitis from a blood transfusion is proving the virus was not contracted because of the transfusion.

FRENCH explained malpractice was not involved in such cases but rather products liability.

Blood banks and hospitals have both been held liable in cases where hepatitis was contracted due to a blood transfusion, according to French. The liability of the doctor in such cases has still not been determined, he said.

"A law that went into effect July 1, 1971 has granted blood banks and hospitals a two-year immunity from such suits unless negligence is involved. The law will automatically be repealed on July 1, 1973.

The law that went into effect on October 1, 1972 and requires blood to be labelled either purchased or volunteer does not eliminate the possibility of a patient contracting hepatitis from a blood transfusion. It also does not prohibit use of purchased blood.

Effective July 1, 1973, physicians will be required to use volunteer blood when available. Purchased blood can still be used but doctors will be required to make a written explanation of why the purchased blood was used and place it in the hospital records, said French.

BE THE FIRST ON YOUR BLOCK. . . Referring to comments made by a Northwest Community Hospital official that the hospital may have to go outside the suburban area to get blood if Palatine joins the Red Cross donor program, rather than a suburban program, Village Trustee Tom Ahern said innocently: "Maybe they're afraid we would get some blood from Lake Forest that would be too rich for our veins."

Seek Permission To Build Eagle Store

Eagle discount supermarket has asked the Palatine Village Board for permission to build its food store now, and to delay building the other stores in the complex for an unspecified time.

The Eagle property, at the northeast corner of Smith Street and Northwest Highway, was rezoned for the commercial use more than a year ago but construction has not begun.

Eagle developers are seeking an amendment to the annexation agreement in order to proceed with construction of the grocery store. The May drug store and six to eight smaller stores which were to be built with the Eagle would be built at a later date.

The village board referred the request to the plan commission.

Fremd, Palatine Have Top English Students

Palatine and Fremd high schools each have a winner in a nationwide competition run by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Robert Scott Gallagher, from Palatine, and Carol Fisler, from Fremd, have been named outstanding high school students of English by the national organization.

Only 24 students in the state of Illinois won the award.

Voter League Benefit

The Palatine League of Women Voters will sponsor a benefit at Dominick's Finer Foods store Tuesday to raise funds for its activities.

Five per cent of the grocery sales to shoppers who present benefit day passes will go to the league. Passes are available from Mary Hart, 358-3370, and Lyn Rowe, 359-4430.

Halloween Vandals?

Vandals destroyed a yard lamp at the home of Richard Rink, 133 S. Walnut St., Palatine, by setting fire to corn stalks attached to the lamp for decoration. The incident took place between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $25.

Your Invitation to See Nature's Fall Beauty At Its Best

If you are a nature lover, or just someone who likes to see Fall's beauty at its breathtaking best, this is your invitation to visit Windridge.

Windridge's 40 acres of beautiful rolling land are emblazoned with over 200 varieties of trees, evergreens, bushes, flowers and various other flora in their best Fall dress. As each plant takes on its own Fall hues, it blends with the others to create a real symphony of color.

As part of Windridge's philosophy of being "for the living and those they remember," you will find that a stroll through its estate-like property to see nature at its very Fall best will be invigorating, pleasant and inspirational. There are broad lawns with breathtaking panoramas of Nature's best coloring work, rustic nature trails in much the same primeval condition as the Indians left them a couple of hundred years ago and extensive carpeted wooded areas.

From Windridge's high point, the knoll near the Administration Building, you'll have a breathtaking panoramic view spanning miles and miles of the beautiful Fox River Valley. You can even see Wisconsin.

As a former private estate, Windridge has been carefully cultivated and developed as a natural showcase for over a quarter of a century. Now that it's open to the public, won't you accept our cordial invitation to visit us? Merely follow the signs to the visitors parking lot, leave your car and feel free to browse through Windridge and enjoy one of Nature's most inspiring seasons at its very best.

P.S. We will be happy to provide transportation to and from your home, without cost or obligation, if you would like a free tour of the property.

Accusations Become Heated

High School Dist. 214 Teachers, Board At War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 850 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $9,650 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

Youth Dies In Suburban Tranquility

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his dtath apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

GREG SPENCER received a multitude of help. Here, he is with special therapist Helen Van Meter at Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine.

Football Teams Play Last Games

The Rolling Meadows Boys Football teams will play their last games of the season tomorrow agaiknst teams from Crystal Lake at the Rolling Meadows High School stadium.

The lightweight team, the Pintos, will begin play at 6 p.m. and the heavyweight team, the Colts, will begin at 8 p.m.

Progrm Director Bob Campbell said a win for the lightweights would put them in contention for second place in the program standings. The team has a 5-2 record.

Student Expelled On Marijuana Charge

A junior at Rolling Meadows High School was expelled Wednesday for allegedly distributing marijuana at the school.

The High School Dist. 214 board of education took the action expelling the student for the rest of the semester following a closed hearing.

Under the school district policy students are subject to expulsion for selling or distributing drugs. Drug users generally are suspended and told to seek medical advice.

Public Works Open House Saturday

John Hennessy, superintendent of public works in Rolling Meadows, is proud of the city's public works department and he thinks the citizens it serves should be proud, too.

Ke knows, however, that most people just naturally never stop to think about the services provided by the department. He realizes that garbage collection and a ready water supply when you turn on the tap are necessities the average guy doesn't have time to worry about.

But he also thinks the citizenry can't share pride in the department unless they are familiar with what it does, how it operates, and the services it provides. So to show them, Hennessy and the city have invited the public to an "open house" at the public works building (it's NOT the city garage, Hennessy insists), 3200 Central Rd., from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 11.

The open house will be held jointly with the civil defense department, which has its headquarters on the second floor of the building. Both departments intend to display all equipment, as well as sponsor tours to other public works facilities around the city. Personnel from both departments will be available to answer questions, and forms for suggestions from the public will be available.

"PUBLIC SPIRIT is good in Rolling Meadows, but we want the citizens to know what we had, what we have, and what we hope to get," Hennessy says. He thinks that means understanding things like how the department handles refuse collection, and how the city receives visiting dignitaries from around the world who are interested in studying the way Rolling Meadows performs this service.

The residents should know, he thinks, that the city was the first in the nation to buy Mercedes Benz-built garbage trucks because they are not only the best-made vehicles for the job, but because they have saved the city thousands of dollars in maintenance costs in the last four years.

The open house will illustrate to residents other services performed by the department such as flood control, maintenance of the city's water supply and all vehicles used by every city department, snow removal from sidewalks as well as streets, building inspections, and even finding a home for a stray kitten.

Cracker Barrel

MAKING A NAME FOR YOURSELF . . . Rolling Meadows officials are learning there are many undesirable ways in which a city can gain notoriety. Take, for example, the citing of the city as a defendant in two lawsuits concerning water allotment from Lake Michigan. The city doesn't even get Lake Michigan water, but because it was represented in discussion several years ago on the subject, it was cited in the suits along with some 50 other municipalities and organizations — including the League of Women Voters and the Army. After City Atty. Don Rose read to the city council the list of defendants, he remarked: "We may not be on the state map, but they didn't forget us on this!"

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

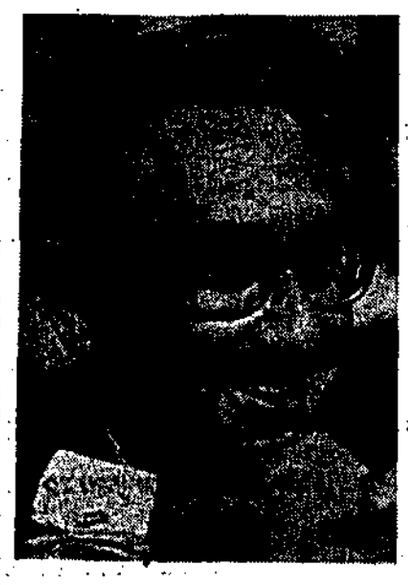

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

Sen. Percy: War Is Worst Polluter

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would becme a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy; and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Demand For Blood: Is It Outrunning The Supply?

by JOANN VAN WYE

Talk of a blood shortage may become a self-fulfilling prophecy.

David Eisenman, a member of the Illinois Department of Public Health Blood Bank Program Task Force, made this statement yesterday at the 50th annual meeting of the Illinois Hospital Association at Arlington Park Towers.

"I don't think we will find any lack of volunteer donors when we clean house. We have turned volunteer donors into paid donors in many cases," said Eisenman, speaking at a workshop entitled "Blood: The Law, The Supply, The Demand."

Eisenman called on hospitals to eliminate blood replacement programs and guarantee donors a patient will not be charged for the blood they have donated. He also spoke in favor of regionalizing blood banks and transporting blood from one area to another if needed.

DR. THIRU Vaithianathan, president of the Illinois Association of Blood Banks, told people at the workshop the blood replacement program could not be eliminated until there is enough preplaced blood.

Sometime in the near future the program hopefully will reach the goal of preplacement of blood (enough blood in storage) and replacement programs can be changed or eliminated but until that time we must work with a replacement system, said Vaithianathan.

"We need to reduce the over-all demand on the supply," said Vaithianathan. He said this could be done partially by eliminating unnecessary blood transfusions.

"Boundaries must not be established to limit the transport of blood. Free transport should be made possible and easy," said Vaithianathan.

Richard G. French, senior partner of Howard and French, attorneys at law, spoke on the law in regards to blood.

The Supreme Court has held blood is a product and if it is defective there is a liability. It does not matter what degree of care is used, said French.

The only defense in a case where a patient charges he contracted hepatitis from a blood transfusion is proving the virus was not contracted because of the transfusion.

FRENCH explained malpractice was not involved in such cases but rather products liability.

Blood banks and hospitals have both been held liable in cases where hepatitis was contracted due to a blood transfusion, according to French. The liability of the doctor in such cases has still not been determined, he said.

Leapin' Lizards, Batman! It's The Real Thing...

Mrs. Therese Mitrenga of 3702 Bobwhite Ln., Rolling Meadows, was preparing to rake the leaves on her front lawn yesterday morning, but she was sidetracked by a bat sleeping among the leaves.

Before her two preschoolers could decide to make it their pet, she called the police, who took the bat away and told her it would be tested for rabies. According to the curator of the small mammal house at Brookfield Zoo, however, the chances of the bat being rabid, or for that matter of more bats being found in the area, aren't too great.

Chris Wemmer, the zoo's authority on bats, said yesterday that while bats are known carriers of rabies, the prcentage of rabid bats in the United States is small. "Most would be found in the south and southwest, not in this area," Wemmer said, "and even there the percentage is very small compared to the total population."

While some authorities have noted an increase in the bat population in this area this year due to heavy rains, Wemmer said he could not confirm the observation because he has not been in the area long enough to make that determination.

Wemmer slad he became curator in June.

He said there are only a few species of bats that exist in this area, and some of those are "solitary" varieties that segregate themselves from other bats.

Expowinter '72 Comes To Track

People are always looking for bargains. And that makes the ski swap and used ski sale one of the highlights of the 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter that opened last night at Arlington Park Exposition Hall.

Sponsors of the ski sale offer to put any gear up for sale. Just check it with the attendants, and if the gear is sold, a small fee will be charged.

Besides the usual array of booths for ski clubs, equipment, resorts, vacation trips and the like, a host of experts in all phases of the sport will be on hand at the show. Among these will be Gordon Lipe, inventor of a device for adjusting ski releases; Jeff Job, who has appeared in many ski movies; Corky Fowler, member of the Hart Ski Co. demonstration team; Stein Eriksen, one-time Olympic champion; and Willy Bogner Jr., a noted ski photographer.

Several ski magazines also will have booths at the show, featuring films, lectures and demonstrations of equipment, skiwear and tips for better and safer skiing.

A special attraction will be the Ski Circus. Featured will be aerobatics, stunts, ballet and humor — all on skis, of course.

Hours for the show are 4 p.m. to midnight today, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Chamber In Drive To Boost Membership

Although the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce won't officially begin its annual membership drive until Monday, the campaign has already received its first positive reply.

It came from the Bingaman Metal Spinning Co., 1000 Carnegie, which sent its membership donation after receiving information about the chamber in the mail.

The campaign will officially take place Monday when recruiters will visit industrial and retail businesses.

The chamber consists of about 80 members, but officials say they have more than 200 prospective members whom they will contact Monday in "an all-out effort" to build up the organization.

The chamber lists as its responsibilities the organization and development of leadership and community betterment. Among the projects undertaken by the chamber this year is a campaign to get the city named on the official map of Illinois.

Fremd, Palatine Have Top English Students

Palatine and Fremd high schools each have a winner in a nationwide competition run by the National Council of Teachers of English.

Robert Scott Gallagher, from Palatine, and Carol Fisler, from Fremd, have been named outstanding high school students of English by the national organization.

Only 24 students in the state of Illinois won the award.

Seek Permission To Build Eagle Store

Eagle discount supermarket has asked the Palatine Village Board for permission to build its food store now, and to delay building the other stores in the complex for an unspecified time.

The Eagle property, at the northeast corner of Smith Street and Northwest Highway, was rezoned for the commercial use more than a year ago but construction has not begun.

Eagle developers are seeking an amendment to the annexation agreement in order to proceed with construction of the grocery store. The May drug store and six to eight smaller stores which were to be built with the Eagle would be built at a later date.

The village board referred the request to the plan commission.

Voter League Benefit

The Palatine League of Women Voters will sponsor a benefit at Dominick's Finer Foods store Tuesday to raise funds for its activities.

Five per cent of the grocery sales to shoppers who present benefit day passes will go to the league. Passes are available from Mary Hart, 358-3370, and Lyn Rowe, 359-4430.

Your Invitation to See Nature's Fall Beauty At Its Best

If you are a nature lover, or just someone who likes to see Fall's beauty at its breathtaking best, this is your invitation to visit Windridge.

Windridge's 40 acres of beautiful rolling land are emblazoned with over 200 varieties of trees, evergreens, bushes, flowers and various other flora in their best Fall dress. As each plant takes on its own Fall hues, it blends with the others to create a real symphony of color.

As part of Windridge's philosophy of being "for the living and those they remember," you will find that a stroll through its estate-like property to see nature at its very Fall best will be invigorating, pleasant and inspirational. There are broad lawns with breathtaking panoramas of Nature's best coloring work, rustic nature trails in much the same primeval condition as the Indians left them a couple of hundred years ago and extensive carpeted wooded areas.

From Windridge's high point, the knoll near the Administration Building, you'll have a breathtaking panoramic view spanning miles and miles of the beautiful Fox River Valley. You can even see Wisconsin.

As a former private estate, Windridge has been carefully cultivated and developed as a natural showcase for over a quarter of a century. Now that it's open to the public, won't you accept our cordial invitation to visit us? Merely follow the signs to the visitors parking lot, leave your car and feel free to browse through Windridge and enjoy one of Nature's most inspiring seasons at its very best.

P.S. We will be happy to provide transportation to and from your home, without cost or obligation, if you would like a free tour of the property.

Accusations Become Heated

High School Dist. 214 Teachers, Board At War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 850 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $8,650 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members, Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

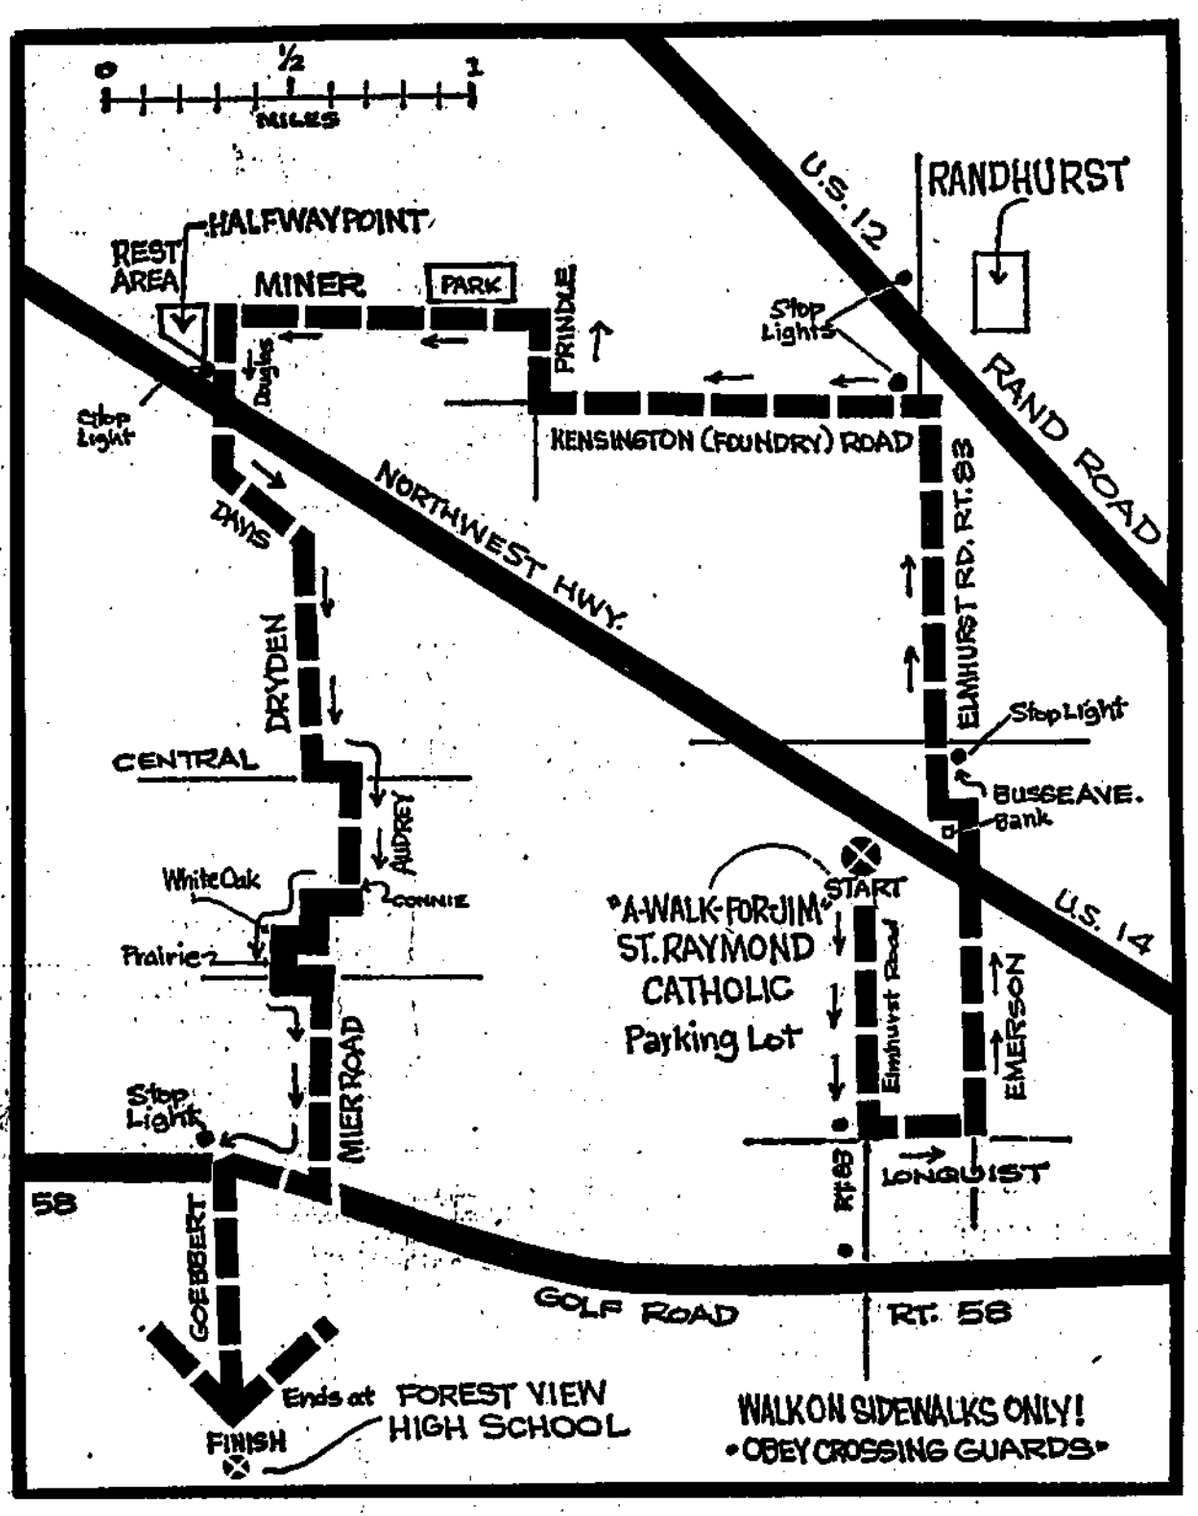

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

Percy: War Is Greatest Polluter

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would become a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challenge anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked

Sunday Is Trick-Or-Treat Day

All the little ghosts and goblins will take to the streets Sunday in Mount Prospect, during the village's official trick-or-treat day.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert, by means of a proclamation, has set aside the hours of 1 p.m. until dusk Sunday as the time children should make their Halloween rounds. He said it would be safer for the children to go around in daylight on a day when everyone is home, rather than to go out at night Tuesday, the traditional spook day. Daylight trips will enable all children to be clearly seen by motorists.

Fire Chief Lawrence A. Pairitz has also issued several reminders on Halloween safety. These include warnings to avoid masks that obscure vision, hard-to-see costumes and costumes with sharp objects. He also advises that an adult examine all collected treats before the children eat them to insure they have not been tampered with to harm the children.

Other warnings deal with the danger of costumes catching fire from an open flame, such as a fireplace, stove or candle-lighted pumpkins by doors. He said bonfires of any type are a violation of the village's anti-burning ordinance.

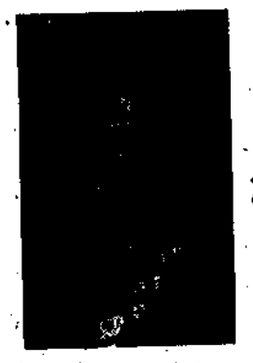

Several other area villages are regulating trick-or-treating times. In Elk Grove Village, an ordinance passed last spring prohibits trick-or-treating after 8 p.m. on Halloween.

Pledges Mount For 'Walk For Jim'

Several of the hikers in tomorrow's "Walk for Jim" have signed up almost $100 each in pledges, Patricia Busse, march coordinator, said yesterday.

The 12-mile hike through Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights has been organized to help pay the medical expenses of Jim O'Brien, 14, who has been hospitalized since Labor Day with a rare bone infection at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. Medical expenses have far exceeded the family's hospitalization insurance policies.

The hike will begin at 8 a.m. at St. Raymond Catholic Church in Mount Prospect and end at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights at 5 p.m. Hikers may start the march any time from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., but the last hikers must be back by 5 p.m. "We want no hikers out after dark," Mrs. Busse explained.

JAMES O'BRIEN

HIKE MARSHALS will be available all along the route of the march. A child must be at least 11 years old to participate. Forest View High School phones will be available for hikers to call for rides home after the march.

So far, more than $500 has been donated to a trust fund set up in O'Brien's name at the Mount Prospect State Bank. Persons interested in donating to the fund or in participating in the hike should call Marilyn Dekoster at 253-7583 or Betty Allen at 253-4844.

O'Brien, of 923 See-Gwun Ave., Mount Prospect, would have been a freshman this fall at Forest View High School. Since he was hospitalized in September, doctors have been unable to wipe out the infection. He has already received several blood transfusions, and persons are being asked to donate replacement blood in his name.

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

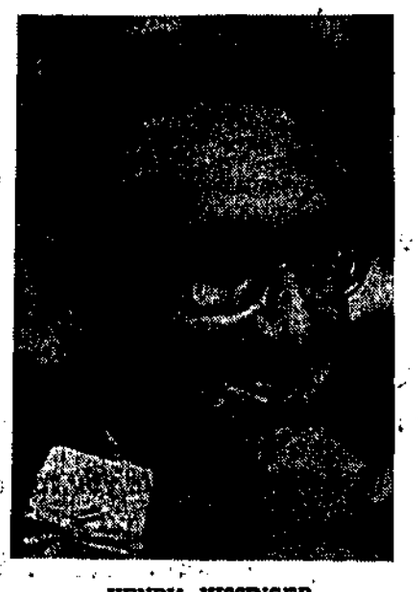

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

Trio Drug Sale Case Continued

Two Mount Prospect men and a Des Plaines man charged with sale of cocaine had their cases continued to Nov. 28.

Richard Walden, 22, and Randall Flood, 26, both of 9 S. Wille St., Mount Prospect, and James Trafford, 22, of 634 Debra Dr., Des Plaines, appeared Tuesday in Niles Court. The men were arrested Sept. 19 during a Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) raid on the Wille Street address.

In addition to the charge of sale of cocaine, Flood was booked for possession of marijuana and possession of hypodermic needles and syringes. Trafford was also charged with possession of marijuana.

Greg Spencer, 13, Dies In Tranquility Of The Suburbs

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his dtath apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home..

Bowling Classes For Forest View

Assuming bus transportation can be worked out, juniors and seniors at Forest View High School will learn to bowl this fall while their physical education facilities are unusable.

The High School Dist. 214 board of education Wednesday agreed to finance a bowling program to start Nov. 13 at Elk Grove Bowl in Elk Grove Village.

Forest View Principal Larry Jenness explained that the entire program, including bus transportation to the bowling alley three days aweek, will cost no more than $2,000 between Nov. 13 and Christmas.

He said trial runs of the bus will be made this week to make sure the students can be transported to the bowling alley, have 20 minutes of bowling time and be driven back in the time allotted.

THE SCHOOL'S gym and surrounding areas usually used for physical education classes have been unusable since a tornado-like wind damaged the building during the summer.

Jenness said freshmen and sophomores have been studying health in classrooms since the weather turned cold, but added that the older students, who already have studied health, are becoming restless while confined to classrooms. He said a bowling unit would ordinarily be included in P.E. clsses, but would not use real bowling lanes.

Jenness said the program "will enable us to continue a unit that has been a regular part of the P.E. program and I think it would do a great deal to increase the morale of the students at this time."

In related action, the board heard a report from Roger Smith, a representative of Orput-Orput and Associates architectural firm, on progress of the repairs of the building.

Smith said the contractor who is replacing the roof and some of the interior furnishings in the gym has indicated one of the two gym areas will be ready to have a new floor installed by Nov. 6. He said the new gym floor will take about nine weeks to install after that.

The rest of the general repair in the gym area, Smith said, is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year.

Police Voting Today For Bargaining Agent

Mount Prospect police patrolmen will vote today on whether to have the Combined Counties Police Association (CCPA) act as their bargaining agent in negotiations with the village.

The men will be able to vote from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. and from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the village hall. The election will be conducted by the Illinois Department of Labor Conciliation and Mediation Service.

At least 19 favorable votes for the CCPA are needed for the group to be the bargaining agent. But last May a local chapter of the CCPA was formed and chapter president Patrolman Warren Fischer has said the group already has 21 members.

Non-Emergency Police Number

The Mount Prospect Police have a new number for non-emergency calls. It is 392-6000. Emergency calls, as in the past are handled by 253-2151. Emergency calls now go through to the central radio dispatching in Arlington Heights and cannot be transferred to the Mount Prospect police station.

Change' About It

There was no "small change" about it Wednesday evening when some unknown thieves broke into a dollar billchanger at the Golf Village Laundromat, 1705 W. Golf Rd., Mount Prospect.

Police reported that about $125 in bills was taken, after the machine was pried open.

Car Wash To Benefit 'Operation Cardiac'

A car wash, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees, which was postponed last week has been rescheduled for Sunday. It will be held from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Jiffy Car Wash, 99 Rand Rd., in Des Plaines.

Proceeds are to be donated to "Operation Cardiac Unit", a fund set up by the Jaycees to reimburse the village of Mount Prospect for the cost of two emergency cardiac units purchased recently.

'Senior Citizens For Percy' Party Planned

A "Senior Citizens for Percy" party, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Extensioneers, will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 Main St., Mount Prospect.

All senior citizens groups in the area have been invited to attend. Sen. Charles Percy's son, Roger and his wife Penny, will be guests at the party.

Dave Richter, a banjo player, will perform along with his three man combo.

Anyone who needs transportation for the party should call Phyllis Noakes at 827-4780.

1971 Chrysler Stolen

A 1971 blue Chrysler was stolen Wednesday from the Addressograph Multigraph parking lot, 1900 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Police said the two-door vehicle, valued at $3,000, was owned by Azalee Scott, of Chicago.

If Ætna's All-Driver Plan doesn't offer lower rates, broader coverage, or both, why are our phones so busy?

Even we're surprised at how popular it is.

Actually, we shouldn't be. Because the Ætna All-Driver Plan offers remarkable advantages.

Take the premiums. Even if your present insurance company is already giving you lower rates for your safe driving record, the Ætna All-Driver Plan should cost you less.

Bent a fender or two in the past few years? You could still save. You probably won't have to pay as much for your coverage as other insurance companies would charge you.

Even if you've had lots of bad luck in your driving—are having trouble getting any insurance, you should be able to qualify for All-Driver. With its broader coverage and the best guarantee in the industry on policy renewal.

Call us, or come in. We always have time to talk to you.

Accusations Become Heated

High School Dist. 214 Teachers, Board At War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 850 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $8,850 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

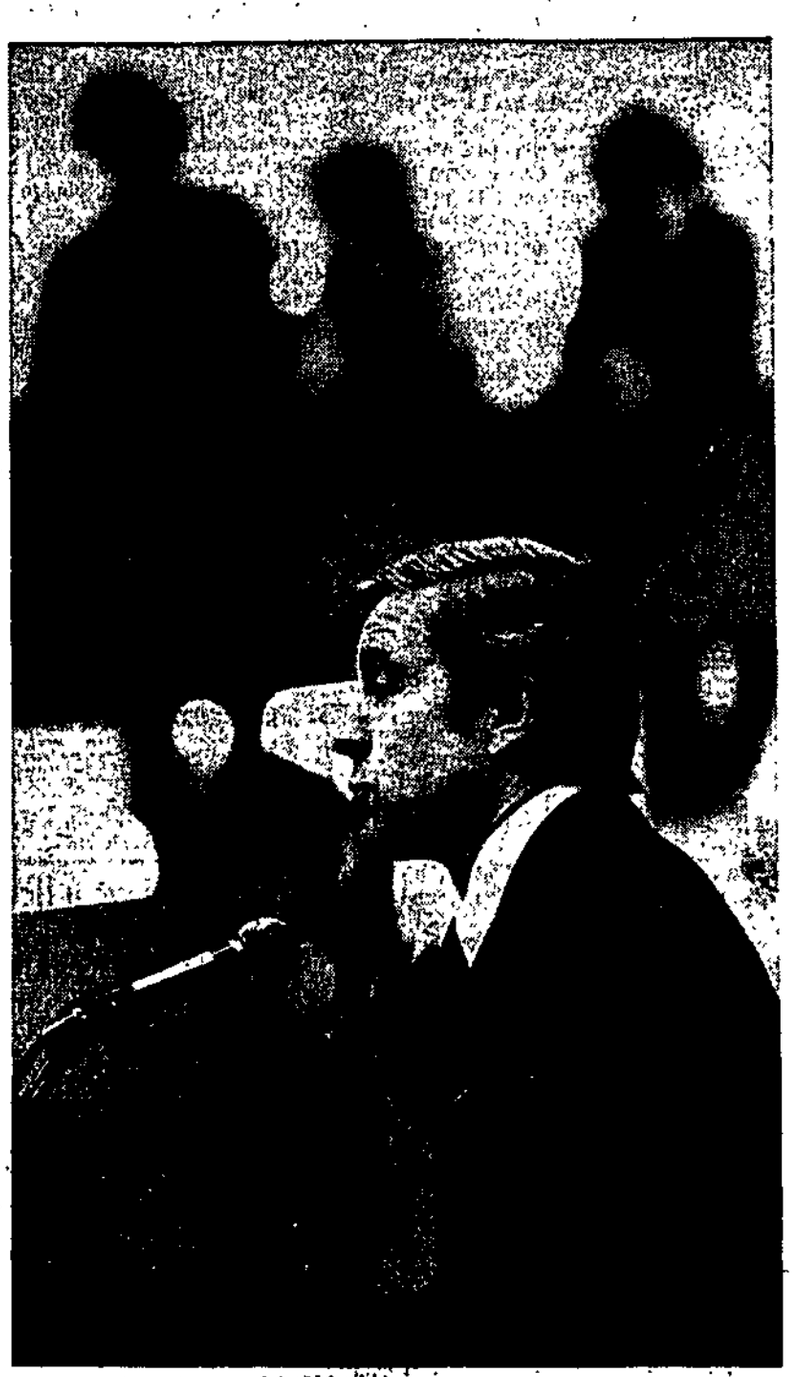

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Tennis Club Plans Are Bogged Down

The Arlington Heights Park District tennis facility, planned for construction adjacent to Forest View High School, is bogged down in the village building department.

Latest estimates by the village and Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) say the permit will take from one to four weeks to process. In the meantime, $735,000 worth of revenue bonds have been sold and construction workers are ready to start digging.

"We looked far enough ahead to put reserves in the bond retirement," said Charles Bobinette, park district attorney. Though he is not sure what the delay in building will mean to the retirement of the bonds, Bobinette says there is probably no problem yet.

THE REASONS that a building permit has not been issued according to village officials, are that the facility is scheduled to be built in a flood plain and that a four-foot fire wall may have to be included in the plans.

"According to Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) maps, the facility is planned for construction in a flood plain," said Al Sander, engineering director. "The village maps don't show the area as a flood plain, but the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) goes according to NIPC maps."

Sander is waiting for Village Atty. Jack Siegel to give him a decision on whether or not the village administration can grant a variance for the facility. The village board, which will meet Nov. 5, may have to grant the variance, he said.

The MSD must also give the building its approval for sewer construction, and according to Ayoub Talahmi of the MSD Sewer Department, the village flood plain ordinance must be dealt with first.

THE FOUR-FOOT fire wall, if it is required, will be fought by the park district, said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation. According to Thornton the proposed fire wall would eliminate spectator windows to the court area.

The fire wall may be required by the national building code, said L. A. Hanson, village manager, who is wating for a ruling on the matter from New York. He said the letter was mailed Tuesday.

"We're not trying to thwart the park district, but this is our first tennis facility in the village, and we want to make sure it gets built right," said Hanson.

According to Thornton, the building code for tennis facilities is not very comprehensive and calls for judgment decisions on the part of the village officials.

"The officials over at the village should be qualified to make these interpretations," he said.

According to Sander, the granting of a permit is not going to be a rush job.

"These things take time. Perhaps the park district should have got an earlier start in applying for the permit," he said.

Youth Dies In Suburban Tranquility

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his dtath apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

38% Jump In Apartment Burglaries Due To One?

The number of burglaries and attempted burglaries of apartments in Arlington Heights has risen some 38 per cent in the first nine months of 1972 as opposed to the same period last year. But police detectives blame much of the increase on one man.

Police records show that 87 burglaries or attempts to burglarize were made at apartments in the village as of the end of September. That is an increase of 24 over the 63 burglaries and attempts for the same period in 1971.

Detective Otto Schuster said, however, that police are looking for a man who has warrants against him for 18 burglaries to apartments in the village this year. Schuster did not reveal the man's name, but he did say the man is out on bond after being arrested by two other police departments.

"This man makes a living by committing burglaries," Schuster said. "He'll be arrested, pay his bond, then go out and burglarize to pay for his attorneys. People like this should have bond set higher so they cannot affort to pay

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

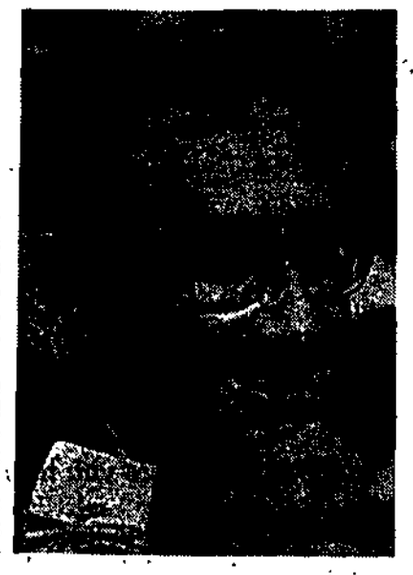

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

HENRY KISSINGER

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

You Can Even Get Married On Skis . . .

by DAVE MARSHMAN

Skiing is a very sociable sport. In its two years of existence, the Grand Prix Ski Club has seen nearly a dozen marriages among its members.

"When you go skiing, you'll find that everybody is friends," Art Christensen, a founder of the club smiled, citing just one reason why skiing has become one of America's most popular outdoor sports.

But Grand Prix is more than just a social club. Its members are really into skiing.

The main attraction of the club, which meets twice a month at Knight's Pub in Des Plaines, is its program of ski instruction, says Christensen, himself a ski instructor certified by the Central Ski Instructor Association. The price of membership in the club — $20 for singles, $25 for couples — buys the beginner all the instruction needed to ski, and ski well.

For the skittish, let it be said that Christensen and his five co-instructors have taught 80 beginners to ski in two years — with no injuries. Christensen said the instructors are very careful to see that everyone in the club skis properly and safely.

"Anybody who starts skiing without a lesson is sticking his neck out the first time on the hill," Christensen warned. "Skiing is very easy to learn. It's just like driving a car — if you ski properly, you can stop and turn anywhere you want."

CHRISTENSEN CREDITS the club's perfect safety record to his background in mechanical engineering. He said that 70 to 80 per cent of all ski injuries can be attributed to improperly adjusted bindings, something his background has enable him to correct for members.

Besides talking about bindings and safety at nearly every meeting, Grand Prix Ski Club owns a "Release Check," a machine that measures the force it takes to make a binding break loose and allows proper adjustment. Use of the machine is free to members, but Christensen said it would cost three dollars for the same service at a ski shop. The inventor of the machine, Gordon Lipe, will be at this weekend's Expowinter '72 Ski Show at Arlington Park Race Track. The club will have a booth at the show.

Christensen, who lives in Arlington Heights, and Bob Immens, co-founder of the club, will advise members which ski shops to patronize to be assured of safe equipment. Both men have had experience behind ski shop counters.

But the instruction is just as important as safety tips for enjoyable skiing, Christensen said.

"When we take a group out for instruction, we aren't obligated to teach for only an hour, as many commercial instructors are," Christensen said. "We will spend a whole morning with them.

"With the club, you become friends with the instructor, and he stays with you for the whole season," he said. Using club instruction, Christensen said it takes an average of two seasons to become a good skier. He added that a person doesn't have to be a great athlete to ski, but it helps to be coordinated.

THE CLUB doesn't limit its activities to skiing, however. Christensen said Grand Prix goes all year long — ice skating, bicycle riding and, of course, holding social activities. Members range in age from 21 to 55.

The club's primary skiing grounds are at Wilmot in Wisconsin. But the club is also planning trips this year to several mountains in Michigan; Alta, Utah; and Aspen, Colo. Members recieve reduced rates for the trips.

Last year the club's membership was 120, but Christensen said the group wants new members. Their goal is 200 this year. Information may be obtained by calling either Jeff Neroy, 593-5731, or Ernie Cornehl, 882-2178.

Christensen put the club's primary goal this way:

"Our basic thought is to teach people to ski — and to stay in one piece."

Expowinter '72 Comes To Track

People are always looking for bargains. And that makes the ski swap and used ski sale one of the highlights of the 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter that opened last night at Arlington Park Exposition Hall.

Sponsors of the ski sale offer to put any gear up for sale. Just check it with the attendants, and if the gear is sold, a small fee will be charged.

Besides the usual array of booths for ski clubs, equipment, resorts, vacation trips and the like, a host of experts in all phases of the sport will be on hand at the show. Among these will be Gordon Lipe, inventor of a device for adjusting ski releases; Jeff Job, who has appeared in many ski movies; Corky Fowler, member of the Hart Ski Co. demonstration team; Stein Eriksen, one-time Olympic champion; and Willy Bogner Jr., a noted ski photographer.

Several ski magazines also will have booths at the show, featuring films, lectures and demonstrations of equipment, skiwear and tips for better and safer skiing.

A special attraction will be the Ski Circus. Featured will be aerobatics, stunts, ballet and humor — all on skis, of course.

Hours for the show are 4 p.m. to midnight today, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Local Man Arrested On Cocaine Charge

Arlington Heights detectives and federal customs and postal agents Wednesday arrested an Arlington Heights man for allegedly bringing cocaine into the country.

Arrested was Henry E. Blenner, 26, of 1515 E. Central Rd. Blenner was charged with possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana after officers searched his apartment, police said. The search, made on a federal search warrant, turned up quantities of what police believe to be cocaine and marijuana. Blenner was arrested on federal charges and has been taken to Chicago for arraignment before Federal District Court.

Police said four Arlington Heights detectives assisted in the search and arrest. Police surrounded the apartment building in which Blenner lives. A special agent of the postal inspectors office delivered three magazines containing some 23 grams of cocaine from Colombia to Blenner's apartment. Police said Blenner was expecting the magazines.

When Blenner left the apartment building following delivery of the magazines, village detectives detained him, served the search warrant and made the arrest.

Police allege that Blenner was receiving the cocaine shipments to his home address in Arlington Heights via New York.

Cubs Plan Halloween Mask Parade Tonight

A Halloween mask parade will be the highlight of the first pack meeting of the year for Cub Scout Pack 169, to be held at Olive School, 303 E. Olive, Arlington Heights, at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

The boys have all made their own Halloween masks out of bags.

Besides the presentation of awards, the meeting will also include a skit by den one titled, "Who Discovered America."

BEARLY INTERESTED. Park Board Comr. Lloyd Moyer proved this week that the mind can be in two places at one time as he sat through a four-hour discussion of a proposed theater building and other referendum questions . . . or was it a four-hour football game. The avid Bears fan admitted that the earplug he was using at the meeting wasn't really a hearing aid . . . though it did help him hear the Bears-Minnesota game during the meeting. "Sometimes you can listen to these discussions (about the theater, referendum, etc.) for five minutes. You don't have to listen for a whole hour on one topic," he said, adding that it was an exciting game.

LOW-CAL OLIVES. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, who keeps a pretty close watch on his waistline, was overheard talking about diets in village hall this week. "It's easy to get off pounds but a lot harder to keep them off," Hanson was saying. As some further advice to weight watchers, Hanson added that "cutting down on manhattans and martinis helps too."

SAILING, SAILING. Village Pres. John Woods was downtown at a meeting of the Metropolitan Sanitary District called to acquaint municipal officials with the proposed Chicago Underflow Plan of flood control. After the meeting, Woods talked about some flooding problems around O'Hare Airport that would be alleviated by the O'Hare branch of the Underflow Plan which also would help out parts of Arlington Heights. "They really need something around that airport. That's not a flood plain, it's a flood ocean," Woods said.

38% Jump In Burglaries

and get out to commit more crimes."

Police are waiting for the man to show up for trial so he can be arrested on the Arlington Heights warrants.

SCHUSTER SAID police have a good chance of catching a burglar if he is a repeater — burglarizing more than one apartment or residence on separate occasions. The chance for an arrest is not so good, however, if the burglar strikes once in the village, then moves on, Schuster said.

The detective put much of the blame for successful burglaries on the careless apartment dweller or management. He said that in all but two cases, occupants of burglarized apartments equipped with a double dead-bolt lock had failed to lock the second lock. If both locks are used, Schuster said burglars will often move on. They don't want to take the extra time needed to jimmy two locks.

Schuster charged that security is too lax in many elevator apartment buildings. He said that either a security buzzer isn't provided, or it isn't a big enough obstacle to burglars. In one case, a burglar rang the buzzer and said he wanted to use the washing machine in the building, as the machine in his building was broken. He was let in, and he burglarized several apartments. Schuster warned occupants of buildings with buzzers to make sure who wants in before unlocking the security door.

Apartment buildings with outside stairways and halls aren't too well liked by burglars, Schuster said. The burglar is too easily seen from the street in such situations, so prefers elevator apartments where he can work in an empty hallway.

SCHUSTER ALSO outlined these tips to help keep apartments safe from burglary:

—Put a board in the track of sliding patio doors, or use a dead-bolt that inserts from the door into the track. Burglars may enter patio door as high as three or four stories up.

—Report any series of telephone calls to the police in which no one answers when the receiver is picked up. Burglars like to use the phone to see if anyone is at home.

—Report any suspicious persons coming to the door and asking for someone unknown to the occupant. Again, this is a tactic often used to see if anyone is at home.

—Keep a list in a safe place of serial numbers of any valuable items — such as cameras, guns and electronic equipment — in the apartment or residence. This won't stop burglaries, but will aid police in attempts to recover stolen items.

"The biggest thing is for the owner to stay alert," Schuster said. "Take the extra 10 seconds to do things properly . . . It may take the burglar only five seconds to enter an apartment if the proper security measures aren't taken."

Taking Non-prescription drugs?
See Your Pharmacist

This is the theme that all pharmacists around the entire country will be stressing this week. Why is it important? Because many drugs that do not require a doctor's prescription can be dangerous and your pharmacist is qualified to advise and counsel you in the use of such over the counter drugs.
Of course, self medication is only indicated with simple a ments and should never be attempted when there is the possibility of something more serious. We will never hesitate to recommend that you consult your doctor if we feel that you may be doing yourself a disservice by continuing with a non-prescription drug.
YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Plan To Enlarge MSD Plant Size By 50 Per Cent

The Metropolitan Sanitary District plans to increase the capacity of the proposed O'Hare water reclamation plant by 50 per cent and redesign the layout of the plant on the site at Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road in Des Plaines.

The plant would be designed to treat 72 million gallons of sewage a day, instead of the 48-million gallons per day originally proposed.

The plant size is being increased to allow the plant to handle combined sanitary and storm sewage, collected in a system of tunnels to be built in the Northwest suburbs as part of the Chicago Underflow plan.

In addition, the district has to prepare a completely new layout for the plant because it was unable to acquire a street and a 4½-acre site.

In another development, U.S. Rep. Harold Collier, R-10, yesterday said he will urge the City of Des Plaines to make application for unused Defense Department land at O'Hare Airport as a site for the controversial sewage plant.

see related story on page 6

Collier, who had inquired about the land, was told last week by military officials that none of the more than 300 U.S. owned acres has so far been declared excess land, a pre-requisite to making it available for non-military use.

The City of Chicago is interested in obtaining the land for O'Hare expansion, something Collier said he has opposed. If the federal government would release some of the land for a sewage plant, he indicated, such a move might help preclude further O'Hare growth.

"What I would propose to do with Mayor Behrel is to have them file a formal application for part of this property in an attempt to prevail upon the Department of Defense to declare as excess only that acreage which would accommodate whatever is needed for the disposal plant. This is a project I should and will pursue," he said.

THE PLANT WAS originally designed based on the assumption that Wille Road, which divides the MSD's O'Hare plant site, would be vacated and turned over to the district.

However, the City of Des Plaines has refused to vacate the street.

The MSD also based the original design on the assumption the district would acquire a 4-½ acre site at the junction of the tollway and Elmhurst Road.

However, the district has now decided to not buy the land because the owner is asking approximately $1 million, a price the MSD feels is not justified.

The possibility that the original plan of shallow tunnels in the area from Des Plaines to Palatine may be changed to a system of deep tunnels 200 feet below the ground would also affect the plant design, an MSD report indicated. If the MSD board approves the deep tunnel approach, a different pumping station for the plant will have to be designed.

Both west side 8th Ward aldermen called again yesterday for the MSD to locate the sewage plant elsewhere when informed of the planned increase in plant capacity.

"I'm disturbed of course, but this is nothing new," said Ald. Robert Michaels. "From the outset we were informed by Vinton Bacon (former MSD superintendent) that this plant was going to get up to 100 million gallon capacity in a few years."

"Every reason they've given for not putting it (at O'Hare) has been pretty non-sensical," Michaels added.

Ald. Alan Abrams said he supports any MSD endeavor that would help end flooding but said the plant should be located elsewhere. But if the Defense Department won't give up any land at O'Hare, it at least may mean that Chicago won't be able to continue expanding the airport, he said.

WMTH Radio To Broadcast Election Returns

WMTH, the radio voice of Maine Township high schools at 88.5 FM, will continue its coverage of Campaign '72 with complete returns from all local and national elections on the evening of Nov. 7.

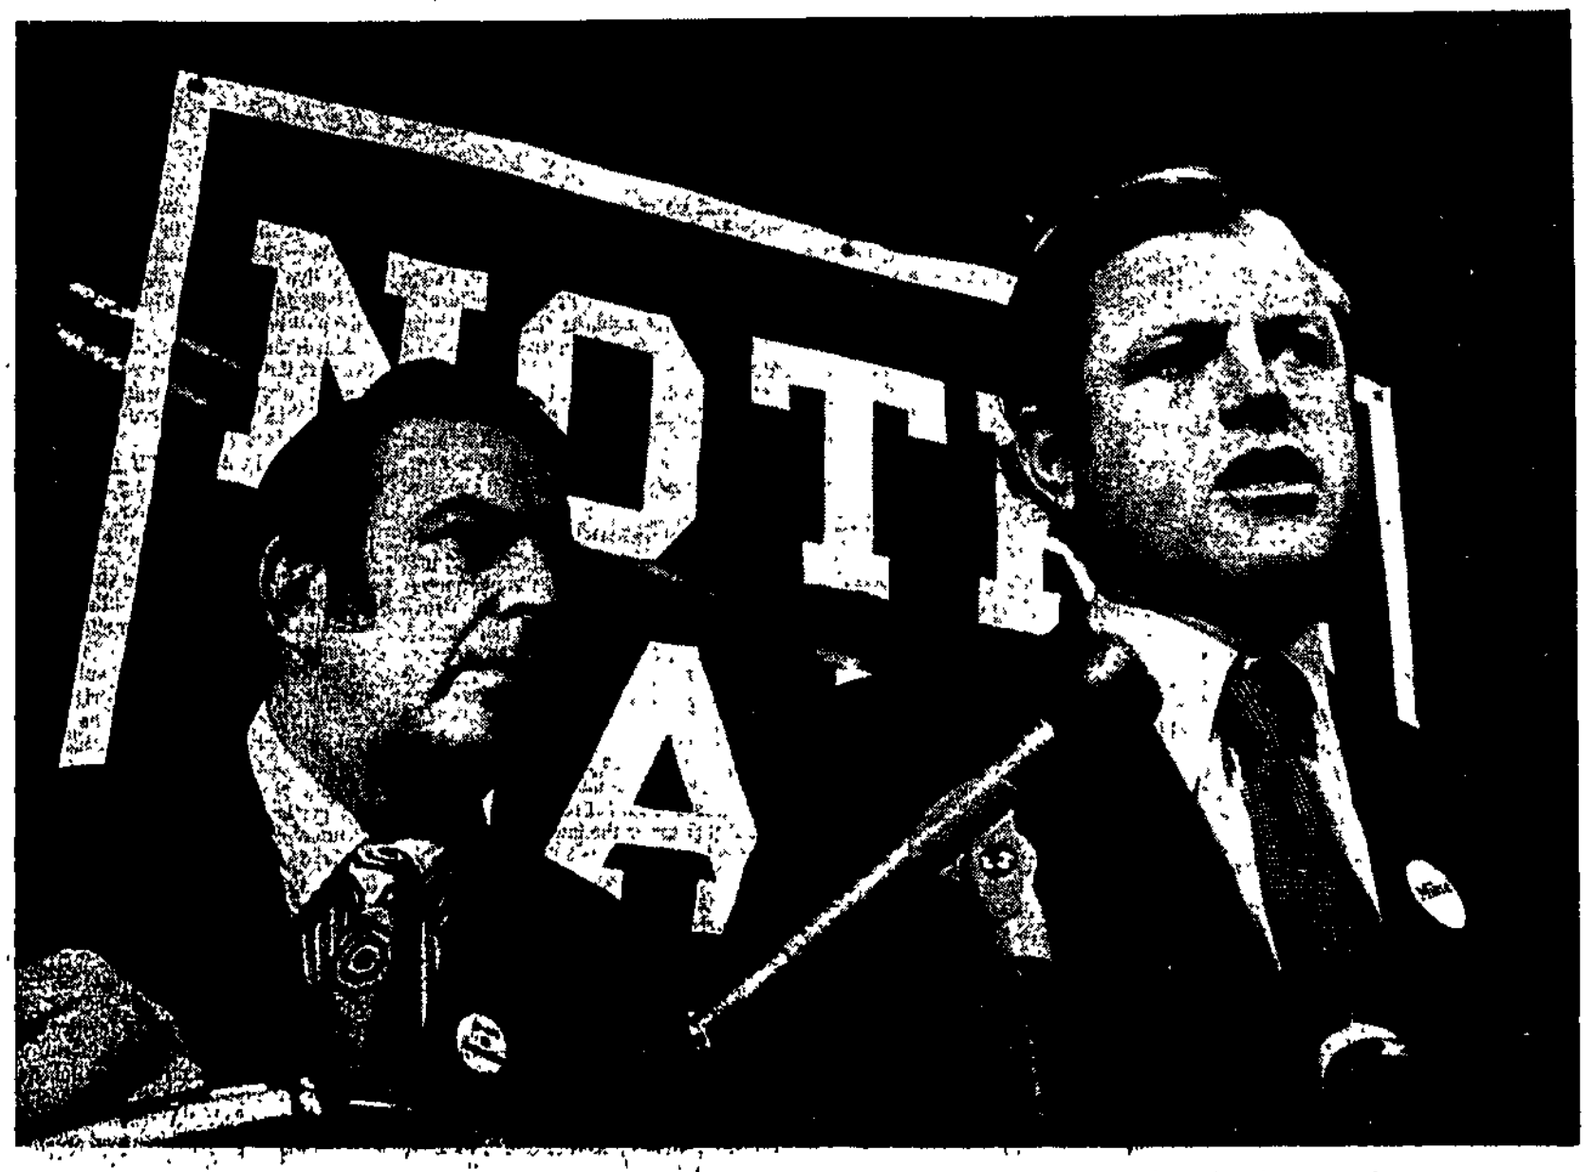

Staff members from all four Maine high schools will broadcast the results, starting with an election special at 6 p.m. WMTH will stay on the air for the greater part of the evening to bring listeners the results of all national and state-wide elections, as well as the outcome of the local races, with reporters in the several party headquarters throughout Maine and Niles Townships.

WMTH is the only radio station that will give in depth coverage to the local elections, station officials said. As an added service, WMTH is also planning to receive returns from other suburban areas through several other high school radio stations.

Students bringing the election results to Maine Township include anchormen Dean Moss, Maine East program director and a host of the popular WMTH interview show, "Current Comment"; Roy Chapman, Maine West program director; and Larry Northon, Maine West news director.

Reporters Steve Mark, Sue Fry, and Craig Burns (all from Maine East) will be among those at the party offices in the area, while engineers Jim Zarembski and Dale Wittlock will work on the technical end of the broadcast.

WMTH student station manager Susan Kielich and Maine East news director Dominic La Porta, who will supervise operations at the studio, invite everyone to tune in and be informed.

Sen. Edward Kennedy and U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva at Notre Dame High School Yesterday.

'Kennedy Magic' Spellbinds Teens

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy rewalked the presidential path of his brother John yesterday.

The Massachusetts Democrat zipped into Chicago for a quick appearance boosting election of U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

"I remember how John Kennedy came to Illinois in 1960 . . . when he came back to Chicago as President, it was the band from Notre Dame High School right here in Niles that met him at the airport and gave him one of the greatest receptions he ever had," Kennedy told packed auditorium of Notre Dame students.

The same band, with new members, and a standing ovation greeted Kennedy's early-morning appearance in the Chicago suburbs. Wearing Mikva and Notre Dame buttons, Kennedy asked the crowd if the high school would beat St. Patrick's this weekend. The resounding "yeah" kicked off the Kennedy magnetism that campaigns so well.

The short speech, designed to inspire campaign enthusiasm, was Kennedy-perfect. The senator ad-libbed, abandoning his text, and called for young people "to develop into a pressure group — a special interest group" like the National Rifle Association; the highway or auto insurance lobbies or the American Medical Association. He credited youth with "having been the vanguard . . . on the two most important issues of our times . . . Southeast Asia and equal opportunity."

KENNEDY challenged the high schoolers to demand educational opportunities, health care, senior citizen programs . . . "the kinds of things John Kennedy dreamed about . . . that Robert Kennedy talked about . . . these are the kinds of things that George McGovern and Ab Mikva are talking about."

Standing on a temporary basketball gym platform, before television cameras and Kennedy-Mikva banners, the senator was lavish in praise of the former 2nd District who is seeking a third term in the U. S. House from the new 10th District.

"I want Congressman Mikva back in the House for three reasons," Kennedy said:

"He's been one of the most effective members in recent times." The two worked together in Congressional judiciary committees on handgun, 18-year-old vote and environmental legislation.

"Because of his personal qualities — integrity, courage, a willingness to stand out on unpopular issues.

"His vision for his constituents . . . his vision for America."

KENNEDY deftly answered questions from students before leaving the gym to the clapping and band sound of the Notre Dame theme song.

"What do you think of President Nixon's foreign policy?" he was asked. "Not very much," the senator answered. "The President once said that those who couldn't bring peace in Southeast Asia don't deserve another try. I agree with that. We want leaders who will stop spending our nation's dollars on Saigon and Indochina and start spending them on Illinois and all other states here at home. Why should we have a President who's more concerned about the problems of Wall Street, New York City, than he is about Main Street, U. S. A.?"

"What about health care?" another student asked.

"We've won 42 Nobel prizes for research in health care but never have won one for delivering solutions," Kennedy charged. "I personally believe we shouldn't permit health profiteering. Insurance companies shouldn't make profits on the health of our nation. I want quality health care at a price that people can afford to pay. The first questions ask at hospitals now is how much insurance you have, not how sick you are."

"What are your plans for 1976?" came a third student question. "That's a good question," Kennedy quipped, drawing applause. "I'm going to be campaigning for the reelection of George McGovern."

The answer was far from what the crowd wanted and avoided recent political predictions that 1972 will lay a base for a Kennedy presidential effort in 1976.

KENNEDY, who enjoyed the crowd that included few area adults, has ambitiously traveled the country for months pushing elections of Democrats, pushing

This Morning In Brief

War's End Called Imminent

The United States announced Thursday that a Vietnam settlement could be signed "within a matter of weeks or less," ending the longest and one of the most agonizing wars in American history.

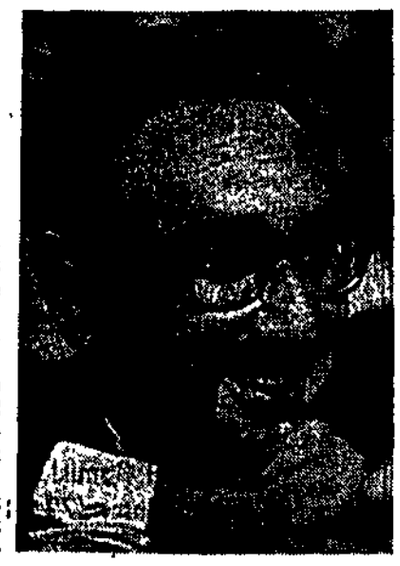

White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Hanoi had been asked to join in one, final negotiating session to resolve all remaining differences in the way of an immediate cease-fire and a total U.S. troop withdrawal and prisoner release within 60 days.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "They (the North Vietnamese) must know now that peace is in reach within a matter of weeks or less, dependent on when the meeting takes place."

Kissinger briefed reporters at the White House less than 24 hours after North Vietnam — over U.S. objections in Paris — broadcast the complete terms of a nine-point agreement on settling the war and charged that the United States had broken a promise to sign the agreement in Paris on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Kissinger confirmed that such an agreement had been reached but denied that the United States was firmly committed to signing it next Tuesday or that it was deliberately delaying a settlement.

He said "most of the most difficult problems have been resolved, but that one more meeting with Hanoi will be required to settle outstanding differences, mostly a matter of language but also including whether South Vietnam should also sign the agreement. None of the differences presents a major obstacle to ending the war, he said.

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, informed of Kissinger's remarks in Detroit, said he hoped there was "no holding back on the part of Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu or anyone else, and that we can move to get the war over."

He said he would welcome a peace settlement before the Nov. 7 elections, and would fully support the administration, "whatever the motives."

Kissinger denied suggestions the war could have been settled much earlier. He said the "breakthrough" came only last Oct. 8 in Paris, when the Communists agreed for the first time to a military settlement not tied directly to a political agreement.

The main points of the agreement, as broadcast from Hanoi by the Vietnam News Agency and monitored in Tokyo, provided:

—A cease-fire throughout South Vietnam to go into effect 24 hours after the agreement is signed. The understanding in Washington was that troops of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong would stand fast in positions held at the time.

—The United States would halt all military activities, including bombing and mining of North Vietnam. There would be a total withdrawal of U.S. and allied forces, including military advisers from South Vietnam within 60 days, to be accompanied by release of all prisoners of war.

—Neither side would ship troops or military equipment into South Vietnam, except for replacement of warn-out or damaged war supplies. U.S. officials said the agreement would not affect U.S. air bases in neighboring Thailand, or naval forces off the Vietnam coast.

Kissinger's announcement did not have the expected impact on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was the heaviest since April 12, but prices closed mixed, with the industrial average actually off 0.82.

In the war itself, fighting was reported in all four South Vietnamese military corps areas, as Communist forces staged their greatest number of attacks since the 1968 Tet offensive.

High School Dist. 214 Teachers, Board Go To War

by WANDALYN RICE

The board of education and teachers in High School Dist. 214 went to war yesterday.

Each side accused the other of fault in the failure of the two sides to reach an agreement on the 1972-73 salary contract after the board turned down a request from the teachers for a negotiations meeting last night.

The request for a meeting from officials of the Dist. 214 Education Association, bargaining unit for the teachers, came after the association membership overwhelmingly voted against the last board contract proposal.

In explaining that the board had rejected the request for a meeting last night, Richard Bachhuber, chief of the board negotiations team, said, "the board has instructed us that further negotiations under these circumstances would be unproductive."

BACHHUBER ADDED that the board has offered to have two members of its bargaining team meet with two members of the association team on Tuesday "to keep up communications." He said at the meeting the two groups could discuss "what we should do from this point on."

Bachhuber added he was surprised at the teacher response to the board proposal, which received only six yes votes out of more than 350 cast. He said, "I would interpret the whole vote as being anti-board and I don't think we could have won that election with a $10,000 starting pay offer."

The board proposal would have raised the base pay for beginning teachers from $8,300 to $8,600 this year with proportional increases for more experienced teachers on the same index as used last year. However, the offer included the provision that the index, which ties pay for experienced teachers directly to the base pay, be eliminated for the 1973-74 contract.

Association negotiations co-chairmen Richard Chierico and Dale Coventry branded the board's refusal to meet last night as "unfortunate," and added they would meet with the board representatives Tuesday.

"WE ARE WILLING to meet with them anytime and we want to continue to negotiate," Chierico said. "I don't understand why these seven men on the board don't want to sit down and work something out."

The association, Chierico said, is willing to accept the salary recommendation made by a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association for $8,650 base pay with the present index even though it is less than originally proposed.

Chierico also said he, Coventry and another member of the association bargaining team will be willing to meet in public debate "at any mutally convenient place and time" with Bachhuber, and fellow board members Jack Costello and Jack Matthews, who have served as the board negotiations team.

CHIERICO SAID, "We want to discuss with them the questions of good faith bargaining, and the issues between us. I think they have a moral responsibility to answer to the public at this point."

Chierico added the teachers understand why the board is concerned about increasing costs under the index and said association leaders would be willing to look for "a reasonable alternative" to the index for the 1973-74 school year.

However, he said, the association leaders will not accept the board's proposal to go off the index in 1973-74 under its present terms. He said the board's current proposal came in October, too late for the association to draw up a meaningful response for this year.

Bachhuber said, however, the board is sticking with its two-year contract proposal. He said the board wants to keep communications open with the association, but added, "I'm a little disillusioned with them. The possible areas of agreement are pretty slim right now."

The Dist. 214 teachers are now bound by a contract that includes a no-strike, no-picket clause. Asked if a strike might be possible in the present circumstances, Chierico said, "We feel very strongly about maintaining the school in session. We are willing to negotiate and will take one step at a time."

Morris Pumphrey, another member of the association bargaining team, added, "I think the board is trying to push us into something that would make us look non-professional. They are trying to force us to break the contract."

The two sides began negotiating on the contract last January. They declared impasse in May and called in a fact-finder from the American Arbitration Association who returned his report earlier this month.

Unit District Study To Be Made

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 214 Board of Education has decided to study the impact of forming a unit school district in reaction to a move in Elk Grove Township to form a unit district in that area.

The board members agreed Wednesday, in their first discussion of the studies now going on in Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59, that it is time to undertake a study on forming a unit district in the entire Dist. 214 area.

A unit district includes all grades from kindergarten through high school, unlike the present "dual district" structure in the Northwest suburbs with elementary districts separate from the high school district.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education awarded a contract in August to a consultant to study the possibility of forming one or more unit districts in their area, which occupies the southern part of Dist. 214.

A PRELIMINARY report by the consultant indicated that some kind of unit district in the Dist. 59 area is possible. A unit district would remove Elk Grove and Forest View high schools, or Elk Grove High School alone, from the control of Dist. 214, depending on how boundaries are drawn.

A citizens committee now has been formed in Dist. 59 to continue studying the possibility of a unit district.

Dist. 214 Board Pres. Ray Erickson noted that under the law a petition could be filed with County School Supt. Richard Martwick with 200 signatures asking that a unit district be formed in the Elk Grove area.

By law, the petition would be reviewed by the county and state school superintendents, a public hearing would be held and, if the petition were approved, a referendum on forming the new district would be held only in the area to be unified.

"When this kind of thing happens there isn't much chance for the rest of an area to have a voice," Erickson said. "I think Dist. 214 should consider undertaking its own study on whether to form a unit district out of all of 214 so there will be input from the whole district."

IN AGREEING with Erickson, board members added that school boards in the other five elementary districts that send students to Dist. 214 should be invited to take part in any study.

Board member Jack Costello said in the past the Dist. 214 board has avoided leading any move toward unification rather than put pressure on the elementary districts.

However, he added, "If the southern half of the district is talking about splitting away, it's not a matter anymore of Dist. 214 forcing its thoughts and opinions on other districts."

One of the purposes of the study, board members agreed, would be to assess the financial impact of the formation of one or more unit district.

THE STATE school aid formula favors unit districts and a unit district would receive more state aid than the present dual districts do. In addition, board members noted, if Dist. 59 forms a unit the general wealth of the Wheeling Township portion of Dist. 214 would be substantially reduced.

Dist. 59 contains about 25 per cent of the Dist. 214 enrollment and about 40 percent of its assessed value, which determine the amount of property tax money that can be raised.

Board members agreed that the first step Dist. 214 will take in studying the unit district issue will be to invite board members and administrators from all feeder elementary districts to a meeting to discuss the question.

Erickson added, "A fensibility study will keep our options open and we may find out a unit district is not feasible, but we have an obligation to study it."

Accounting Assistant Program Is Approved

The accounting assistant program at Oakton Community College is designed for the student who wants to assume a position of junior accountant after two years of college study, according to Paul Grosso, coordinator of the new career program.

The accounting assistant program was approved by the college board of trustees last spring and is in its first semester of operation. Students enrolled in the program can earn either a two-year associate of science degree or a one-year certificate.

Students have the option of taking an accounting job or going on to a four-year college with most, if not all, of their credits accepted for a baccalaureate degree, Grosso said. Many students can earn their living at their accounting jobs while attending the senior college, he added.

The accounting assistant student will develop beginning competencies in the following accounting areas, Grosso said:

—Accounting records for single proprietorship, partnerships and corporations.

—Familiarization with and ability to prepare tax returns for individuals.

—Cost accounting systems currently in use.

Internship is a special feature of the program. During the second year, students are placed in approved, supervised accounting offices or departments where they can apply and polish skills they have learned in class.

The certificate program is designed for individuals who are presently employed in accounting and who want to acquire additional knowledge and skills. It will also provide job entry competencies for high school graduates who do not desire an associate degree.

Oakton Community College, offering programs in college transfer, vocational technical training, general education and continuing education, serves Niles and Maine townships. For further information about the accounting assistant program, call Grosso at 967-5120, Ext. 360.

Offer Swim Program For Handicapped

The Des Plaines Park District is offering a special session of the Learn to Swim Program geared to the physically handicapped in the winter swimming program at Maine West pool.

Parents wishing to enroll their children in this program will be asked to fill out a questionnaire describing each child's disabilities at the time of registration. Registration is now open for this winter instructional program and can be completed at the Park District Office, 748 Pearson Street, Des Plaines.

The registration fee is $2 for the eight-week session starting December 2. The class time is 11 a.m. Any questions will be answered by calling the Des Plaines Park District at 296-6106.

Machines Give Students Extra Learning Help

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Machines are giving students at Oakton Community College some extra help in learning.

The learning lab, a mechanized classroom with tape recorders, electronic reading machines, and foreign language earphone units, was opened to Oakton students for the first time this fall.

The lab combines personal attention from tutors with machine programmed lessons that are designed to give students extra help in math, chemistry, accounting, developmental reading, creative writing, foreign languages and biology.

Mary Slattery, lab coordinator, said about 50 of Oakton's 2,900 students use the lab each day. The tutors are professors who volunteer their time and student aides hired part-time by the college.

THE PROGRAMMED lessons usually include a tape-recorded dialogue, a textbook, and some question sheets. When the student has a free period, he can come into the lab, choose a programmed lesson that meets his present ability in the subject he chooses, and take it to an individual booth and tape recorder for study.

All the lessons get progressively difficult and the student can go through them as fast or as slow as he desires on his own initiative. The tape and the book are usually used together. While the student listens to the tape, he sees the illustrations, words, or formulas in the text. When the taped lesson is finished the student can take the supplemental exam, and grade the results himself.

If the student still has difficulty with the exam; he can go over the lesson on the tape again, or ask for help from a tutor. An advantage of the programmed lesson is it's individual use. The student can work at his own pace, in his free time, and go as far in each lesson unit as he desires.

The learning lab isn't just for slow students or students who want to cram for an exam, said Miss Slattery. Many of the students using the lab get good grades and want some supplemental lessons. Other students may take a lesson or two to decide whether they have enough interest in a subject to sign up for it the next semester or they may use the lab reference books for help on a class project.

MANY FOREIGN language programs at Oakton use the learning lab as a regular part of their curriculum. In addition to attending classes where students may work on projects and engage in conversation, they do a lot of drill work from taped lessons in the lab.

The lab now has 23 individual study booths, about half of which are equipped with electricity. The lab is often full during the day, said Miss Slattery, and the school hopes to add about 15 more booths.

Pro Hockey Team Coming To Area?

by DOUG RAY

A new arena for the Chicago Cougars professional hockey team likely will be built in Palatine. Announcement is expected within six months.

The Herald in July first revealed the possibility if the World Hockey Association team moving to the area, after an interview with one of the team owners, Jordon Kaiser. His brother Walter Kaiser, also part-owner of the team, said yesterday no final decision has been made on Palatine but indicated a site on Northwest Highway is being "strongly considered."

The site, just north of the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club on Northwest Highway in Palatine, is owned by the Kaiser brothers. Located there is a 15-acre tract and room for expansion, Walter Kaiser said.

He said feasibility studies are being planned to determine whether the Palatine location would be the best for the newly formed hockey franchise, which now is playing games in the International Amphitheatre in Chicago under a two-year lease and an option on a third year. He added a decision will be made soon because construction of a planned 18,000-seat arena will take about two years.

"We can't make any money until we get a new stadium," he said. "The Northwest (suburbs) is an excellent place for an arena."

THERE HAS been speculation since the Chicago Cougars were formed this year that the team would move to the Northwest suburbs. Schaumburg was mentioned as a possible site for a new arena, until the team decided to play for at least two years in the Amphitheatre.

Parks Start Cage Program

The Des Plaines Park District invites fifth and sixth grade boys who live in Des Plaines to join a park district midget basketball team.

This program offers an opportunity for boys to learn and play competitive basketball. Coaching will be provided.

Teams will be formed at each school in the park district. As many teams as possible will be formed to make sure that each boy plays. Games will be played on Saturday mornings at one of the locations: Rand Park, Algonquin School, Iroquois School. Teams have one clinic a week in addition to playing games.

This program is offered free of charge. Information on the program can be obtained through each school's physical education instructors.

Also competitive basketball is offered for junior and senior high school age boys who are not on a varsity squad. Every Thursday starting Nov. 9, Maine West "C" Wing gym will be the location for the basketball competition. The times are from 7 to 9 p.m. There is no fee required. Individuals can sign up or groups can register as a team. Participants must live within the boundaries of the Des Plaines Park District.

Rosters must be submitted to the park district office at 748 Pearson St., or to Miley Hotchkiss of Maine West High School no later than Nov. 7.

Questions will be answered at the park district office by calling 296-6106.

St. Zachary's Forms Parent-Teacher Unit

Parents and teachers at St. Zachary's School in Des Plaines met last Thursday to form the school's first parent-teacher organization, the Home School Association.

The group will coordinate fund-raising campaigns, teacher aide programs, and other volunteer work for the school. It will serve a total enrollment of 555 students representing 302 families.

St. Zachary's past principal, Sister Marie, recommended that a parent-teacher group be formed in a farewell meeting with faculty members last June. Several parents decided to set up an organizational meeting this year inviting all the parents and teachers in the school system.

The Home School Association will hold four meetings a year. The acting chairman is Mrs. Isabelle Stucker, 421 Marshall Dr., Des Plaines. Officers will be nominated during the next meeting in January.

Job Opportunities Program Is Slated

Women interested in going back to work will have a chance to assess and review the situation with the help of three employment experts at a job opportunities program sponsored by the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program.

An evening session, the "job clinic" will be held Wednesday, Nov. 1, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room B100, Niles North, 9800 N. Lawler, Skokie. Admission is $2.

Participating in the panel discussion will be Callie Cram, Crown Personnel, Inc., Everett Calloway, Illinois State Employment Service, and Barbara Ross, Kelly Service.

The panelists will set forth some guidelines for reentering the job market and will discuss the skills needed, where the jobs are, current salaries, testing — who does it and why — job counseling and where to look for a job. A question-and-answer period will follow the discussion.

Maine East Library Helpers Appointed

Maine East High School library helpers for the school's learning resource center this year are, from Niles, Debra Baier, Mary Ann Firszt, Sue Forsthoff, Sue Freeman, Carone Giancaspro, Karen Goeschl, Deborah Graff, Holly Hoyt, Judy Jakubowski, Julie Jaster, Susan Kurek, Susan Levinson, Karen Merkel, Sharon Mistic, Dagmar Salamoun, Jan Sherwood, Mary Ann Wisniewski, and Pat Wisniewski.

From Park Ridge, are Mary Agnello, Julie Garesche, Heidi Hawkins, Marilyn Hil, and Donna Meyers.

Percy: War Is Greatest Polluter

by JERRY THOMAS

Calling war the world's greatest polluter, Sen. Charles Percy heralded yesterday's announcement of imminent peace in Vietnam as he spoke to about 250 Harper Junior College students.

The expected peace takes precedence over prepared comments on environmental protection, he added.

Percy, a Republican seeking reelection appeared with Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott; William Ruckelshaus, administrator of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and William Blaser, director of the Illinois EPA. Each later commented on environmental concerns.

But the war in Vietnam was the main issue of interest. Percy, told students he had just received direct word from Washington on his car telephone that agreement to a peace negotiation is within sight.

"PEACE IN Vietnam is weeks away, and the greatest polluter of the world's environment — the Vietnam war — is near an end," said Percy.

Percy challenged charges that Pres. Richard Nixon held back peace until it would becme a politically expedient thing to do. "From first hand evidence, I can say negotiations did not begin this week, this quarter, or this year, but four years ago when the president took office."

"Peace in Vietnam has been the president's steady unceasing work," said Percy.

"I often urged negotiation of peace to the President and I laud Kissinger's role in the negotiations. I again challene anyone that says the President did not want the war ended. President Nixon agreed all along that a negotiated settlement was the only and the best thing."

"ALTHOUGH THE word I hear from Washington says one more meeting should be all that is necessary before signing the agreement, there are several items that must be clarified. Still to be decided is how to develop an international supervisory force to enforce a complete cease fire and new elections in South Vietnam."

Saigon needs and wants to participate in the signing of the agreement, said Percy. He added, "thus far, only Hanoi and the United States are participants."

Percy, and the others then attacked the more traditional aspects of environmental concerns bringing the issue of environmental protection closer to home.

Percy, said he backs Scott, Blaser, and Ruckelshaus "When the automotive industries scream when Scott takes them to court and Blaser and Ruckelshaus go after them, I'll support them."

"THE SENATOR said he also has found government is a big polluter. "But we're working on it," said Percy. "The government is now using recycled products."

Percy said noise pollution must be solved. "At an airport you can wear ear mufflers, but can you issue two million ear mufflers to Chicago residents?" he asked. "Noise pollution is a priority item."

Ruckelshaus said since the EPA was first budgeted four years ago, its efforts, quality of service, and budget are growing. He said "the quality of air and water in Illinois is improving, because of the efforts of state and federal agencies but mostly because of the efforts of the citizenry."

Blaser said Illinois can be proud of its efforts to protect the environment. He said, "641 water samples up and down the state show the quality of water is improving slightly."

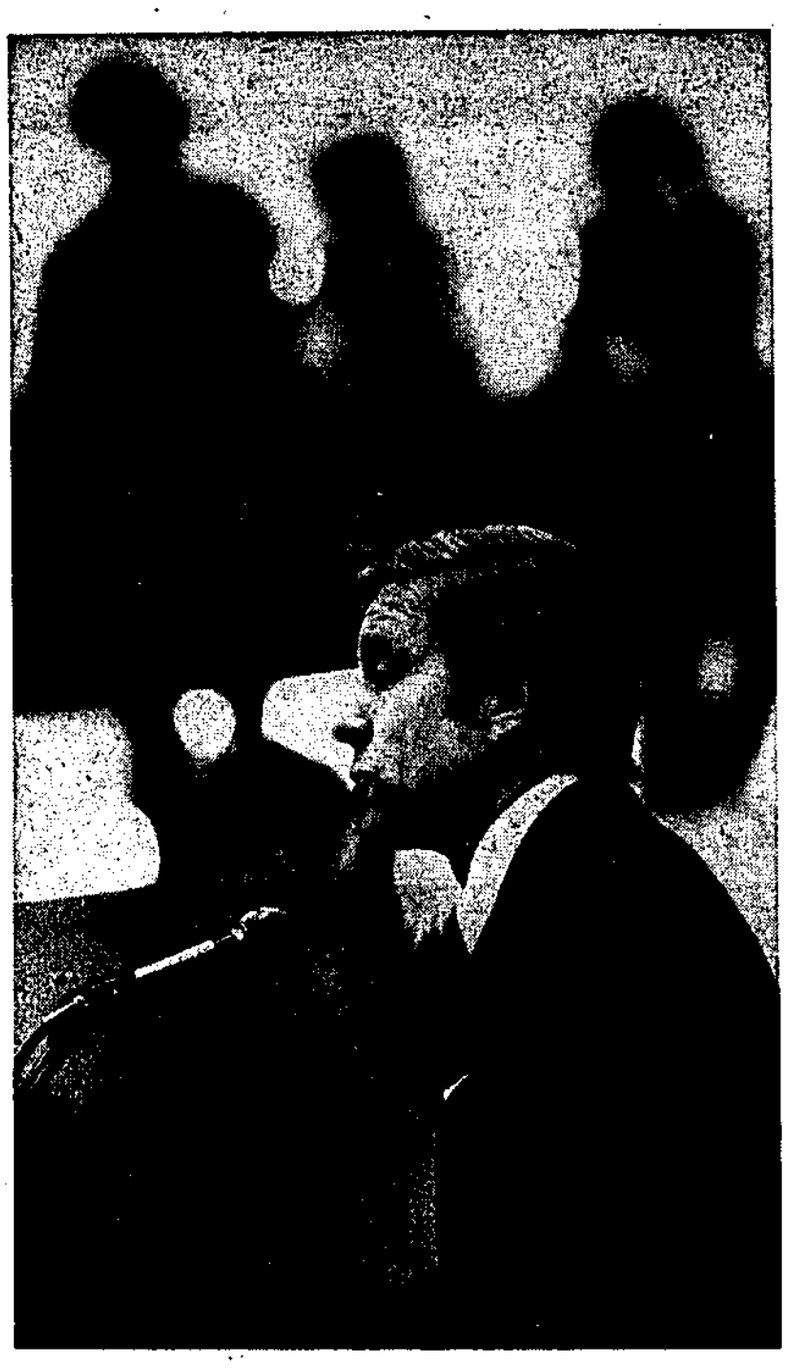

"AIR QUALITY standard tests show a significant improvement," he said. "We did this without closing one factory. Progress can be made without stifling the economy," said Blaser.

Blaser promised that the screams of major industry would not deter his agency's work for a clean environment.

Scott said he spent four years shaping the legal tools to fight pollution. "I've had help from Percy and Gov. Ogilvie, both dedicated to the concern that a legal remedy to right a wrong is the way."

One of Scott's functions as attorney general is to bring suit against polluters. Scott said, "We'll take them to court no matter how big they are."

The four speakers told students their children and future generations will have a decent environment with their support.

POLLUTION AND Vietnam were the major topics of U. S. Sen. Charles Percy as he spoke to a group of students and faculty at Harper College in Palatine yesterday. The senator was accompanied by state and federal environmental heads and Illinois Atty Gen. William J. Scott.

Homecoming Weekend At Elk Grove High

Homecoming started yesterday at Elk Grove High School when five senior girls were presented to the school as candidates for homecoming queen.

Candidates are Elizbeth Bicego, Debra Bishop, Elizabeth Helmos, Kim Miensen and Jayme Nicholas.

Escorts for the queen and her court will be Nick Bavaro, Gary Martin, Jeff Schroeder, Mike Sronkoski, Jeff Stewart and Toni Tringali.

Today at 1:15 p.m. the queen will be crowned. After the coronation some 25 decorated vehicles will assemble at the school for the parade.

The parade will leave from the school, go east on Elk Grove Boulevard to Ridge Avenue, north on Ridge to Laurel Street, west on Laurel to Charing Cross Road, and south on Charing Cross to the school.

The football games will begin at 6 p.m. tonight when the sophomores go against Glenbard North. At 8 p.m. the varsity will play Glenbard North.

The homecoming queen and her court will be presented during the halftime of the varsity game.

After the varsity game, a mixer will be held in the fieldhouse.

Homecoming activities will end with a reception for seniors and alumni, 6-8 p.m. Saturday, in the school gym, followed by the semi-formal homecoming dance, 8-11 p.m.

MSD Endorses Chicago Underflow Plan

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) Board of Trustees yesterday endorsed the Chicago Underflow Plan for construction of tunnels and reservoirs to solve flooding and pollution in areas served by combined sanitary and storm sewers.

The approval came despite opposition from two Republican trustees, Eugene H. Dibble and E. George Thiem, who said the plan would be "a heavy burden" on the taxpayers of Cook County.

The plan calls for a system of tunnels approximately 200 feet below ground and a series of reservoirs to store the overflow from combined sanitary and storm sewers during heavy rains.

One tunnel will be built in the Northwest suburban area to serve Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and possibly Palatine.

THE UNDERFLOW plan calls for keeping sanitary sewage out of streams and the lake, and making it possible for the existing combined sewers to handle peak storms, so sewage will not back up into homes.

It proposes to achieve those ends by a $1.2 billion system of tunnels and storage reservoirs.

The Northwest suburbs' tunnel will run from a basin near the O'Hare water reclamation plant north and west. The water will be stored in the reservoirs until stream levels drop, then be pumped to the O'Hare water reclamation plant for treatment.

Details of the design for the Northwest suburban tunnel are not yet final. MSD officials anticipate the tunnel will be 250 feet below ground and will carry storm water to a 2,700-acre-foot reservoir near O'Hare Airport.

THE NORTHWEST suburban tunnel system will cost $121 million. At this point, MSD officials are unsure whether the tunnel will extend to Palatine or whether flooding problems in that community will be handled by the Salt Creek work plant.

The board voted to begin design engineering on the Northwest surburban tunnel and to modify plans for the O'Hare water reclamation plant so the plant can handle combined sewage from the tunnel system.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosewitz said design changes in the O'Hare plant will enable the district to save $23 million.

Also at yesterday's meeting, the MSD board directed its engineering staff to begin negotiations on an agreement with Des Plaines, Chicago, Rosemont and the State of Illinois about drainage improvements in the Willow-Higgins Creek watershed.

THE MSD Engineers say detention basin and channel improvements are needed because of additional water that will come from the proposed O'Hare water reclamation plant. They also point to the need to reduce flood damage in Des Plaines and Rosemont.

Chicago is involved in the negotiations because a planned expansion of O'Hare Airport will create a need for drainage retention facilities.

The proposal calls for the state department of transportation to fund channel improvement work on the lower portion of Willow Creek at an estimated cost of $1.5 million.

The MSD would acquire sites for detention reservoirs in the upper portions of the watershed and construct the reservoirs for a total cost of $6 million.

CHICAGO ALREADY has agreed to provide land for reservoirs on O'Hare Airport property. Des Plaines and Rosemont would provide rights of way for channel improvement and would maintain these improvements.

Suburban officials heard an explanation for the underflow plan at an MSD-sponsored meeting Wednesday.

They heard endorsements of the proposal from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and from the state director of the Institute for Environmental Quality, who said Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie also favors the plan.

Arlington Heights Village Pres John Woods was one of the few local officials attending the conference who spoke on the proposal.

WOODS CALLED the plan "an exciting development" and said it was important to Arlington Heights. Woods said Arlington Heights officials studied the proposal and found it "very practical, economical, and highly efficient."

He urged the MSD board to approve it.

Other Northwest suburban officials who attended the meeting were Robert Bowen, Des Plaines city engineer; Wendell Jones, Palatine trustee; Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines public works commissioner; George March, chairman of the Mount Prospect drainage and clean streams commission; Frank Palmatier, Arlington Heights trustee; Robert Eppley, Mount Prospect village manager, and L. A. Hanson, Arlington Heights village manager.

Celebration Nov. 3 At Jewish School

The consecration of the Alef Grade of the Maine Township Jewish Congregation Religious School will be celebrated Friday, Nov. 3, at 8:30 p.m. in the Synagogue sanctuary, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines.

Scouting News

The Scouts of Pack 115 have had an active summer, with a pack picnic in June, entering a float and marching in the 4th of July parade, and last but not least the boys had a good trip to Sante Fe Speedway as a bonus before school started.

First pack meeting of the season was held Wednesday, Sept. 20th at 7:30 at Terrace School. Opening the meeting were the boys of Webelos Den 2, who presented the flag. Cubmaster Norm Nanstell led us in a sing-a-long, beginning with "I've Got that Cub Scout Spirit," and ending with "I'd love To Be An Oscar Meyer Wiener."

Graduating into Boy Scouts this month were, Steve Burek, John Berns, Norman Nanstell and Pete Hebbard.

Awards for the evening were then presented. Receiving 2 year pins were John Brennan, Mike Frate, Fred Halper, Greg Kleick and Paul Dombrowski who also received a Gold and Silver Arrow. These same boys will be moving up into a Webelos Den. The Webelos were well represented with John Breider receiving his artist, engineer and outdoorsman, John Berns, engineer, Craig Christensen, Aquanaut engineer and artist, Jim Keenley, artist and engineer and Danny Murphy, citizenship.

Awarded the Arrow of Light and Cub Scout Graduation Certificate was Steve Burek and receiving their one year pins were Doug Powers, Kurt Schneider, Ron Nanstell, Karl Bitter, Todd Neihaus and Mark Carpentier.

FOR SAFER SKIING, Art Christensen, director of instruction for the Grand Prix Ski Club based in the Northwest suburbs, shows club member Lynn VanKampen how to compute ski binding tension with a device called "Release Check." Both the ski club and Gordon Lipe, inventor of the device, will have booths at 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter, which runs through Sunday at Arlington Park.

You Can Even Get Married On Skis . . .

by DAVE MARSHMAN

Skiing is a very sociable sport. In its two years of existence, the Grand Prix Ski Club has seen nearly a dozen marriages among its members.

"When you go skiing, you'll find that everybody is friends," Art Christensen, a founder of the club smiled, citing just one reason why skiing has become one of America's most popular outdoor sports.

But Grand Prix is more than just a social club. Its members are really into skiing.

The main attraction of the club, which meets twice a month at Knight's Pub in Des Plaines, is its program of ski instruction, says Christensen, himself a ski instructor certified by the Central Ski Instructor Association. The price of membership in the club — $20 for singles, $25 for couples — buys the beginner all the instruction needed to ski, and ski well.

For the skittish, let it be said that Christensen and his five co-instructors have taught 80 beginners to ski in two years — with no injuries. Christensen said the instructors are very careful to see that everyone in the club skis properly and safely.

"Anybody who starts skiing without a lesson is sticking his neck out the first time on the hill," Christensen warned. "Skiing is very easy to learn. It's just like driving a car — if you ski properly, you can stop and turn anywhere you want."

CHRISTENSEN CREDITS the club's perfect safety record to his background in mechanical engineering. He said that 70 to 80 per cent of all ski injuries can be attributed to improperly adjusted bindings, something his background has enable him to correct for members.

Besides talking about bindings and safety at nearly every meeting, Grand Prix Ski Club owns a "Release Check," a machine that measures the force it takes to make a binding break loose and allows proper adjustment. Use of the machine is free to members, but Christensen said it would cost three dollars for the same service at a ski shop. The inventor of the machine, Gordon Lipe, will be at this weekend's Expowinter '72 Ski Show at Arlington Park Race Track. The club will have a booth at the show.

Christensen, who lives in Arlington Heights, and Bob Immens, co-founder of the club, will advise members which ski shops to patronize to be assured of safe equipment. Both men have had experience behind ski shop counters.

But the instruction is just as important as safety tips for enjoyable skiing, Christensen said.

"When we take a group out for instruction, we aren't obligated to teach for only an hour, as many commercial instructors are," Christensen said. "We will spend a whole morning with them.

"With the club, you become friends with the instructor, and he stays with you for the whole season," he said. Using club instruction, Christensen said it takes an average of two seasons to become a good skier. He added that a person doesn't have to be a great athlete to ski, but it helps to be coordinated.

THE CLUB doesn't limit its activities to skiing, however. Christensen said Grand Prix goes all year long — ice skating, bicycle riding and, of course, holding social activities. Members range in age from 21 to 55.

The club's primary skiing grounds are at Wilmot in Wisconsin. But the club is also planning trips this year to several mountains in Michigan; Alta, Utah; and Aspen, Colo. Members recieve reduced rates for the trips.

Last year the club's membership was 120, but Christensen said the group wants new members. Their goal is 200 this year. Information may be obtained by calling either Jeff Neroy, 593-6731, or Ernie Cornehl, 882-2178.

Christensen put the club's primary goal this way:

"Our basic thought is to teach people to ski — and to stay in one piece."

Expowinter '72 Comes To Track

People are always looking for bargains. And that makes the ski swap and used ski sale one of the highlights of the 1972 Ski Show/Expowinter that opened last night at Arlington Park Exposition Hall.

Sponsors of the ski sale offer to put any gear up for sale. Just check it with the attendants, and if the gear is sold, a small fee will be charged.

Besides the usual array of booths for ski clubs, equipment, resorts, vacation trips and the like, a host of experts in all phases of the sport will be on hand at the show. Among these will be Gordon Lipe, inventor of a device for adjusting ski releases; Jeff Job, who has appeared in many ski movies; Corky Fowler, member of the Hart Ski Co. demonstration team; Stein Eriksen, one-time Olympic champion; and Willy Bogner Jr., a noted ski photographer.

Several ski magazines also will have booths at the show, featuring films, lectures and demonstrations of equipment, skiwear and tips for better and safer skiing.

A special attraction will be the Ski Circus. Featured will be aerobatics, stunts, ballet and humor — all on skis, of course.

Hours for the show are 4 p.m. to midnight today, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free.

Bowling Classes For Forest View

Assuming bus transportation can be worked out, juniors and seniors at Forest View High School will learn to bowl this fall while their physical education facilities are unusable.

The High School Dist. 214 board of education Wednesday agreed to finance a bowling program to start Nov. 13 at Elk Grove Bowl in Elk Grove Village.

Forest View Principal Larry Jenness explained that the entire program, including bus transportation to the bowling alley three days aweek, will cost no more than $2,000 between Nov. 13 and Christmas.

He said trial runs of the bus will be made this week to make sure the students can be transported to the bowling alley, have 20 minutes of bowling time and be driven back in the time allotted.

THE SCHOOL'S gym and surrounding areas usually used for physical education classes have been unusable since a tornado-like wind damaged the building during the summer.

Jenness said freshmen and sophomores have been studying health in classrooms since the weather turned cold, but added that the older students, who already have studied health, are becoming restless while confined to classrooms. He said a bowling unit would ordinarily be included in P.E. clsses, but would not use real bowling lanes.

Jenness said the program "will enable us to continue a unit that has been a regular part of the P.E. program and I think it would do a great deal to increase the morale of the students at this time."

In related action, the board heard a report from Roger Smith, a representative of Orput-Orput and Associates architectural firm, on progress of the repairs of the building.

Smith said the contractor who is replacing the roof and some of the interior furnishings in the gym has indicated one of the two gym areas will be ready to have a new floor installed by Nov. 6. He said the new gym floor will take about nine weeks to install after that.

The rest of the general repair in the gym area, Smith said, is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year.

Heating Units Need Check

Des Plaines Fire Chief Frank Haag has warned city residents to check their home heating systems now that the cold weather has set in.

In a statement, Haag said faulty heating equipment can lead to fires.

"When home heating systems are pushed in cold weather, any weakness in the equipment or installation may show up. Avoid possible disaster by having your home heating equipment checked and repaired now," said Haag.

Haag also warned if residents are using portable room heaters to make sure they are in good operating condition and not placed in the paths of emergency exist routes. He also said portable heaters should not be located near items that burn easily such as clothes racks, curtains, furniture and bedding.

Tavano To Head Spring Grove Schools

A 29-year-old Arlington Heights man, Frank L. Tavano, has been named superintendent of Elementary School Dist. 21 in Spring Grove.

Tavano, of 106 S. Forrest Ave., was formerly principal of the Dr. Thomas Dooley School in Schaumburg. He will be succeeded there by William Shatkis of Elgin.

As superintendent of Dist. 11, Tavano will direct the construction of a new junior high school and an addition to the district elementary school.

Upon graduation from the university, he will be commissioned an officer in the Navy or Marine Corps.

Greg Spencer, 13, Dies In Tranquility Of The Suburbs

by DOUG RAY

Greg Spencer died Tuesday morning in the quiet surroundings of Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine — a contrast to the way he had lived.

Greg Spencer was only 13 years old but during his short lifetime he saw violence through the eyes of black ghetto youngsters. In a federal housing project with his mother, Mrs. Bobbie Hudson and her three other children, violence was a way of life.

He felt its pain on a warm summer afternoon two years ago. Greg was gunned down, the victim of a stray bullet fired during a gang fight. He was destined a quadriplegic forever, paralyzed from the neck down.

The bullet lodged near his spine. It was surgically removed and he spent months at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

THEN HE CAME to Palatine for rehabilitation where he received more cards, presents and gifts than any patient past or present. People throughout the state were pulling for him.

The nursing home meant new surroundings for Greg. There were flowers there and the smell was antiseptic clean. Outside there was no litter in the streets. The rumble of the nearby Chicago and North Western commuter trains occasionally broke the suburban silence.

But Greg seldom saw beyond the nursing home walls. He lay flat on his back with a respirator to help him breathe. His every breath depended on the electrical helper.

Doctors said Greg could live a productive life, considering his serious handicap. He was working with a bite stick, allowing him to write with his mouth.

GREG HAD VISITORS, his mother once a week, and campaigns to aid him in his recuperation. So many visitors, the nursing home discouraged any more.

Maybe it was because of his smile, his willingness to try to improve. It was all he had left.

GREG SPENCER received a multitude of help. Here, he is with special therapist Helen Van Mater at Plum Grove Nursing Home in Palatine.

After the gunshot wound, nursing home officials knew he would have a shortened life. They weren't sure how long, but his death apparently was a shock.

"A quadraplegic slowly deteriorates," explained a nursing home official yesterday. "He came here, lived here and died here." She would release no further information on how the teenager may have died.

Greg Spencer died in the relative tranquility of the suburbs. Only a few miles from the violent world he called home.

Cheerleading Contest Nov. 11 At Lions Park

The annual Mount Prospect Park District cheerleading contest will be held Nov. 11 at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St., Mount Prospect.

The contest is open to girls in grades four, five and six from schools within the park district. The district is hoping for at least 12 squads to represent each school. Squads may include from four to eight girls.

On the day of competition, each squad will be required to present two cheers, one of which the girls must make up themselves. Individual awards will be presented to the first three places in each of the ghree grades.

Entry forms for the contest are available at the park district office, 411 S. Maple St.

Evangelical Church Dedication Is Dec. 17

The Evangelical Free Church of Des Plaines announced the completion of its first church building at 55 W. Golf Rd.

In anticipation of Dedication Sunday, Dec. 17, church members will join in "Project Neighborhood" on Sunday afternoons Nov. 5 and 12. During this time they will contact approximately 3,000 homeowners, distrubuting material introducing the church, its message, and its minister, the Rev. Roger Sorensen.

The territory included in "Project Neighborhood" extends from Dempster on the south to Lincoln and Northwest Highway on the north, and from Wolf Road on the east to Elmhurst Road on the west. Ray Sheehy of Des Plaines is coordinator for "Project Neighborhood."

himself in a subtle way. He's available, making dozens of appearances, remembering old friends and debts and building new obligations.

Kennedy's appearance yesterday can be called grassroots politics for 1976. He met privately with the school principal and editors of the school paper for a minute in a small office near the gym. The same high schoolers could be politically energetic campaigners, fresh from college, if Kennedy launches a presidential campaign in 1976. They'll remember him then. Women rush to touch his coat now. Strangers sought his autograph in school's carpeted hallways yesterday. Kennedy was always polite, constantly moving and building a base.

Political observers say campaign impact like Kennedy's is unmatched. The power, the organization was evident at Niles.

Flanked by Secret Service agents, and followed by Mikva, Kennedy handshook his way into the high school about 8:30 a.m. He quickly was ushered into a small downstairs room where television cameras and representatives of the Chicago news media battled to ask questions.

VIETNAM was the issue. The senator repeated his call for a war settlement as the Secret Service blocked the door and attempted to keep peace in the narrow hallway.

After 10 minutes in the basement, the campaign wagon roared into the gym. Before rolling cameras and roaring students, Mikva introduced the waving senator as "the best touch football player in the Senate."

Kennedy crossed the goal line with the Niles crowd yesterday.

Treaty Would Give NixonAdvantage, Says Kennedy

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

A preelection Vietnam peace treaty will give President Richard Nixon a "short-run advantage," Sen. Edward Kennedy said in Niles yesterday.

At a short press conference before a campaign speech boosting the 10th Congressional District campaign of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, Kennedy said he is "hopeful ... prayerful" that peace will be reached in Vietnam.

"The impact of such an end ... the return of American prisoners would be a benefit to the current administration," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

Kennedy warned that "parents who have lost 22,000 sons in Vietnam ... will wonder what factors exist today that didn't exist in January, 1969. It hasn't changed that much."

SEN. GEORGE McGovern, Democratic presidential candidate, was credited with "playing a great role" in bringing the United States to a peace settlement by Kennedy.

"Why has it taken three years, 11 months and three weeks?" he asked. "When the president went to the people in 1968, he said he had a plan to end the war. He didn't say the plan was contingent on (South Vietnam President Nguyen Van) Thieu. I don't think America's foreign policy should be dependent on Thieu.

"Mr. Thieu has affected an absolute veto on American foreign policy in Vietnam," he said. "That has been the fundamental failure of America.

"All of us want this war to end," he said, calling Thieu "unacceptable."

KENNEDY BEGAN his Illinois campaign swing by greeting commuters at north suburban transit terminals. He had breakfast with Mikva before his 8:30 a.m. speech at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

The senator later appeared at O'Hare Airport with Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dan Walker.

Kennedy's speech before the high school students praised Mikva, urged youth political participation and criticized Nixon foreign policy.

"I don't know of any genuine interest and concern about what is happening in Latin America," he said, groping for words to describe genocide in Bangladesh and problems of minority groups through the world.

"WE'VE HAD FOUR years of rising prices and soaring unemployment and we can't afford four more," he said, urging election of Mikva and McGovern.

"Wherever I travel this year, I find that Americans are fed up — fed up with war, fed up with prices that won't stop rising, fed up with jobs that can't be found, fed up with tax loopholes that can't be closed, fed up with streets that can't be safe, fed up with lakes that can't be cleaned; above all, fed up with government that can't perform."

"Let's have four years of peace and prosperity. Let's have four years of hope and reconciliation," Kennedy said.

Edward Cox Visits Area; Quiet Day Ends With Blast

Edward Cox quietly visited Republican Sam Young's campaign headquarters in Skokie yesterday. His day exploded after that.

The President's son-in-law was the target of catcalls and paper airplanes during a visit with Young at New Trier West High School Thursday morning. And, a second stop at Lane Tech High School in Chicago was followed 15 minutes after he left by an explosion of a black powder bomb that forced closing of the school. No one was injured.

"When you're working for Mr. Young, you're working for President Nixon," Cox told Young campaign workers. Young is the Republican Congressional candidate in the 10th District.

"The President needs Mr. Young in Congress to support his policies," Cox said during his brief headquarters visit.

Cox spent Thursday traveling the state, stopping in Chicago, Decatur, Champaign and Normal, to support Republican candidates.

"The President hasn't had the cooperation of Congress," he said, accusing legislators of "partisan politics . . . not working in the public interst."

COX AND YOUNG, a Glenview attorney who is running against Democratic Rep. Abner Mikva, appeared at 10:30 a.m. yesterday at New Trier West High School in Northfield.

As the packed auditorium crowd tossed paper airplanes, hissed and booed, Cox called on the high schoolers to continue political involvement after the election by working against pollution.

EDWARD COX

Cox called American government "the most open system in the world."

After brief comments, Cox asked for questions. "Why doesn't the President debate?" a student asked. Cox answered that the statements of the President are regarded as policy and said, "It's better for the President to stand on his record."

Cox told the students that Nixon is attempting to end the war through negotiations and Vietnamization while assuring the release of war prisoners.

Marine Basic Grad

Marine Pvt. Paul E. Helfers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Helfers Jr. of 313 Graceland Ave., Des Plaines, has graduated frm basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego. He is a 1972 graduate of Maine West High School.

Maine East Student Wins Scholarship

Maine East High School junior Jeff Grabelle of Park Ridge is the 1972 recipient of the Mel Tierney American Legion Post 247 music scholarship and the first recipient from Maine East.

Grabelle, a student of Mrs. Janice Small, plays the cello in the Maine East orchestra and is a member of Modern Music Masters.

He has performed as a soloist in the Maine East solo and ensemble festival as well as with the Northwest Symphony Orchestra, the Harper College orchestra, and the Northwest Choral Society Chamber Orchestra. In addition, he has also performed as a bassoon soloist with the Camp Augustana orchestra.

The active junior also is a member of Sigma Chi Sigma, the Maine East reading society, and Mu Alpha Theta, a national honorary mathematics society.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC BAND playing the National Anthem reminded Sen. Edward Kennedy yesterday in Niles of similar visits by his brother John in 1960. "It was the band from Notre Dame high school right here in Niles that met him at the airport and gave him one of the greatest receptions he ever had," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

"DEVELOP INTO A pressure group," Sen. Edward Kennedy urged students at Notre Dame High School in Niles yesterday. "The greatest challenge is before us . . . be involved," he said, urging election of U. S. Rep. Abner Mikva.

All Agree: We're Glad It's Over

Many Skeptical About Cease Fire

For the people in the street and for suburban representatives in Washington the reaction was the same: "We're glad it looks like it's over."

Immediate suburban reaction to yesterday's blockbuster announcement that a cease fire agreement in Vietnam could be reached in a matter of weeks was greeted almost universally as glad tidings, although many persons — both public and private — saw political motives behind the timing of the announcement.

Herald spot surveys yesterday afternoon at Randhurst and Woodfield showed that only half of the 40 people interviewed had not yet heard about the promise of a cease fire. But when informed of the announcement and asked if they thought it was politically timed, they answered yes by a margin of three to one.

Area congressmen reaching for a reaction responded with similar guarded optimism.

CONGRESSMAN Philip Crane (R-13th) told the Herald yesterday he was "guardedly hopeful" about the news and said he thought the Hanoi decision to sign a cease fire came as the result of "our bombing which has an impact, Hanoi's ability to read the polls in the Presidential race and the concessions which may be granted the North Vietnamese."

Crane said he thought some of the preliminary agreements with the North Vietnamese were "perfectly reasonable and just," but said some matters, such as the removal of all North Vietnamese forces from all foreign soil in Indochina should be required, too.

The Congressman said he thought Congress would take a "long hard look" at any agreement to give aid to North Vietnam along the lines of the post World War II Marshall Plan. Crane added he saw no way Congress would be called upon to formally agree to the cease fire, since this was not a war declared by Congress.

But with technicalities aside, suburban reaction to the news was strongly favorable:

— MRS. PAT Pappas of Mount Prospect said "I think that it is great. I hope they pull it through. At first I thought it was political but I still feel Nixon is for peace.

— Bob Alcaro of Elk Grove Village: "Kissinger has done a heck of a job.

"I'm thrilled to hear about it. I disagree that we should now go in and help North and South Vietnam. If we pull out let's pull out economically, too. I don't think it's politically motivated, too many people have been working on it for too long."

— Mrs. Doris Lehman and Mrs. Lenore Tarchala, both of Arlington Heights: "We saw him (Kissinger) on television. We are overjoyed. It is the end of the war. They have been working on this for years, it just doesn't have anything to do with the election."

— SHARON BALBOA, Des Plaines: "I'm for it. I don't think it was politically motivated. I'm for Nixon all the way."

— Jean Kaladycz, Arlington Heights: "I'm glad to hear about it even though it was politically motivated. It will probably help Nixon (in the election)."

— Mrs. Carol Cannon, Mount Prospect: "It seems to be politically motivated but I hate to think that. I'm in favor of ending the war. I don't think anyone is for war."

There were also skeptics who saw the action as a purely political move:

— BARBARA MENTA, Schaumburg: "This is just a gimmick and perfect timing on their part."

— Marilyn Hallihan, Mount Prospect: "Yes it was politically motivated and par for the course. It (Vietnam) is such a botched up affair, it could have been ended a long time ago if they had cut off funds."

— Sam Payson, Hoffman Estates: "I don't believe it. It is politically motivated. Even if they do have something it will be temporary and the war will start right over again."

— Mrs. Duane Quaranta, Palatine: "I've got to see it to believe it."

— Joseph Mag, Mount Prospect: "I'm 100 per cent for it, but it should have been done a long time ago and I think Nixon could have done it sooner."

ALSO REACTING to the announcement was Ed Frank of Hoffman Estates, congressional candidate for the 12th District and opponent of Crane in November's election. Frank said "I feel we've lost 20,000 young men needlessly and something could have been done to end the war a long time ago. Congress probably will have no voice in the arrangements — this has been a president's war all along."

And Congressman Harold Collier, (R-10th) had this reaction: "I, like about everybody else, can think of nothing that would be more welcome to the people of this country than our final extrication from the quagmire of Southeast Asia."

Collier said the North Vietnamese were offered the same agreement last January and wondered "why they agreed to this now at this particular time."

U. S. REP. ABNER MIKVA, seeking election in the new 10th Congressional District, gained campaign support from Notre Dame High School students and Sen. Edward Kennedy in Niles yesterday. Mikva told the packed auditorium that "it's time we take stock of ourselves."

Burglars Take Tools From Davy Tree Firm

Tools, valued at more than $1,183, were stolen recently from the Davy Tree Expert Co., 1904 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Police believe the burglary took place over the weekend. Burglars entered the company's yard area and broke into the tool boxes on numerous trucks.

Among the tools known to have been taken were two electric drills, three heavy duty cords, three ropes, three speed saws and three saddles. Police said that other tools were strewn all around the lot and under the parked trucks.

Star Time

West's Wetendorf, East's Wolff Rank With Best

by MIKE KLEIN

Jim Morel, one-time Purdue University flanker when Bob Griese was a kid quarterback, has taken enough hard knocks to know a good defenseman when he sees one.

And Morel, who's done wonders with once pathetic Maine West, thinks he's coaching one of the best in linebacker Rich Wetendorf.

"We're going to try pushing Rich for All-State if we can get some help," Morel said.

Wetendorf has been the glue behind a Warrior defense that's allowed just 16 points in three Central Suburban League South Division games.

Operating at middle linebacker, the 6-2, 218-pounder averages 13 solo tackles and nine assists per game. His top effort this season was 17 solos and eight assists against Waukegan.

Last weekend, Niles West tried running up the gut against Wetendorf who works double duty at left offensive tackle. But when that didn't work, the Indians swept right, ran 53 yards for a touchdown and won, 7-0.

"They tried to double team Rich with the tackle and guard but just didn't have any success," said Morel. "He shut them off up the middle all night long."

Wetendorf's just one of three or four Warriors that Morel says should gain post-season recognition.

"I'd like to see a lot of our kids on the All-Conference team but realistically, Wetendorf, Dave Rumzis and Chris Bouchee are deserving kids," Morel said.

Morel calls Rumzis "the best offensive tackle in the league, at least in our division."

And in Bouchee, here's a kid who's done everything except throw a pass. Literally everything.

Bouchee returns kickoffs and punts, he's run the end around reverse twice for 25 yards, caught 11 passes for 161 yards, handled all Maine West's punting chores and played a virtually flawless defensive safety.

"At split end or safety, he's as good as any player in the league," Morel claimed. Bouchee's intercepted two passes and knocked nine others astray. He hasn't been burned for a touchdown all year.

Morel also talks proudly of defensive tackle Tom Wilming, another 218-pounder. "He's sacked the quarterback 16 times in six games and we've got to think that's pretty good."

Stopping these characters and Maine West's other Warriors becomes the immediate problem of Deerfield coach Paul Adams at 8 p.m. Friday, West's final home game.

"They're an outstanding football team, big and strong, very well coached and frankly, I don't see how we can beat them," Adams said.

"But, we're going to try everything."

It will be Adams, not Morel, who brings a first place CSL South record into Friday night's game.

Niles West, at 3-0, knocked Maine West into second place and a 2-1 CSL South mark with last week's 7-6 win. Meanwhile, Deerfield swamped pitiful Niles East, 36-0, for an unblemished league slate.

But Maine West hasn't lost sight of division or league titles yet. Although, granted, their vision became slightly blurred after last Friday night's loss.

Now 3-3 overall, West needs outside help for a successful conquest of the South Division. And that's a position few coaches desire.

Maine's Warriors can still top their division should the following results occur. Niles West must lose to Maine South this weekend and Deerfield to close the regular season.

Morel's ballclub needs wins over Deerfield and then hapless Niles North on the road in the season finale.

That would provide Deerfield and Maine West with identical 4-1 CSL South records while current co-leader Niles would fade away at 3-2.

Maine West gets the championship that way by virtue of its victory over Deerfield.

Strong offensive line efforts have trademarked Warrior victories over Waukegan, Niles East and Maine South. But in defeat, they've performed with less than total efficiency.

And after Niles West escaped with a victory last Friday night, Morel said he was initially disappointed with offensive line play, pending a good look at films.

"We did some good things until real crucial situations, then suffered some breakdowns," he said early Wednesday morning. "We missed two assignments on crucial downs.

"On fourth and two at their 14, they tackled Bruce (Terry) because we missed an assignment, the linebacker blitzed and forced Bruce to throw early.

"Then we had it happen again at the other end of the field," Morel said. "On a little reverse, Bruce was tackled before he could even hand the ball off."

Terry's incomplete fourth quarter pass inside the Niles 15 was the closest Maine came to tying or passing the Indians.

He had rolled right on a quarterback sweep seeking two yards and a first down. But his interference broke up, forcing Terry into a desperation busted play pass.

Hit by defensive end Richard Machalinski, Terry dropped an incomplete pass in between John O'Connor at the five and Bouchee, all alone in Nies' endzone.

Still, Morel remains confident that he'll receive consistent execution from West's offensive line. "They have a lot of pride in what they've accomplished," Morel said. "They'll come back and prove what they can do."

And if they do it well enough, Maine West could win the CSL South. With a little help from their friends.

St. John Continues To Impress

CARBONDALE — Maine West graduate John St. John was at the head of the pack in Monday's Southern Illinois University Cross Country victory over the Harriers of Kansas University at the Midland Hills Golf Club in Carbondale.

The 22-33 SIU win was highlighted by St. John's 27:25.5 time; only 1:02 behind Dave Hill's course record of 26:23.5. The win brings SIU's record to a glamorous 6-0 in dual meet competition.

St. John, now a sophomore at SIU, lettered two years in both cross country and track at Maine West. Lew Hartzog, SIU's head track coach notes: "John is the hardest working athlete Southern has seen in a long time. His enthusiasm and desire to better achieve his goals was one of the big factors we looked at when he was being recruited for our team."

St. John keeps a very strict self discipline level and runs anywhere from 15 to 20 miles a day. He has marked paths around the University area that he switches now and then depending on the type of weather.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman St. John of Des Plaines, Ill.

Must Stop Spartan Star Marquardt

Demons To Travel With 2nd Place In Mind

by MIKE KLEIN

When Al Eck folds the uniforms, wipes mud from helmets and then packs it all away in moth balls, he might stop for a moment when coming across old jersey 24 and new jersey 22.

For during this resurgent season, one or the other has been worn by John Wolff — the runningest reckless halfback to call himself a Blue Demon in quite some time.

Wolff's legs have carried Maine East through a season that lacking six points, could read four wins and two losses instead of 2-3-1.

With two games left, beginning Friday night at Glenbrook North, Eck's Demons will saunter into the world of put up or shut up football.

Because two wins could catapult Maine East into second place in the Central Suburban North.

A position they deserve after tussling state ranked New Trier West to a 17-12 defeat, the biggest scare Bob Naughton's Cowboys have endured to date.

But should East flounder twice, finally against Glenbrook South, it'll probably be fifth place. And a long winter.

Be assured, wherever these Demons are going, hopefully up, they'll got there behind John Wolff.

It's been a remarkable year for this young man who like his teammates, possessed an amoeba reputation seven weeks ago.

He was merely one starting halfback for a beleaguered team that in desperation, flunked out of the West Suburban and passed entrance requirements into the Central Suburban.

Three conference and three non-league games later, Wolff has the inside track on one spot in the All-Central suburban backfield.

He's scored 42 points on six touchdowns and three two-point conversions, providing a 10-point spread over New Trier West's Richie Sherman.

In their head-to-head match last Saturday, Wolff carried 25 times for 125 yards, scored on touchdown runs of 37 and 22 yards, caught two passes and played on the kick specialty teams.

Sherman ran 13 times for an unspectacular 49 yards, didn't score any touchdowns and received a ditto mark on passes caught.

But it was Sherman who received Chicago Today's Back-of-the-Week award. Figure that one out. If you can.

More remarkable news about John Wolff. With hard running efforts his final two games, Wolff can surpass 180 points scored and 1,000 yards rushing.

Real workhorse totals for any competitor in any league. And a workhorse he is, preferring knock 'em over running rather than fancy-Dan, pussyfoot tactics.

Wolff will take 634 yards rushing and 70 points scored into Friday's 7 p.m. game with the GBN Spartans who lay claim to third in the CSL North, one spot ahead of East.

It's more likely he'd get 30 points before 366 yards. But should Eck choose to boost Wolff's average number of carries from the present 20 to around 30, he just might surpass the Tenth Century mark.

Wolff's had some fine days for the 1972 Demons. He rushed 154 yards against Morton East, scored 28 points as East swept Maine North, then capped it all with last weekend's fine performance opposite New Trier West.

All by himself, Wolff picked up just two yards less than an entire Maine West team could muster against New Trier. And Maine West is a good football team.

Apparently, Wolff's efforts will be rewarded with a shot at college football. Eck said the University of Illinois has already inquired. He expects to hear more later.

"They don't shake the bushes loose on this recruiting stuff too much until after the season," Eck said. "They'll send a questionnaire and then wait on it."

With Wolff leading the way, Eck believes he can overhaul the two Glenbrooks and end with a 4-3-1 season record, 3-2 in the CSL North.

"I haven't seen South too much except in their opening game but I've seen North three times and I think we can stay with them," Eck said. "If we can hold down their little halfback, Mike Marquardt, we could be alright Friday night."

At season's beginning, Glenbrook North was rated No. 2 in the division behind New Trier West. And the Spartans were still thinking divisional title until New Trier dismissed those thoughts, 31-14.

As such, the Spartans are now third in the CSL South, just behind Glenbrook South.

Early scoring has been a Spartan characteristic. They pushed across a touchdown and conversion in the first quarter last weekend, then staved off Highland Park's second half comeback attempts for an 8-0 Mud Bowl win.

"Every game I've seen, Glenbrook North has scored early, then not too much in the second half," Eck said. "Of course, our defense hasn't really gotten going until the second half so that could make things interesting."

So could East's still despicable kicking defense. Shoddy kickoff and punt tackling has plagued the Demons in all three defeats. A horrible statistic!

Highland Park beat Maine with a 60-yard punt return; Niles East returned a kickoff to the 12-yard line and scored on the next play. Then last week, New Trier returned the opening kick 83 yards for a touchdown!

"We even put Wolff in there at a safety last week," Eck said. "By the time they got to him, it was just the kid and his blocker. We never really recovered from that even though we outplayed them in the second half."

Such mistakes will not be permissible if the Demons are to salvage a truly fine season.

It amounts to this for Maine East: Faultless football against the two Glenbrooks. . .

And John Wolff enjoying his greatest games of a real fine personal season.

Power-Packed Field Runs Saturday In Sectional Cross Country Event

by LARRY EVERHART
Cross Country Editor

"If you added La Grange, York and Riverside-Brookfield, you'd have the state meet."

This appraisal, coming from Fremd coach Ron Menely, pretty well tells just how tough competition will be at the Barrington sectional cross country meet tomorrow morning at 11:00 at Thunderbird Country Club. That site is on Northwest Highway east of Barrington.

Fornine Herald area teams seven from the powerful Mid-Suburban League plus Maine East and Maine West) and two other independent runners from Elk Grove, it will be the most important moment of the season. Only the state final carries more significance and there is no state final for those who don't make it through the survival of the fittest tomorrow.

As Menely put it, "At this point you can throw out every other meet of the year. The past means nothing. It's a whole new ballgame.

"This is the state series. This is where tradition and background mean so much. Now, guys are running for the kids before them who have built that tradition. There's no more running relaxed. You perform or get out."

Unfortunately, the Barrington field is so packed with top teams and individuals that some people will have to "get out" who will be deserving of making the state meet. It's the same problem as in other years — talent is top-heavy in this part of the state; better than anywhere else.

But unfortunately, because of geographical limitations, the same rules must apply to the Barrington Sectional as anywhere else. Just the top three teams and top 10 runners go downstate. That's a shame because it's quite likely that seven of the best 10 teams in the state will be at Thunderbird.

Besides the two Maines and Mid-Suburban League entries Fremd, Palatine, Arlington, Hersey, Conant, Wheeling and Schaumburg, two other strong squads — Evanston and Deerfield — will also be in on the showdown.

Team favorites, logically, would be two district winners, Fremd (at Crystal Lake) and Maine East (at Elk Grove). However, as Menely said, you can't go by past performances in a meet like this. Besides, at Elk Grove, there were three teams close behind Maine East, all within four points of one another — Arlington, Hersey and Evanston.

Individually, the top harriers — in who knows what order — figure to be Arnie Jackson of Schaumburg, Bill Santino of Crystal Lake, Brian Powell of Elk Grove, Dean Erhart of Deerfield, John Enright of Crystal Lake, Gary Marshak of Maine East and Chip Barbour of Maine West.

Jackson has probably the top credentials of them all, though Santino is not far behind. The Crystal Lake flash was the first runner this year in any meet to outrun Arnie on his own hilly course in the district. As Jackson's coach, Denny Garber, said: "He's never done real well on this course. He isn't used to steep hills. Last year he was third in the district but 24th in the sectional here (at Crystal Lake). He was not as confident as usual and is disappointed, but he's not going to roll over and die."

Powell, too, is a boy to watch after his somewhat surprising district victory. He recorded a tremendous 14:36 time on a new course a little less than three miles long (how much less is not certain).

Erhart is the kingpin of the Central Suburban League and won the Libertyville District with 14:25 for 2.75 miles. Santino's winning time was 15:38 over three miles of possibly the most rugged harrier terrain in the state.

What makes the race most interesting and unpredictable is that none of these top-rated individuals are on favored teams. The hopes of Maine East and Fremd — and of whoever finishes third, perhaps Hersey or Arlington — rest on close packing, the telltale factor in this big a meet.

Menely is just hoping to have his top man (Jamie Olson, fourth in the district) place seventh or eighth — but have four others trailing closely behind. Maine East has the same kind of plan, trying to have its runners as close as possible to Marshak. In the district the Demons had Pat Moyer fifth and Lloyd Spitzer sixth.

Demon coach John Coughlan says in regard to strategy for Marshak: "If a runner is good enough to go for individual honors, I'd hate to slow him down by running him in a pack. We always give our No. 1 guy the preference to run his own race. We can thank God for this; we've always had at least a couple of good runners at Maine East.

"Everyone else has a prescribed pace and then he tries to hit that pace. The district was not the best race of our lives, but it was a real good step in the right direction.

"We're dying to win the sectional but we know it will be a super close meet. It'll be awful hard for anyone to make a prediction on who's going to win."

Menely was "very happy" with Fremd's showing in the district. "We really bounced back (after losing the conference meet to Hersey), especially Olson. Our five-man spread was 23 seconds and that's very good on a hilly course like that.

"The hills at Barrington are long and rolling, not steep like Crystal Lake. We'd like to put five in the top 20 or 25. If we run our race, we'll make the top three teams."

Both Palatine and Fremd have been hurt by injuries to key runners. The Pirates' top man at the start of the season, Steve Peterson, has been bothered for some time with hip trouble and the Vikings' captain, Steve Inbody, has strained ligaments in a foot arch.

Jim Wise of Forest View, one of the leading area runners all season, will not be in the alignment Saturday because there was a scheduling mixup that prevented the Falcon harrier team from running in Tuesday's district competition.

Others leading their teams in the various districts were Arlington's Neil Haseman (fourth), Hersey's John Jones (eighth), Palatine's Scott Williams and Paul Kearns (fifth and sixth), and Wheeling's Bruce Messinger (ninth).

by MIKE KLEIN

It's just real tough to get excited about Maine North's Saturday afternoon jaunt up Highland Park way.

These are the football mice of the Central Suburban League North Division.

Between them, they've won twice in 12 games. Highland Park, winless the past two weekends, owns both victories.

The Maine Norsemen haven't found their way onto anybody's scoreboard during three North Division games.

John Scornavacco at Highland Park talks about being just 16 points away from a 5-1 record, losing two games by one touchdown, another by a point. But they're still losses.

At best, both have been consistently bad. The Norsemen have been outscored 188-14; Highland Park's figures are 106-68.

All of which makes the following coaching philosophy creditable:

"We should score this weekend," said Maine's Lou Gartner. "Highland Park's been beaten by everyone that beat us so I would say if we're going to win one, it's this week."

Almost true. Glenbrook South defeated both schools. But Highland Park snuck past Maine East, 12-8. The Blue Demons strangled North, 30-0.

If they achieve little else during this mortifying season, the Norsemen must rank as one of the all-time banged-up ballclubs.

Way back when there was a sun, the Norsemen began this season with 35 strapping football players. Two quit, seven others were injured beyond immediate repair and four more have watched between two and five games while something was on the mend.

The medical report includes broken bones, torn hamstrings, shoulder separations, hip pointers and other lesser or greater hazards.

It brings back memories of Gartner's Good Old Days at Iowa State.

"When I played in college, I was on a team they called the Dirty Thirty," Gartner said. "We started the season with 55 and had 30 left for the first game."

The Cyclones also had 30 left for the last game, finished 8-3 and sent six players into the pros, including All-Pro guard Larry Walton of Detroit's Lions.

The Norsemen will enjoy no such glamour. Only 23 kids will don uniforms this weekend. No more healthy bodies are imminently available.

But a great many of those 23 will return to Gartner's 1973 Norsemen. That includes the starting backfield of quarterback Dave Helton, fullback Rob Andropolis plus halfbacks Mike Schumacher and Tom Leonard.

So perhaps there is some reason to smile, despite this fall's 0-6 record.

The current season has been a nailbiter for Scornavacco's Little Giants. They were 1-1 and apparently headed for the sunset after escaping with a 12-8 win at Maine East.

But just one victory has snuck in between three losses for the fading Little Giants.

"The only ballgame we didn't play too well was against Glenbrook South, a 21-14 loss," Scornavacco said. "And in the fourth quarter, we were moving pretty well and challenging for another touchdown before fouling up."

"Then last week, Glenbrook North beat us 8-0 in the rain. It was in the first quarter that they scored," Scornavacco said, "and after that, we held them back.

"When I looked at the films, it was the little mistakes that killed us. Glenbrook North plays fairly respectable football, but we should have won."

Highland Park opened the 1972 season with a 15-14 loss to Deerfield. After defeating Maine East, they were sent into a tailspin by Evanston, 34-0.

A 28-20 victory over still winless and pathetic Niles East followed before the tailspin continued. Their most recent efforts are losses to both Glenbrooks.

"We're not making any excuses," Scornavacco said. "We've got two games left and the kids have done a pretty good job. Little mistakes have killed us."

Should Maine North tumble again, it cannot rise from the CSL dungeon before season's end.

But a Norseman victory will raise Maine into a fifth place tie with Highland Park. Still last.

Incidentally, the War Between Mice begins at 2 p.m. Saturday.

THE MIRROR REFLECTS the hairstyling technique of Mike Zizzo, owner of Gentlemen's Choice. Ken Angelino, a barber at Zizzo's Woodfield Mall shop, gets a combing from his boss. At 24, Zizzo owns several barbershops plus a cosmetic company. Future plans include another barber shop.

Mike Zizzo Is A Guy Who Beat The Odds

by MARILYN HEISER

Mike Zizzo is a guy who beat the odds.

At 24, Zizzo owns three hair styling shops, Gentleman's Choice at Woodfield Mall, one recently acquired at Arlington Park Towers, and one at O'Hare Inn. He soon will open his fourth at O'Hare International Towers.

This in itself is unusual for such a young man, but Zizzo did not learn his business acumen in college, or under the tutelage of a relative.

As a high school dropout, with a teenage goal of owning one barbershop, Zizzo outdid his own dream. "I never thought I'd own more than one," he said.

In addition to his shops, Zizzo owns the Naturale Co., which manufactures a men's shampoo and hair conditioner. The products use a formula he developed with a chemist.

ZIZZO BROUGHT out the Naturale products a month ago, after a year of planning. He is now negotiating with barber supply companies to distribute his products to other shops. Developing a complete line of men's products, hair spray, after shave cologne, is part of his future plans.

Retail outlets are definitely also an interest. "But they are hard to crack," Zizzo said.

There seems little doubt that Zizzo will pull it off. At 17 he entered barbering school, with a short stretch in the Marine Reserves interrupting his plans.

With barbering license in hand, the 19-year-old Zizzo worked in hair styling shops in the Loop and on Sheridan Road. By the time he was all of 20, he bought a women's cosmetic distributorship with Holiday Magic Co.

Aside from the fact that a minor cannot legally buy a distributorship, Zizzo soon discovered the pyramid marketing concepts of Holiday Magic, and filed suit against the company.

The attorney general's office followed Zizzo's lead and also brought suit against the cosmetic firm. The case is now going to court, and Zizzo hopes to collect damages from the company for its allegedly illegal practices.

WHILE THE LEGAL case was hanging, Zizzo at 21 bought into the barber shop at the Marriott Hotel. With partners Zizzo opened the three other shops. Aug. 1 he bought out his partners, giving up his interest in the Marriott business.

Gentleman's Choice, with its yellow leather chairs, dark carpeting on the walls, gold-framed mirrors, paneled dividers providing privacy for each chair, is as unusual as its owner.

It casts the cigar-chomping, smoke-filled-striped-polo neighborhood barbershop as an old-time set on a movie lot.

Its $8 hair stylings are for men, Zizzo said, who care to look better than the ordinary.

Zizzo attributes his success to his "naturale" hair cutting technique. "We cut hair after it's shampooed, with a shears, never a razor. We cut the hair shorter, getting it to lay smoothly with an arch, rather than long and flattening it down."

It's an easy-care styling technique, Zizzo said, which causes the hair to fall into place almost by itself. Unlike razor cuts which diagonally slice the end of the hair shaft, the blunt cut does not damage the hair and make it brittle.

ZIZZO, WHO developed the technique, said he holds hair styling seminars with his staff to discuss the new methods.

"You don't learn this in barbering school. Training really starts after school."

A customer in the shop spoke up in support of Zizzo's styling techniques. "I drive in from Lake Shore Drive to Gentleman's Choice. It's the only place I've gone to where they consistently make me happy with my haircut."

Consistency, Zizzo, agrees, is the big selling point of his shop. "We use a set cutting technique, and we gauge the cut by the amount of time that has elapsed since the last hair cut."

Barbering is a full-time occupation for Zizzo. "It keeps me pretty busy."

Gentleman's Choice is open every day but Monday and Sunday, and until the new shop opens at O'Hare International Towers, Zizzo will work there full-time.

Thomas Smitko Joins Central Telephone Co.

Thomas Smitko recently joined Central Telephone Co. of Illinois as an assistant training supervisor. He will be responsible for the firm's management training program.

Smitko attended Mendel High School in Chicago, received a Bachelor of Science degree from St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., and a Master of Arts degree from Aquinas Institute in Dubuque, Iowa.

Prior to joining Centel, Smitko was employed as personnel training supervisor for ITT Harper, Inc., and before that he was an Instructor of Management Development for Midwest Industrial Manufacturing Association.

Smitko spent two years as a Catholic volunteer working in Bolivia, South America. He presently serves on the advisory committee of Oakton Community College. Smitko, his wife and two children reside in Wheeling.

YOUNG PUMPKIN-CARVER'S have found it more difficult to select quality objects for their artwork this year because of a poor summer growing season. Rain, which ruined everything else, also took its toll of pumpkins, making a beautiful specimen like this one more valuable because of its rarity.

72 Coeds Seek Junior Miss Scholarships

Seventy-two high school coeds will vie for two top scholarship awards of $500 each in the 1972-73 Junior Miss Pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications.

Senior coeds having "B" averages or better and who are currently residing within the circulation area of Paddock Publications, were eligible to enter.

Finalists for the local pageant will be selected Sunday following interviews with the judges at Rolling Meadows High School. Interviews begin at 1 p.m.

The high school represented by the most contestants, 15, is Elk Grove. Eleven seniors are entered from Prospect High School. Other schools with students entered in the pageant are Arlington, 8; Forest View, 7; Fremd, 4; Hersey, 8; Maine East, 3 Maine West, 8; Palatine, 2; Rolling Meadows, 4; Schaumburg, 3; and Wheeling, 2.

The local Junior Miss Pageant has produced five Illinois state title holders in the past seven years.

Not only a beauty pageant, junior Misses are selected on the criteria of scholarship, poise, fitness and talent.

THE 12 JUDGES chosen for this year's pageant include Wilfred Wolf Jr., cashier at Northwest Trust and Savings Bank in Arlington Heights; Pat Piper, treasurer, State Junior Woman's Clubs, and Mount Prospect Community Action Plan board member; and Mrs. David Krause, an attorney from Mount Prospect.

Also, Mike Silverman, a member of the board of directors of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce; Tom Lovell, secretary of the Arlington Heights Rotary Club; Kathy Benysh, Paddock and Illinois' Junior Miss of 1969; Bruce Dodds, auditor at the First Arlington Natinal Bank; and June Rold, a teacher of dance in Des Plaines.

Also, Lt. James Roel of the Des Plaines Police Department and past president of the Optimist Club; Nicholas B. Christoff, youth pastor at St. Mark Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect; and the hospital planning committee for Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's North in Chicago.

The pageant is Sunday, Nov. 26. Two Junior Misses, to receive $500 apiece, will be chosen to compete in the state pageant. The two runners-up will each receive $250, and additional scholarships of $100 will be awarded to the senior with the highest scholastic achievement and to the one with the most talent.

Additional information about the interviews is available through the director of the Paddock pageant, Anne Chalikis, 394-2300.

It's Been A Bad Year For Pumpkins

by KAREN BLECHA

It's been a bad year for pumpkins.

But it'll be a worse one for Halloween Jack-o-lanterns if residents aren't willing to pay up to 25 per cent more this year for the same size pumpkin they purchased last fall.

Pumpkin crops in the Northwest suburbs, usually good pumpkin country, have been cut by more than half this year because of heavy rains in past months. Rainy weather means rotting pumpkins and many had to be left on the vine to decay, according to area farmers.

"We really had a bad crop this year," said Mrs. Raymond Pingel of Pingel's Farm Market in Arlington Heights. Mrs. Pingel, who's been selling pumpkins for 17 years, said this is the first time she's had to buy the pumpkins she sells.

MRS. PINGEL PAID $30 a ton for some 50 tons of pumpkins bought near Kankakee. She said some farmers have paid up to $60 a ton for pumpkins wholesale, about $20 to $25 more than last year's crop.

"And we used to make $25 to $30 a ton by selling our own," said Mrs. Pingel.

Pingel's Market this year charges up to $3 a pumpkin depending on size, a price similar to that charged by most stands in the suburbs.

Mrs. W. Grismer, who for 15 years has been selling pumpkins from the front lawn of her home at 1225 W. Golf Road, agrees it's been a bad year for the golden fruit.

"The rain was a real problem. It's been the worst year we have ever seen. They've rotted on the vines and the rain even washed some out completely. They're very scarce and a lot smaller this year, too," she said.

It's also harder to get the pumpkins out of the soggy fields, said Mrs. Grismer whose three sons raise the fruit on a farm in Huntley, Ill. "You can't get in the fields to get the pumpkins," she said.

Mrs. Grismer says the heavy rains haven't daunted her customers. "They've been out here looking, holding on to their umbrellas," she said.

But Wallace Busse, who sells at a stand at 712 Landmeier Rd., in Elk Grove Village, said business has been bad.

"IT'S BEEN VERY slow. I think it's because of the weather and because people are concerned the pumpkins won't keep very long," said Busse, who this year harvested only one-third of his usual pumpkin crop.

He said the price of his pumpkins has gone up this year to help make up for the loss. "Somebody's got to pay for it," he said. "But it looks now like the people are willing to let the farmers take the loss."

She's A School Problem Solver

by WANDALYN RICE

Mary Kloris is getting a picture of how students are treated in schools around the state of Illinois.

In the first six weeks that she has served as student affairs coordinator for State School Supt. Michael Bakalis, Miss Kloris has:

—Handed six cases in which students were in trouble for long hair, including one in which 75 boys were suspended because their hair touched the top of their ears;

—Worked with six cases of school age parents, including one in which a boy was expelled from school because his wife, also a high school student, became pregnant;

—Discovered a school district that was charging students a rental fee for desks, an action clearly prohibited by state law.

IN ALL, THE 22-year-old state official has investigated 42 complaints from parents and students on student rights since she took over her post on Sept. 1.

When investigating complaints, she said she has discovered "most of the time the school districts aren't being malicious, vicious or cruel — they just don't know about student rights."

Nearly all the complaints, which have come from some rural towns, suburban areas and the City of Chicago, have been resolved simply by restoring communications between school officials and the person filing the complaint, she said. "I don't think I've had one uncooperative administrator," she added. "Some of them are floored that a pregnant girl can't be kicked out of school, but they cooperate."

MARY KLORIS

Miss Kloris, an attractive blonde, has been working for Supt. Bakalis since Feb. 1971, first in dealing with higher education, then with pupil service, which works for students, and finally in her present position.

She was graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism from Northern Illinois University and a master's from Sangamon State College in Springfield. She has "taken one education course in my life" but began working in student rights early in her stint with Bakalis.

IN FACT, SHE said, "While I was working in higher education I got my focus because they are at least five years ahead on student rights and I thought, 'If that's what things are like here, what must they be like in the lower grades?' "

In addition to investigating complaints that come in around the state, she is now working to inform students and parents of student rights, is helping a commission draw up a proposal to place a student on every school board in the state and is developing a student rights handbook. The job of informing the public she says, is especially important for poor people. "In a suburban area people probably know how to complain, but when you're dealing with poor people, you often find they want to help their children but don't know how."

A commission made up of students and adults, is now working to draw up legislation putting students on all school boards as nonvoting members, she says. She is working closely with the group and has suggested that the age limit on student board members be 12, at least to begin with.

"THE LAW WOULD be reviewed after the first year," she said, "but I didn't just pull the age of 12 out of thin air. There is research showing that age makes sense."

The commission is working hard on the proposal, she said, adding that she is especially impressed with the student members. "By setting this commission up, Dr. Bakalis has really put his faith in kids and said, 'put your money where your mouth is.' At our first meeting two kids were missing their football games, but they came and worked hard."

She has found the same reaction from other students she has dealt with around the state. "When students write," she said, "they generally aren't complaining. They are asking how they can participate in decisions. When you consider all the bad publicity kids get, it's really good to know they want to be involved."

One problem she has yet to run into, she said, is resentment because of her own youth, even though at one meeting she called she was mistaken for the secretary. "The office does carry prestige with it," she said, "and I don't go in and say I'm the boss when I talk to school administrators. I'm here to help and you don't get anything accomplished the other way."

Junior High Basketball Begins Nov. 11

The Des Plaines Park District has invited all junior high age boys to participate in an organized basketball league. The program is offered every Saturday morning at Iroquois Junior High School, Chippewa Junior High School, and Algonquin Junior High School beginning at 9 a.m. on Nov. 11.

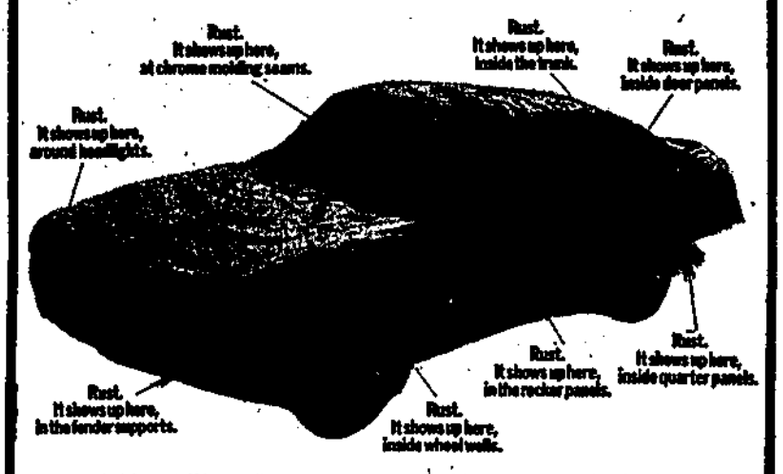

Regular teams will be formed and round robin competition will be conducted. Awards will be presented to the winning teams.

Also, an open gym basketball program will be available to all college age boys who reside within the Des Plaines Park District boundaries. The open gym program will be held every Thursday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Chippewa Junior High School from Nov. 9 to February 29.

Rand Park's gymnasium, 2025 Miner St., will be open every Saturday afternoon from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. beginning Saturday, Nov. 11 for free play basketball. The gym will remain open until the end of March.

The auto-makers haven't done it. So we did.

They still haven't unveiled the rustproof car.

And they probably never will.

Because real rustproofing just can't be handled on an assembly line. And undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't help either.

But at Ziebart, we use nine patented spray tools to get inside your car's body. Inside, where rust starts.

We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car absolutely rustproof. Up to 35% more soundproof. And worth more money when you trade it in.

The Ziebart process is so foolproof, in fact, that we'll guarantee your new car against rust for 5 years or 50,000 miles.

There's only one Ziebart process. And only one place to get it. Through an authorized Ziebart dealer.

The one nearest you is listed on the back.

Garden Club Plans Program Of Holiday Floral Designs

The annual holiday presentation of the Des Plaines Garden Club will feature Mrs. Russell W. Christensen in a program of special floral design on Thursday, Nov. 2, at Rand Park Field House. The event will begin with refreshments promptly at noon.

Mrs. Christensen's program will highlight such holidays as Thanksgiving, Christmas and the New Year with designs for door swags and wall hangings and other ideas for decorating "all through the house." Her background in floral design includes being a nationally accredited flower show judge and an instructor in the Ikenobo School of Japanese Flower Arranging, and teaching all phases of flower arranging to adult education classes.

MRS. RAYMOND LARSON, ways and means chairman, will have a variety of holiday gift items on hand and Mrs. Richard Wisniewski, horticulture chairman, will distribute literature relating to selection and care of trees for home planting.

Tickets, at $1.50, may be procured from most of the Garden Club members. For further information, anyone interested may contact Mrs. Larson, 766-8356, or Mrs. Eugene Tamillo, 824-1383.

Mrs. Henry Kussa, hostess chairman, reminds members who volunteered their refreshment specialties to bring them to the fieldhouse by 11:30 a.m. the day of the program. Mrs. Kussa will be assisted by Mrs. Emil Fick, Mrs. G. E. Goldsmith and Mrs. Paul Landt.

Next On The Agenda

PARK RIDGE DAR

A tour of Park Ridge's three oldest churches will be part of the program of the Bicentennial Workshop to be held by the Park Ridge Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. The workshop is slated for Wednesday, Nov. 1, from 9:30 to 3 p.m.

"Faith of Our Fathers" is the theme in discovering interesting facts about First Methodist, St. Mary's Episcopal and Community Church. The morning session will be spent working on heritage handcrafts and braille flags for veterans and local children.

DES PLAINES WOMAN'S CLUB

"Furs in Fashion" by John Pavlis Furs of Chicago is the program to be presented when the Des Plaines Woman's Club gathers for its next general meeting, Monday, Nov. 6, at Rand Park Field House. Club members will model the furs while Mrs. Pavlis serves as show commentator. Models are: Mrs. Savena Gorsline, Mrs. Leo Knittle, Mrs. Peter Heinisch, Mrs. Harold Peterson, Mrs. Arthur Outlaw, Mrs. James O'Brien, Mrs. Edward Abrahamson and Mrs. Robert Garrison.

The meeting will begin with dessert luncheon at 12:30 p.m. served by Mrs. James Fisher and co-hostess Mrs. E. J. Williamson, with Mrs. Cedric Crane, Mrs. Clifford May and Mrs. Raymond Pelz assisting. The business meeting follows at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Outlaw presiding.

KAPPA DELTA

"A Time to Learn Ceramics" will be the theme of the Northwest Suburban Kappa Delta Alumnae Association meeting Monday, at 8 p.m. This meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dabiel Healy, 100 E. Dennis Road, Wheeling.

Co-hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Russell Oller of Des Plaines and Mrs. Lee Haze and Mrs. Richard Zielinski, both of Arlington Heights.

New members interested n attending this meeting should congact Mrs. Thomas Meier at 824-5336.

The Home Line

by Dorothy [illegible]

Dear Dorothy: I was tempted to buy a frozen turkey roast, but held back because there are only the two of us. Can this be cooked in three hours, as the directions say, and be refrozen to be used later? And would it taste good when heated again and served?—Eleapor Allen

The answers are "yes" and "fine" to everything you ask. Any frozen meat can be cooked and refrozen once. You have to be careful about only two things: cooling the meat properly and then wrapping it correctly in moistureproof-vaporproof material. Go ahead.

Dear Dorothy: Somewhere along the line I acquired an 8-inch glass plate and it is my most useful tool when I make a graham cracker crust in my 9-inch glass plate. After I've pressed the crumbs (with sugar and butter) in the plate, I use the smaller plate as an insert to even out all the ridges.—Sondra Bechoeffer

Dear Dorothy: There are tiny nicks on the rims of some of my treasured crystal stemware. Ours is a small town and there is no one near to whom I can take them for buffing. Is there anything I can do on my own?—Grace N.

You can experiment — at your own risk, mind you — on one of the small nicks by rubbing it gently with an emery board. Specialized repair shops that do this kind of work advertise in national publications so, if the buffing experiment doesn't work, you might consider looking into these firms.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any nutritive difference between butter and margarine?—Julia G.

None. However, if it's important to you, butter is rated as saturated, vegetable margarine as polyunsaturated.

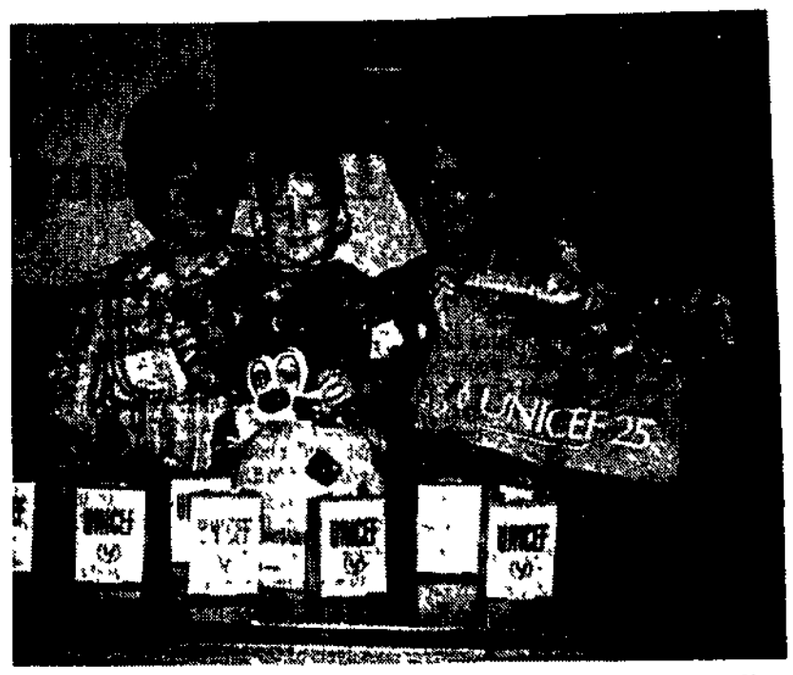

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Program Nov. 2 On Plant Photos

"Photography for the Horticulturist" will be the topic of a workshop program presented by the Chicago Horticultural Society, Thursday, Nov. 2, at 1:30 p.m. The program will be at the Society's Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway, between Dundee and Lake Cook Roads.

The program will be presented by Kee T. Chang, photo department manager of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry. Through the use of twin screen projections, he will illustrate and explain the differences in types of film, film speeds and exposures for specific effects. The talk will be geared to appeal to advanced amateur photographers, discussing techniques particularly related to the filming of horticultural subjects.

Reservations are suggested for this workshop. They may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Fran Whittin, Chicago Horticultural Society at 332-2868.

CARTON IN HAND, Mike Sloncen, 3, awaits Halloween when he and other children of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines will "Trick or Treat for UNICEF." Mrs. Lance Sloncen, left, is UNICEF chairman of the club; Mrs. Richard Fielden, right, is International Relations chairman.

Little Spooks Help UNICEF

Children of members of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines will participate in the annual Halloween "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" drive Tuesday Oct. 31, national UNICEF day.

They will be collecting pennies in their UNICEF cartons which will be used to purchase medical and school supplies, vitamins and vaccines for children in more than 100 nations.

For more than 20 years, millions of American children have helped children of other countries through the United Nations Children's Fund. UNICEF funds help countries to help themselves.
